U. S. Price Fixing Urged for Staple

Coal Code, Easier Credit Mark Turning Point, Pittman Told.

A nation-wide conference of agricultural representatives, if the Administration does not take early steps to increase farm prices through currency inflation, was authorized last night by a delegation from nine cotton States.

The delegation, despite word from the White House that President Roosevelt opposed inflation of currency at this time, also directed a letter to the President, urging him to consider resolutions submitted earlier in the day, fixing cotton prices.

That the proposed conference of agricultural representatives might be extended to include representatives of industry and veterans' organizatons in a "march of a million men" on Washington was asserted at a secret cotton conference Monday by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma.

Views of President.

Word from the White House, where the President was too ill to receive a representation of cotton men yesterday, was that President Roosevelt believed the signing of the coal code had marked a turning point in the recovery program and that continuation of the program of increasing credit and encouraging free flow of money already available was the best course for the time being.

The cotton men learned of the President's opposition to any attempt to rush the administration into currency inflation through Senator Key Pittman (Democrat), Nevada, who had gone to the White House to urge inflation through free silver coinage. He found President Roosevelt confined with a cold which prevented him seeing many visitors.

Name Committees.

Among those disappointed in not seeing the President were 100 cotton men who went to present a resolution calling for inflation and pegging the cotton price at 20 cents a pound and cottonseed prices at $30 a ton.

Unable to see the President, the cotton men set up a committee to remain here until he recovers from

350 Arrested In Nazi Raids

50 Charged With Plotting Sabotage, Posing as "Intellectuals."

Berlin, Sept. 19 (AP).—Approximately 300 were arrested today in simultaneous raids by police and storm troopers on Communist and Leftist dwellings in the Harz Mountain district. Seventy-five were held. The others released.

It was estimated more than 1,000 police and storm troopers participated in the raids, staged after a man described as a Communist courier was intercepted en route to the district. Among those arrested was a native of Holland.

Officials at Ulm announced approximately 50 men and women were arrested at a castle near Heidenheim-Wuerrtemberg. Authorities charged them with plotting sabotage against the state under the guise of intellectual pursuits.

Earl Passes Night Chasing Burglars

Friend of Wales Winner With Poker and Gun.

Dudley, Worcesterchire, England, Sept. 19 (AP).—Swinging a poker in one hand and a revolver in the other, the Earl of Dudley, close friend of the Prince of Wales, spent part of last night chasing burglars at his home, he revealed today.

The earl, who is a good shot, said the robbers took little more than his night's sleep and escaped by diving through a window.

8 Held by U. S. Agents On Bogus Money Charge

York, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP).—Secret service operatives claimed to have smashed a counterfeiting ring tonight with arrest of Charles and Nelson Horn, operators of a York engraving plant, and Theodore Hertzog, of York, whom the agents accuse of having printed 5,000 bogus notes.

Four other men and a woman have been arrested in connection with the ring, which agents said passed more than 1,000 counterfeit bills.

Named Air Chief

Underwood & Underwood.

Roper Names Vidal Director Of Aeronautics

Efficiency Held Goal as Commerce Department Reorganizes Branch.

Reorganization of the aeronautics branch of the Commerce Department, under directorship of Eugene L. Vidal, formerly an assistant director and for 12 years an active pilot, was announced last night by Secretary Roper.

Divisions within the branch were reduced from three to two. They will be known as the air navigation and air regulation divisions. The first will be headed by Rex Martin and the second by Maj. J. Carroll Cone, both serving now as assistant directors.

"Under this plan of organization the aeronautics branch will function with greater efficiency and will be able to render a greater service to the industry and to the public," Secretary Roper said.

Move Follows Criticism.

The reorganization followed criticism of the department for alleged "politics" in airway administration and for reputed failure to keep all airways lighted. Roper recently sought adequate funds from the Budget Bureau to light airways.

Under the reorganization, radio research and airways mapping, formerly sections in the Aeronautics Development Service, will become part of the air navigation division. Airport engineering consultation also will be handled by this group, while airport promotion and rating work will be under the general inspection activities of the air regulation division. The aeronautics information section and the administrative section hereafter will report directly to the Director of Aeronautics.

The air regulations section will have three principal subdivisions, one dealing with air-line inspection another with general inspection covering miscellaneous dying, and a third including registration, engineering, medical, accident and enforcement work.

Active in Air Field.

A native of South Dakota, Vidal was educated at the University of South Dakota and at West Point. He was the first Army air officer to serve at West Point as instructor. Resigning from the Air Corps in 1926, he has since served with Transcontinental Air Transport, the Ludington Line and the technical committee headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Vidal was one of the founders of the Ludington Line. He is a son-in-law of Senator Gore of Oklahoma, and lives at 3930 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Maj. Cone has been identified for 16 years with both military and commercial aeronautics. Martin was a wartime airman.

Police Hunt Killer Of Firm Executive

Dapper Suspect Trailed in New Orleans Slugging.

New Orleans, Sept. 19 (AP).—A dapper man of 25 was sought today in the slaying and robbery of Sheffield Clark, 61, business executive of Nashville, Tenn., in a hotel room.

Clark was beaten over the head and choked to death. The coroner said Clarke was slain probably Sunday night although the body was not discovered until 24 hours later.

Sunday night a young man appeared at the hotel parking lot, posed as Clark's son, and took the murdered man's car.

NRA Asked to Furnish Unusual 'Job' Prospects

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 19 (AP).—Perhaps the Huntington, W. Va., woman thinks NRA stands for Nuptial Relations Association. At least, a letter received at NRA headquarters here from the woman read:

"Please send me the names of two reliable men who would make good husbands, as I wish to correspond with them with matrimonial intentions." A dime was enclosed.

Labor Ready To Walk Out In NRA Fight

Green Gives Warning to Code Dodgers to Meet Rules.

16 Companies Accused of Evading Law With Workers.

Organized labor is prepared to strike when necessary to force employers to obey the National recovery act, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, indicated last night in a statement announcing he had filed protests against alleged violations of the law.

Green charged great corporations had attempted to evade the labor protective clause by forming company unions. These unions, the labor leader asserted, are "a fraud from start to finish."

Green issued a list of 16 corporations against which he said he had complained. These included E. I. du Pont de Nemours and two corporations reputedly controlled by former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon.

Forced to Strike.

"We have had to strike to compel obedience to the law and we expect we shall have to do so again," said Green.

"I have presented to Gen. Johnson definite, documentary evidence of astonishing evasions by great employers, some so bold and so hostile to the letter and spirit of the law that I am certain the administration must take immediate and drastic action."

The National Recovery Board, he asserted, has sustained every strike called to force code observance.

Green cited as "typical of company union plans" one proposed by the DuPont Co. Under it, a "works council" would be established in each plant, made up of an equal number of representatives appointed by the management and representatives elected by the employes. If a dispute could not be settled, it would be arbitrated by a committee of three, one named by the appointed representatives, one by the elected representatives, and one chosen by the first two. The company undertakes to provide a meeting place and to pay employes for time spent in meetings.

Charges Coercion.

Labor, he said, always insisted upon meeting in its own quarters on employes' time, with no representatives of employers present. The Du Pont plan, he protested, violates the NRA provision that employes "shall be free from interference, restraint or coercion of employers.

Other corporations listed by Green as having programs unsatisfactory to labor were:

Aluminum Co. of America and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., both known as Mellon corporations; Remington-Rand, Inc.; Delco-Remy, of Anderson, Ind.; RCA Victor Co., Camden, N. J.; Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis.; Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Aliquippa, Pa.; Sinclair Refining Co., Mareus Hook, Pa.;

Official's Father Holdup Victim

Ben Schwartz Robbed as He Enters Apartment.

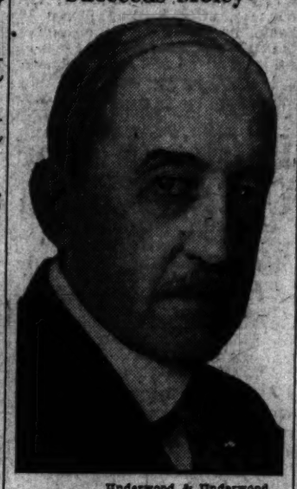
Ben Schwartz, father of Assistant United States Attorney Milford F. Schwartz, was attacked and robbed last night in the hallway of his apartment, 812 Tenth street northwest.

The victim told police he had just returned from a restaurant he operates at 920 F street northwest. Two men accosted him in a downstairs hallway of the apartment house and asked to see a room.

While they talked, one produced a gun and Schwartz was seized and searched. His assailants took a purse containing about $12. They returned a gold watch after finding it was initialed.

A third man, waiting in an automobile, whisked them away.

Succeeds Moley



Underwood & Underwood.

ROBERT WALTON MOORE, who was appointed Assistant Secretary of State yesterday to succeed Prof. Raymond Moley.

Moore Named To Moley Post By President

Former Member of House From Fairfax Made Aid to Hull.

Robert Walton Moore, of Fairfax, former Member of Congress, was named by President Roosevelt yesterday as Assistant Secretary of State.

Long a friend of Secretary of State Hull, Mr. Moore will succeed Prof. Raymond Moley, chief of the President's "brain trust," whose differences with Hull at the World Economic Conference were said to have contributed to his resignation.

Mr. Moore's appointment was kept a secret. His name had not even figured in speculation on Moley's successor until he appeared at the State Department late yesterday, and took the oath of office.

He began work immediately.

Renews Association.

"I consider it a privilege to be associated with Secretary Hull," Mr. Moore said. "We served together for years in the House. It was a long and delightful association, which I am glad to renew."

Because of his newness in the department, Mr. Moore said he preferred not to comment on foreign problems. He has not yet been assigned a definite field of work.

There is reason to believe, however, his duties will cover a wide range of subjects and that he will work in close cooperation with Mr. Hull. The other three Assistant Secretaries are specialists. It is customary to have one assistant to work on special problems as they arise.

During the major part of his service in the House from 1921 to 1931, Moore was a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

Native of Fairfax.

Mr. Moore recalled yesterday that he supported a number of measures designed to build up the U. S. Foreign Service.

The new assistant represents the "Southern colonel" type. Tall gray-haired, thin-faced, he speaks precisely despite a Southern drawl. He was born at Fairfax 74 years ago and has lived there ever since. He is a bachelor.

A lawyer by profession, Mr. Moore is a graduate of William and Mary College, a Democrat and an Episcopalian.

On Liquor Board.

Richmond, Sept. 19 (AP).—Informed of R. Walton Moore's appointment as Assistant Secretary of State, Gov. Pollard said tonight he did not believe the appointment should interfere with Mr. Moore's service as a member of the Liquor Control Commission of Virginia.

Whether Mr. Moore's appointment would necessitate the naming of a successor on the State Board of Education was a matter which the governor could not answer.

The governor was "delighted to learn of Mr. Moore's appointment," and said "it's excellent."

They Wait No More for Watch —Mail-Carrying Dog Is Slain!

Luray, Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.). Watch, a mail-carrying dog, whose twice-a-week trips carried him along a path in the Blue Ridge between Page and Madison Counties, has been slain. Hundreds of persons who live along the mountain path mourn.

Watch's original owner, David Nichols, of Madison County, is dead. The widow's former home was in Page County, where many of her relatives now live. After moving to Madison County, Mrs. Nichols used the dog as her mail carrier, sending missives to her relatives in Page. A letter inclosed in a small box tied around the dog's neck served as the mail bag.

When the box was tied Watch was put in the mountain path and told to get it to its destination post haste. The dog learned to understand instructions, following the path from Mrs. Nichols' home to that of her Page County relatives. In an hour's time he always covered the 10 miles.

At Mrs. Nichols' old home Watch always waited for an answer to be written. This done, the dog carried the letter back to the Nichols home.

One day Watch fought another dog whose home was along the mail route. Watch won but made an enemy of the owner of the waylaying dog who several times tried to snatch the mail from the canine carrier's neck.

When the opportunity came the man sent a bullet through the postal dog's heart.

6,000 Lose Postal Jobs In New Order

350 Married, Rest to Get Pensions on 30-Year Service Record.

In a sweeping order affecting rural mail carriers and postal workers everywhere in the field, the Postoffice Department yesterday separated nearly 6,000 employes from the service.

Washington apparently was untouched by the dismissal notices sent to every other section of the country. They become effective September 30.

Approximately 350 of those hit are married persons with husbands or wives in the service. The rest are employes with a service ecord of 30 years or more. They will be retired with a pension under the involuntary retirement provision of the Independent offices act.

Planned for Months.

Department officials for months have intimated the Postoffice field service was "overmanned" and that retrenchment steps must be taken to keep within appropriations.

It was learned the reduction of field forces may not stop with yesterday's separations. At least 3,000 more are scheduled to go, it was said.

The department employs approximately 239,048 workers outside of Washington, according to June 30 figures. Separations will continue, The Post was informed, until this number is cut to around 230,000.

Department officials defended the dismissal of married workers as necessary under the law before other separations could be ordered.

They pointed to a ruling of the Attorney General, holding the married group must be the first dismissed where reductions are made in the force.

None "Put on Street."

In resorting to forced retirements rather than outright discharges, officials contended they are adhering to Postmaster General Farley's announced policy of "not putting any one out on the street."

They argued Government pensions will be enough to support the thousands involuntarily retired, while married workers will have the income of their mates in the service to fall back upon.

Accounting for failure of the dismissal program to hit the Washington departmental staff, officials said there is "little if any surplus" on the local force.

Vare's Machine Rolls to Victory

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP).—In a bitter primary election the powerful organization of National Committeeman William S. Vare, on the face of unofficial returns, today captured every Republican nomination for the so-called "row offices," choicest of the city's political plums.

In putting over his own slate Vare was forced to abandon his asserted political ally, John O'Donnell, veteran chairman of the Democratic city committee, whose candidates, on the basis of incomplete figures, were running about 3 to 1 back of those indorsed by a new independent group, whose election slogan was "Have you had enough of Vare?"

In the past, when O'Donnell's political life has been threatened, the Republican organization reputedly came to the rescue by registering enough Republicans as Democrats to swamp the few thousand regularly registered Democrats.

This year Republican registration fell off considerably, while the Democratic enrollment mounted to 185,000—an all-time record.

Pope Turns Fire On Immoral Books

Scores Publicity in Talk to Advertising Men.

Vatican City, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—Pope Pius XI bitterly attacked "excessive publicity" being given to what he termed immoral and antisocial books.

In an address last night to delegates at the International Advertising Congress, he singled out a book, "The Perfect Marriage," by a Dutch physician. He said the book received colossal publicity and was translated into many languages.

He declared it should properly have been entitled, "The Depraved Marriage."

Death Takes Daughter Of Washington Jurist

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Bromberg, 39, former Assistant United States Attorney here and daughter of former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, died in a hospital here tonight. She suffered with a rare form of anemia. Her father, now a judge of the United States Court of Customs in Washington, and her mother were en route here when her death occurred.

2 More States Favor Repeal By Big Margins

New Mexico Margin Rolls Up 3 to 1; Much Closer in Idaho.

(Associated Press.)

Repealists are counting Idaho and New Mexico as States Nos. 30 and 31 in the mounting anti-prohibition column, on the basis of early but substantial leads in yesterday's balloting.

New Mexico's vote to abolish the eighteenth amendment was running nearly 3 to 1. Idaho's polling was much closer, but a member of the State Council of the Idaho Allied Drys conceded the State for repeal.

In unbroken succession, 29 States already have voted to ratify the repeal amendment. Thirty-six are needed.

Idaho Wets Have Lead.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 19.—Idaho tonight gave an early indication of joining the 29 States favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Against repeal, 31,943.

The home precinct of Senator Borah, prominent dry, voted more than 2 to 1 for repeal. The vote in the precinct was 307 for repeal and 120 against. Borah voted early against repeal.

The widest margin of any county reporting was that of Franklin County, giving 1,948 against repeal to 454 for repeal. It is a southeastern Idaho county, settled in the early days by members of the Latter Day Saints Church from Utah.

Wets Lead by 3 to 1.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Sept. 19 (U.P.).—With returns complete from more than one-fourth of the State's 785 precincts, New Mexico appeared tonight to be giving a majority of about 3 to 1 for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Returns from 319 precincts gave:

For repeal, 19,753.

Against repeal, 7,302.

Only in the eastern section of the State were drys holding their own, the reports indicated. In Clovis County the first precincts to report showed majorities against repeal.

In the southern, western, and central parts of the State, however, repealists were rolling up majorities of 3 and 4 to 1.

The vote on the issue of repeal of the State bone dry amendment was about the same as that on national repeal, reports showed.

Lindberghs Poised For Leningrad Hop

Stockholm, Sept. 19 (AP).—Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh rested at Karlskrona Naval Air Station tonight with their plane fueled and ready to go.

Their destination has not been announced, but a Russian visa was stamped on Lindbergh's passport at Stockholm. The next halt may be Leningrad.

Plea of Death Fails As "Ghost" Appears

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP).—Henry Huntington, a lawyer, stood before Federal Judge George Cosgrave today ready to ask dismissal of a liquor charge against Mike Bernardino. Huntington said he had been told Bernardino was dead.

"If your client is dead," the court asked, "who is that person standing behind you?"

"M-ike's g-g-ghost," Huntington choked, and apologized to the court. After explanations Mike's trial was set for February.

Farley Plan Upset On Job Patronage By Just One Name

Added to the perils of patronage should be the tale relayed yesterday from Postmaster General "Jim" Farley's diggings.

Swamped with applications for jobs, he ordered a stenographer to sort applications, putting into a preferred stack those bearing indorsements of two senators, a National committeeman, and a scattering of mere representatives.

Into a second heap went those with fewer indorsements. A last and lowly heap, but largest of all, was reserved for those with only one indorser.

The idea seemed sound enough until the White House complained about inaction on one appointee. His application finally was found in the last heap.

It bore the name of only one indorser, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Bank Accounts $10,000 Short; Teller Sought

Defalcation May Reach $25,000, But Suspect Evades Arrest.

With revelation of a $10,000 shortage in the accounts of the United States Savings Bank, Department of Justice officials also revealed yesterday that for more than a month they have sought a former employe of the bank.

It is understood a warrant for the employe, a teller, charges him with embezzling approximately $4,500, though the shortage already found is more than double that amount, and it is believed the total will be about $25,000.

In their search for the man, it is reported that on several occasions Justice agents had him located, but each time he evaded them.

Two brothers, Charles S. Baker and Edward A. Baker, were arrested yesterday for the alleged embezzlement of approximately $4,500 from the Prudential Bank, a colored institution recently merged with the Industrial Savings Bank. Arrested at their Girard street home, they were taken before United States Commissioner Turnage, who ordered them held in bonds of $5,000 each, pending formal hearing September 26.

President Better But Rests for Day

Senator Pittman Is Only White House Caller.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt remained away from his desk again yesterday but was up and around the Executive Mansion and apparently had about recovered from his cold.

Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, his only caller, had luncheon with him in his study. He described Mr. Roosevelt as "feeling pretty good."

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said a "fraction of temperature" remained yesterday morning and led the President to stay away from his desk another day.

The regular meeting of the recovery council was held in the Cabinet room during the afternoon. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, presided in the absence of the President.

Insull to Request Extradition Delay

Counsel to Ask for Time to Study Documents.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 19 (AP).—Counsel for Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, will request a "reasonable delay" in the extradition case pending against him.

This was made clear today after documents for the proceedings had been filed by Forest Harness, of the United States Attorney General's office.

Insull refused to comment when the papers had bene filed.

New Junta Government Proposed; Soldiers Hunt Rebel Chief.

Havana, Cuba, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—A clash between a loyal army force and the rebel band of Capt. Juan Blas Hernandez near Tamarindo in northwestern Camaguey Province was reported here tonight.

The United Press correspondent at Camaguey City reported that a military train arrived at Chambas at 4 p. m., and was divided into two sections. One section, which went towards Tamarindo, was said to have had a brief engagement with Blas Hernandez's forces.

The office of Chief of Staff Bautista claimed that Capt. Benitez and his men had surrounded Blaz Hernandez at Taino, in Camaguey Province.

At the same time reports were received from Santa Clara Province of two additional small uprisings.

One group of 50 rebels was said to be at Santis Spiritus, Santa Clara Province.

President Would Quit.

Havana, Sept. 19 (AP).—Beset by serious rebellion in Camaguey Province, President Ramon Grau San Martin tonight put up to his supporters the decision whether he should abdicate in response to a five-fold demand by opposition groups.

The president announced he had written his resignation and handed it to his political followers, expressing willingness to "abide by their decision."

Meanwhile the government dispatched a trainload of soldiers and students toward Moron, in northwestern Camaguey Province, to combat an uprising led by Juan Blas Hernandez, veteran rebel leader against the regime of former President Gerardo Machado.

Ultimatum Studied.

The Student Directory, staunch supporters of the present regime, went into permanent session to consider the opposition ultimatum that Grau San Martin step out to enable formation of a "truly national" government.

"Rebel" Leads Tammany Man

Insurgent Far Ahead in Comptroller Race; O'Brien Leads.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Denied a place on the regular Democratic ticket, Frank J. Prial, veteran deputy comptroller, threatened on the basis of incomplete returns tonight to wrest the comptrollership nomination away from Tammany.

Prial, entering the primary as an independent, had polled 87,815 votes, against 65,477 for John N. Harman, the organization's choice, when 1,625 districts out of a city-wide total of 3,794 reported.

O'Brien, with 1,575 districts tabulated, piled up a total of 112,681, compared with 32,510 ballots cast for Congressman Loring M. Black, his nearest independent rival.

Prial, denied the comptrollership nomination by Tammany after a quarter century of service in the comptroller's office, was leading Harman in the latter's home borough of Brooklyn.

Army Flier Aids Cosmic Ray Hunt

Soars Four Miles Above Earth for Millikan.

Riverside, Calif., Sept. 19 (AP). Using an Army bombing plane to carry sensitive instruments nearly four miles above the earth, Dr. Robert Millikan, noted scientist, today resumed efforts to learn more about the cosmic ray.

An Army pilot, garbed in 25 pounds of winter flying clothes and equipped with oxygen tanks took the instruments aloft.

Several flights are expected to be made daily for two weeks.

Waynesboro, Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.).—A lone hawk flew over Scott's Mountain near here today and craned its neck at another bird resting there—a giant, winged monster made of plywood and fabric.

An hour later, towed by a small roadster and a long rubber rope, the huge, man-made bird took off the rocky top of the mountain, bearing in its fuselage Richard C. du Pont, heir to the du Pont millions and aspirant to the world's long-distance sailplane record.

De Pont failed to make a record. He stayed aloft in his sleek, plywood ship without aid of mechanical power for more than an hour, but was forced to come down due to adverse air currents. He landed near Grottoes, Va., after gliding about 22 miles. He had planned to try to reach Harpers Ferry if the air currents were right.

Du Pont had sailed his motorless plane to an altitude of 5,000 feet above the valley and was headed for his goal when the air currents changed.

With du Pont on the expedition are Art Lawrence, of Rhode Island, and Rudolph Setz, of Philadelphia. The record attempts are being made under supervision of National Aeronautical Association. The sail plane carried a sealed barograph upon which records of the ship's movements were recorded.

Du Pont's plane is a masterpiece of soaring equipment. It is designed to minimize wind resistance and drag. The wings are built like those of bird, with a bend in the leading edge and a thin, feather-like outer point.

They have a spread of 60 feet. Once in the cockpit, the pilot is completely inclosed in a cowling that eliminates practically the last bit of wind resistance, due to a break in the streamlining.

The spot atop the mountain where du Pont took off this morning is one of the highest in the Blue Ridge. It is practically flat with a scattering of rocks that caused the pilot considerable trouble. The plateau gives way to a sharp incline which makes it an ideal place from which to be catapulted.

H. C. "Gus" Haller is present with another plane and was up for nearly an hour this afternoon. He said the spot was ideal for sail planing. His ship was waterlogged from having been in the rain en route here, he said.

The expedition is making headquarters at the Swannanoa County Club on a mountain top nearby. Du Pont will repeat his record attempt tomorrow if the weather is favorable, he said.

Du Pont Aloft 2 Hours.

The expedition headed by du Pont plans three assaults on the record tomorrow if weather permits. Du Pont, H. C. Haller, of Pittsburgh, and Warren E. Eaton, of New York City, will each take to the air in specially constructed planes in an effort to lower the record.

Du Pont's plane, designed by William Hawley Bowles, chief engineer of the Curtiss-Wright Technical Institute of Aeronautics, was said to be among the highest performance sailplanes in the United States.

The flights are under the supervision of the American Aeronautical Association and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Arthur L. Lawrence, of Providence, R. I., S. A. I. timer, is directing the expedition.

Mountain folk watched in wide-eyed amazement when the sailplane soared over the launching automobile and climbed high into the clouds.

Estate of Goulds In New Litigation

Trustees of $2,175,000 Ask Court Handle It.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP).—Once more the estate of the Goulds, in litigation nearly two decades, is in the courts. Trustees ask the New Jersey Court of Chancery to administer $2,175,000 of the late George J. Gould's estate.

Schuyler Nielson Rice, of Highland Park, and the Commercial Trust Co. of New Jersey, Jersey City, trustees, today sought to shun responsibility for the fund on the ground the court already controls another fund of $1,825,000, and that it should handle both.

The sums comprise a $4,000,000 bequest George Gould left when he died May 16, 1923, for the benefit of his widow, who would in turn leave it, share and share alike, to his ten children.

New Tuberculosis Sanitarium Urged

$1,000,000 Public Works Fund Requested.

Resolution urging the Director of the Public Works Administration to grant the District Commisioners request for $1,000,000 for a new tuberculosis sanitarium was passed yesterday by the Tuberculosis Association.

The resolution recites there are only 200 beds for tubercular patients in the District, although there were 599 deaths from the disease here last year.

The accepted proportion of beds a metropolitan city should have, according to the report, is one for each annual death. Tuberculosis deaths have increased slightly this year, the report stated.

Price Fixing Storm Brewing In Retail Code

Discussions affecting the economic life of the country are being held by National Recovery Administration officials over price fixing and provisions of the retail code.

Preparation of the retail code is the major task facing the NRA following disposal of the bituminous coal code. However, it was laid aside yesterday while Administrator Hugh S. Johnson attended a meeting at the White House and other NRA officials prepared to go to New York to consider workings of the steel code.

Returning from the Executive Mansion, Johnson, it was reported, devoted himself to preparation of a survey of NRA accomplishments.

Hearings Conducted.

Other proceedings suffered submergence in the interest of the major questions, although deputy administrators conducted hearings on codes for the printing and related industries, limestone, saddlery and funeral industries. Other divisions went forward with preparations for their campaign of country-wide education.

There was no indication yesterday as to how far the fight over the price-fixing, cost-plus provisions of the retail code would extend. Arthur D. Whiteside, deputy administrator, in charge of preparation of the code, was reported to have refused to listen to protests of representatives of the Consumers Advisory Board that the code be formulated without the cost-plus provisions.

Because of the reported dissension, the function of the consumers board has been lagging. However, the services of Dexter Keezer, former newspaperman and economist, have been acquired and this group, headed by Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, is expected to take a leading part in the discussion.

The board ran into difficulty shortly after its organization, which led to the resignation of Prof. William F. Ogburn, of Chicago.

Members of the advisory group are reported to be counting heavily that when Johnson carries the retail code to President Roosevelt for approval he also will present the reasons why the board disapproved the cost-plus provision. It is their contention that such a provision means committing the Government to a policy of difficult ramifications.

10 Per Cent Above Cost.

The code which is being drafted is reported to contain a provision that no article may be sold by a retailer at less than 10 per cent above its cost to him. Another clause stipulates no food products may be sold at least for more than a 7-per-cent mark-up; another that trade-marked goods may not be sold at less than 79 per cent of the price at which they are listed by the manufacturer.

Consumer representatives contend the provisions mean that the Government undertakes to guarantee cost of operation to inefficient distributors; that prices must inevitably be increased beyond the point they otherwise would be; that there is no guard against extraordinary and—at times—compulsory exorbitant, profits; that it may introduce, under Government sanction, a new form of bootlegging.

NRA officials said they had received thousands of communications on the subject. It was asserted that the majority favored the price-fixing provisions.

Escape Scheme Good Until Trusty Resists

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 19 (AP).—An imitation pistol, made from a piece of wood, was used in an attempted escape from jail here today by J. R. Cole, held on a murder charge.

When Cole shoved the "pistol" through the bars of his cell in an effort to intimidate Garland Babbs, trusty, the latter dropped a coffee pot and grabbed the prisoner's arm, twisting the "gun" loose.

Collar Buttons Now May Be Sent Abroad.

(Associated Press.)

Postmasters may now accept gold collar buttons and shirt studs for mailing abroad without first getting the approval of the Treasury or Postoffice Departments.

The Treasury advised the Postoffice yesterday that inasmuch as gold content of these articles, along with spectacle frames, necktie pins, cuff links, knives, fountain pens, and gold-plated pencils usually constitute only a small percentage of the value of the finished product, they can be exported freely now, despite the gold embargo.

Labor Assails Printing Code Offered NRA

Maximum 32-Hour Week, Minimum Wage of 50 Cents Urged.

(Associated Press.)

Organized labor insisted yesterday that any NRA code which reduced unemployment among the 30,000 units of the commercial printing industry must provide a maximum 32-hour work week and a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour.

It suggested the more than 20 codes submitted be combined into one that would join all the printing trades, except newspapers, under one charter and one administrative agency.

Labor's case was presented by Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, in behalf of the International Allied Printing Trades Association, which also includes the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union, Brotherhood of Bookbinders, Photo-Engravers and Stereotypers and Electrotypers Unions.

The commercial printing code before the NRA, Howard said, "was formulated not in the spirit of ascertaining how much the industry could rightfully contribute, but how little it was necessary to concede."

"It ignores entirely the organization and skill of the tradesmen and tradeswomen in the printing industry and proposes a code affecting their economic life without apparent concern as to the consequences to the whole printing industry," he continued.

Howard also argued, the so-called "basic code" for printing does not reflect "the attitude of the more reasonable employers."

Widow Receives Melchers' Estate

Belmont Farm Included, Appraisal Shows.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Half the residuary estate of Gari Melchers, artist, who died November 30 last, was left outright to his widow, Mrs. Corinne Lawton Melchers, of Falmouth, Va., together with $17,612 insurance and the Belmont Farm at Falmouth, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed here today.

The remaining half of the residuary estate was left in trust for his widow, but after her death it is to go to the Artists Fellowship, Inc., to establish the Melchers fund for needy artists. A fund of $5,000 also was bequeathed to the Century Association.

Three Naval Officers Lauded for Gunnery

Three naval officers stationed in Washington and vicinity were recipients yesterday of letters of commendation from Secretary Swanson for outstanding work during the gunnery year 1932-33.

Urschel Says Kidnap Gang Menaced Life

Oklahoma City, Sept. 19 (AP).—Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, related in unemotional voice from the witness stand in Federal court here this afternoon the story of his nine days in the hands of kidnapers who collected $200,000 ransom.

Urschel launched into a full account of his every movement from the time he was hustled out of his palatial home here the night of July 22 until his safe return nine days later. He said his life was threatened.

He was preceded on the stand by his comely wife and Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Jarrett, guests at his home the night of the abduction. They also identified Bates. Mrs. Jarrett identified a photograph of George (Machine Gun) Kelly, who with his wife, Kathryn, is a fugitive, as Bates' gunman companion in the actual kidnaping.

Urschel told of the long, uncomfortable ride to the farm near Paradise, Tex., where he was held captive.

He described the dawn raid that resulted in the capture, August 12, of Harvey Bailey, alleged "master mind," and three members of the family of R. G. Shannon.

March Threat Fails To Rush Inflation

his cold. An effort on the part of the cotton group to see Secretary Wallace proved equally unavailing, and after a conference with Agriculture Administrator Peek they appointed another committee and settled down to await developments.

Later they learned through Senator Pittman, who talked with President Roosevelt, demanding a price of $1.29 for newly minted silver, the President was "greatly encouraged" by the economic situation and was firm on a policy of promoting gradual increase of commodity prices, while working back into the business stream $40,000,000,000 in banks and hoarded in vaults of the Nation.

Action Authorized.

In their action last night, the delegates of nine cotton States authorized Senator Smith, of South Carolina, to call the conference of agricultural representatives if the President persisted in this attitude.

The delegation, despite lengthy debate, was unable to agree upon a resolution calling on governors of the Cotton States to request growers to suspend sale of cotton and cotton seed until the prices are increased to 15 cents a pound and $25 a ton, respectively.

While the silver and cotton spokesmen were making their appeals at the White House the farm credit administration was endeavoring to hasten the movement of credit to agricultural regions.

Bank Stand Defended.

There was also an assertion from the quarterly session of the Federal Reserves advisory council that the banks were being "unfairly and widely criticized on the presumption they are refusing to make loans."

Walter W. Smith, president of the First National Bank in St. Louis, and chairman of the council, declared banks "should not make loans that either can not be collected within a reasonable time or are not eligible for rediscount at Federal Reserve Banks."

Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, announced his agencies are trying to trim the time required for refinancing a farm mortgage by two weeks to a month.

He said he plans to hasten the flow of money into the farm belt to get it moving at the rate of $50,000,000 a month by December.

His plan contemplates putting $400,000,000 through mortgage loans in the next six months by greater liberality in appraising farm lands.

Walls Fall in Pier Fire; Three Firemen Injured

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Sept. 19 (AP).—Crumbling concrete walls drove firemen from Pier 2 tonight as flames ran unchecked through the 1,200-foot waterfront structure, increasing the damage toll to $1,000,000. Three firemen were injured, one critically.

Fire Chief J. W. Churchill announced, after battling flames 18 hours, he had no hope of saving the building. Four thousand tons of cargo provided fuel for the flames.

New Disorders In Cuba Center U. S. Attention

State Department Ready for Instant Action to Aid Americans.

(Associated Press.)

Apparently increasing internal turmoil to the east of Havana, as revealed here by Cuban consular advices, kept lights burning last night in the State Department as officials prepared for instant action if needed.

Secretary Hull appeared grave as he informed newspapermen of excerpts from consular reports, telling of strikes, acts of violence, discord, tension and overthrown local governments in the central and eastern sections of the island.

In Havana itself, Hull said, negotiations between leaders of the split political factions appeared to be tending toward eventual creation of a stable central government.

In other informed quarters it was disclosed that disorders in the interior, coupled with threats of new revolt and the politically tense air around Havana's presidential palace had caused the State Department to abandon any immediate contemplation of Cuban recognition.

In view of conditions as reported here, Marines near Washington and Army troops quartered in various sections were maintained on an instantly mobile status.

Under official orders there was a rearrangement of the more than a score of Navy ships in Cuban waters, as the first line of protection to American citizens should aid be needed.

Cuban Army Fights Three New Revolts

litical mediators last midnight were handed a plan by the opposition factions providing that Grau San Martin and his cabinet abdicate in favor of a so-called "Junta de Sectores."

The size of the Blas Hernandez force was estimated from 100 to 300. The government sought to trap them before they reached Trinidad Hill under the leadership of the man who has come to be known as the "Cuban Sandino."

Plans Reconnoiter.

Three army planes left Camp Columbia at Havana to reconnoiter in the trouble area. Airport officials denied that Col. Fulgencio Batista, former army sergeant who has risen to the post of chief of staff, was in one of the planes.

A regiment of infantry also was sent from Camaguey City. Another detail was reported approaching the zone from Ciego de Airla.

The city hall at Moron was reported seized by students and soldiers who disarmed the police.

Labor Trouble Serious.

The President in the meantime studied five memoranda from opposition political groups, each of which, it was reliably understood, demanded his resignation.

Two thousands employes of the Bethlehem Iron Mines at Daiquiri, near Santiago, were on strike. Several Americans were reported virtual prisoners.

Orders 8-Hour Day.

A decree ordering an 8-hour day in all Cuban commercial and industrial establishments was read from the palace balcony on behalf of the president.

Five thousand demonstrators, including students, railwaymen, artists and writers, shouted approval and the president came out with several student leaders to acknowledge their cheers.

Ruben De Leon, one of the students, said: "This is the first truly Cuban government we have had."

Woman Convict Balked in Escape

Killer of 2 Men Found in Attic at Prison Farm.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 19 (AP).—Hiding in the attic of a building, apparently awaiting an opportunity to escape, Helen Spence Eaton, killer of two men, was found today on the State Prison Farm for Women at Jacksonville.

The comely 22-year-old brunette had gone without food since she disappeared yesterday.

Mrs. Eaton is serving a 10-year sentence for the slaying of Jim Bohots, a DeWitt restaurant operator. She confessed the killing, and cleared up a two-year-old mystery, soon after she was paroled, after serving part of a five-year sentence for shooting to death Jack Worls in a DeWitt courtroom while he was on trial for the murder of her father, Cicero Spence.

Nebraska Pay Rolls Jump $7,350,615

Omaha, Sept. 19 (AP).—In a report to Washington today, Richard L. Metcalfe, Nebraska NRA chairman, said that in 63 of the State's 93 counties "the payroll increase per year amounts to $7,350,615."

Mergers Face Carrier Lines Now in Debt

(Associated Press.)

Extensive reorganization of the railroads that owe large sums to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with consolidation of some independent lines, is being considered in railroad and Government financial circles.

The plans, with one exception, still are in the embryonic stage, but one official said yesterday consolidations were being given serious thought. This, he explained, was especially true of roads in the hands of trustees under the Federal bankruptcy law passed by the last session of Congress.

The consolidation of the Western Pacific Railroad, the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad and its subsidiaries, the Denver and Salt Lake Railway and the Denver and Salt Lake Western, has been suggested. The Interstate Commerce Commission and officials of the R. F. C. proposed this as a means of solving the financial difficulties of the roads. The plan is being worked out in New York by a committee representing the carriers.

The Rio Grande last year borrowed $3,850,000 for new construction. It also borrowed large sums to pay interest.

The Western Pacific likewise borrowed to meet its debts, but when it asked $1,000,000 to pay interest the request was refused.

Green also quoted a letter allegedly from an executive of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., Kansas City, Mo., to department heads, listing employes supposedly not earning the minimum wage fixed by their code.

Strikes Widespread.

(Associated Press.)

Two dynamite blasts in Scranton, Pa., a walk-out of painters and decorators in New York and threats of further laborers' protests marked the strike situation yesterday.

Intercession by the NRA mediation board prevented a strike by millinery factory employes in St. Louis.

Six hundred striking dress workers in St. Louis also agreed to return to work today under an agreement with the mediation board.

Homes Damaged.

One man was injured and homes of two miners were damaged by the Scranton explosions which officials said were the sixth and seventh connected with labor difficulties in that region.

Demanding a 6-hour day, a 5-day week and $1.65 an hour, union painters, decorators and paper hangers struck in New York. Union officials estimated 15,000 had joined the movement.

In Chicago, cleaning and dyeing shop workers awaited word of a union committee on a date to strike. The employes voted to take such action charging employers had not adhered to the NRA code.

Plan Strike Friday.

R. L. Whitlow, labor leader, set next Friday for the walk-out, but said in the meantime steps would be taken to adjust the wage question. Employes are receiving 40 cents an hour, a compromise between the employers' offer of 35 cents and their demand for 50 cents.

Silk mills in New Jersey remained inoperative, workers and employers awaiting action by Federal authorities to solve their deadlock. Pickets blocked an attempt to open two plants.

Records for strike settlements were broken in Detroit yesterday when the NRA Compliance Board took up its first case, and in four hours and five minutes settled a dispute to end a strike of 300 employes at the Bowler Roller Co.

Three Men Indicted In $71,000 Robbery

Amarillo, Tex., Sept. 19 (AP).—Indictment charging O. D. Stevens, D. W. May and M. T. Howard with participation in the $71,000 Texas & Pacific mail robbery in Fort Worth last spring was returned in a partial report of a grand jury in United States District Court today.

The three men also were held for murder of three men, which, the State charges, grew out of division of the loot.

Union Leaders Order Miners To End Strike

Workers Told to Return to Tasks Pending Code Contracts.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19 (AP).—United Mine Workers' officials in District Five, comprising part of the rich Connellsville coke region, tonight ordered members to return to work immediately.

Notifying the miners that President Roosevelt has signed the coal code, the orders directed more than 20,000 miners, who laid down their tools last week, to return to work pending working out of contracts between operators and the union.

The district comprises all of Allegheny, Washington and Butler Counties and parts of Fayette and Westmoreland. Officials estimate its membership at 35,000.

Headquarters of District Four, comprising Fayette and Greene Counties, where approximately 20,000 other miners are out, issued no orders. Officials said they had received no instructions from the district president, William Feeney, who is in Washington.

Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the governor, said her husband invited John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, to come to the strike zone but received no reply.

Search Extended For Lake Victims

Expert Drags Minnesota Water for Bodies.

Ely, Minn., Sept. 19 (AP).—An expert in lake dragging tonight joined the search for the bodies of H. H. Bigelow, St. Paul millionaire, and two others believed to have drowned in Basswood Lake, 20 miles from here.

The expert will assist 40 men, who in a score of boats and a seaplane have scoured the wilderness lake region since Monday.

Mrs. Ralph J. Mather, prominent in St. Paul society, and Howard Schaeffer, of Ely, a guide, who accompanied the Bigelow party on a canoe trip, also are missing. Their overturned canoe was discovered Saturday after a strong wind whipped the lake.

Preacher's Trial Begins On 'Devil' Death Charge

Sulphur Springs, Tex., Sept. 19 (AP).—Presentation of testimony began today in the trial of Coy Oakley, one of two brother itinerant preachers, for the "devil" slaying of Bernice Clayton, 3-year-old invalid, at her home near Linden, Tex., last December.

Meeting Is Held To Select Head Of Jobs Office

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

Miss Adele Clarke, of Richmond, field supervisor of the Virginia reemployment agency, held a meeting in Alexandria yesterday to aid the local committee select a manager. Owing to the absence from the city of two of the committee, City Manager Wallace Lawrence and Councilman E. C. Davison, no selection was made.

Another meeting will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Robert M. Colvin, local chairman, presided. Other members present were Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith and Dan S. Hollenga.

Carroll Pierce, former mayor and president of the Citizens Bank, has been appointed chairman of the Alexandria public works program by Gov. Pollard. He submitted to Gov. Pollard as members of his committee the names of Arthur Herbert, City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan, Harry Hammond and Judge William P. Woolls.

Swinson, a World War veteran, will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery at 11 a. m. tomorrow, with full military honors. He was 47. He lived in Baltimore.

Blonde 'Tested' By Electricity

Meter at Show Reveals, Also, "Kick" in Lemon and Orange.

New York, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—An electric tongue, which can determine the amount of kick in an apple, a watermelon or a blonde, was demonstrated today at Madison Square Garden, where the National Electrical Exposition is to open tomorrow.

Dr. O. H. Caldwell, noted electrical authority, held in his hand a small black meter, about half the size of a speedometer. From the rear of the meter projected two long pointed prongs.

He stuck the prongs into an apple. The meter registered 60. An orange registered 75. A lemon, 90.

Then he called upon Miss Rosemary Lane, singer, and candidate for the title of queen of the exposition. He asked her to stick out her tongue.

The needle was applied to her tongue. It leaped like a startled fawn and hit the top.

A new device called the telautograph was shown. This is an electric pencil, with which President Roosevelt, in Washington, will open the show. As the President writes, a spot of green fire will appear on a large glass disk. The words fade away in about 20 seconds.

Bryce G. Payne Dies Here at 35

Luther C. Steward, sr., recently reelected president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, added to his laurels as champion golfing galleryite by romping six days over the hills and dales of the Kenwood Club golf course in Cincinnati.

En route to Washington from the Kansas City convention, Mr. Steward took a brief vacation that was especially welcome after a strenuous summer of battling for fair treatment to Government employes.

A member of the Congressional Country Club, "Pop," as he is familiarly known, was in the van of the thundering gallery of 6,000 when George T. Dunlap, jr., defeated Max Marston for the national amateur championship.

His son, L. C., jr., also was a participant. The elder Steward gave many words of encouragement to his son. A keen observer of the ancient Scottish pastime, Mr. Steward got the thrill of his life watching Johnny Goodman, Ross Somerville, Lawson Little, Chick Evans and H. C. Egan perform.

It is believed Mr. Steward was the only person connected with Federal activities in Washington who had the pleasure of attending the tournament.

Educator Talks at Rally.

New Market, Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.). At a community mass meeting on the repeal election held last night in the Broadway Presbyterian Church, Dr. J. M. Henry, of Bridgewater College, spoke.

County Favors Falls Church Bus Line Plan

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Unanimous indorsement was given yesterday by the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission to the application of the Arlington-Fairfax Motor Transportation Co. for extension of its service from Glebe road and Memorial drive to Falls Church. A hearing before the State Corporation Commission is scheduled for Friday.

In its opinion, which has been forwarded to the State Corporation Commission, the local commission declares public convenience and necessity require granting the application.

Despite opposition of the Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Co., the findings show the section of the county to be served is far removed from the area now served by the Lee highway division of the coach line. It also shows the service proposed between Falls Church and the Washington-Lee High School in Ballston would be a distinct benefit to the communities involved.

Girl, 8, Speeds Murder Hunt

Boston, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—A small girl's story of an attack perpetrated on her in South Lawrence last July spurred authorities today in their nine-day search for Harry P. Cahill, 45, former Montana cowpuncher, wanted in connection with the strangling of 10-year-old Peggy McCarthy.

The child, 8, identified a photograph of Cahill as that of a man who approached her as she was picking blueberries with three playmates near South Lawrence. He chased away her companions, she said, and attacked her. A police physician confirmed her story.

Cahill, who vanished the day after Peggy's body was found in a Cambridge vacant lot, had made his home in Lawrence. A Lawrence boy told police Cahill was in an automobile and with him was a young girl who resembled photographs of Peggy, the day she disappeared.

Cahill's fingerprints, on file at the Veterans' Administration in Washington, can not be secured, Maj. Gen. J. F. McKinley informed Somerville police, until he has seen a copy of the charges against Cahill and some person who served in the war with him has testified he is the same man sought in connection with the slaying.

1865 Lives Again At G. A. R. Rally

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19 (A.P.).—Those far-away days so dear to the hearts of Civil War veterans were recounted again today at the sixty-seventh annual National encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Between airs played by fife and drum corps, old cronies swapped stories in noisy hotel lobbies at the reunion that for some will be the last.

Judge J. H. Shepherd, 84, Washington, D. C., retold how he went South with Cupid and returned from hostile territory with "the prettiest girl in the Confederacy," whom he married. War Department records, he says, show he is the only survivor of the famous Lincoln Cavalry, sponsored personally by the war-time President.

King George Curtails Hunt in Scotland

Balmoral Scotland, Sept. 19 (A.P.).—King George, although in excellent general health, has curtailed his shooting over the Scottish Moors because of weakness resulting from rheumatism suffered earlier in the year.

He also has omitted some of the formal functions he usually attends during his Scottish holiday because he found it painful to get into a full dress uniform.

Watson, Once Dry, Goes Wet; Seeks Saloons' Substitute

Describes Sale of Liquor as Wholesome, Good Movement.

Veteran political war-horse, James E. Watson, of Indiana, recent Republican Senate leader and former dry, has given his blessing to the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers, formed in anticipation of the return of legal liquor.

He will be the most eminent speaker at the first meeting of the association at the Willard today. He has studied and approved its platform, to be announced today.

"I have taken a good deal of interest in this thing," Senator Watson said. "I took it up just as a patriot. I voted for the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead Act and the enforcement laws. Then repeal was submitted—and I voted for submission—with a surprising result. The people have now determined that liquor is a legitimate business, and as such it must be protected by statute and kept within limitations."

Senator Watson revealed that one problem is to find a new word for "saloon." Retail beverage dealers hope wet States will designate "places" where liquor may be consumed.

"I am indorsing this organization because I went through the whole prohibition business and I don't want to see the country go through it again," Senator Watson said. "We need some Nation-wide agency to bring about uniformity in regulating and controlling the traffic.

"There must be places where liquor is sold and they must be regulated. It is a wholesome and good movement."

Frank Clark, former member of Congress from Florida, is president of the association. Wallace Dempsey, former Republican representative from New York, is general counsel.

Mussolini Greets Advertising Delegate

Rome, Sept. 19 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini today talked publicity with 200 delegates to the International Advertising Congress who visited him at Venezia Palace. Il Duce warmly welcomed the delegates to Rome.

Dog Rich

Holdup Victim Bequeaths $7,000 to Animal.

Kimball's will filed today left only $10 to J. T. Kimball, a son whose whereabouts are unknown.

The will stipulated the dog is to be given "a home, good food, kind treatment and a decent burial." The balance of the estate—if there be any—is to go to Mrs. Maud Livingston, a neighbor.

U. S. Education Bureau Moving From Interior

Other Offices Also Yield to Rapidly-Growing Works Body.

To provide more space for the rapidly growing Public Works Administration, the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior will be moved out of the Interior building, the Public Buildings Commission decided yesterday.

Nearly all other independent offices already have been moved out of the Interior building to provide for the Works Administration.

The Bureau of Education is least closely connected with the work of the Interior Department. It will be moved to the Hurley-Wright Building, at Eighteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, which already houses the Federal Board for Vocational Education, with which it soon will be merged.

Several units of the Interstate Commerce Commission, now in the Hurley-Wright Building, will be moved to Temporary Building No. 2, at Nineteenth street and Constitution avenue, where some other divisions of the commission are already.

Veterans' Administration files now in the Interior Building also are being moved to the building at 1214 New Hampshire avenue, which was specially rented to house them.

Sentence Stay Given Lamson

Motion for New Trial Will Defer Death Penalty for Short Time.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 19 (A.P.). David A. Lamson, convicted slayer of his youthful wife, Allene, won postponement of formal passing of the death sentence today when Superior Judge R. R. Syer continued until Friday hearings on his attorney's motion for a new trial.

While the 31-year-old Stanford University press executive listened almost impassively, Maurice Rankin of the defense moved for a new trial, citing as important among ten reasons, the "discovery of new evidence."

Rankin also charged both jury and prosecution had been "guilty of gross misconduct" in convicting Lamson of first degree murder for the slaying of his wife Memorial Day in their campus home bathroom.

Other allegations were that the jury had received evidence out of court; that the court's instructions had been unfair, and that the verdict was contrary to the evidence.

Bernt Balchen, Ill, Lost in Cape Town

Flier Disappears on Way for Surgical Treatment.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Sept. 20 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—Bernt Balchen, the flyer, who arrived yesterday with Sir Hubert Wilkins suffering from acute appendicitis, has mysteriously disappeared.

Newspapermen found Sir Hubert and the captain and crew still awake early today awaiting news of Balchen.

U. S. Inaugurates New Soil Bureau

A new bureau devoted to control of soil erosion was set up yesterday in the Interior Department, with H. H. Bennett, formerly of the Department of Agriculture, as chief.

The new unit, to be known as the division of erosion, will operate with a fund of $5,000,000 allotted by the Public Works Administration. In addition to studying erosion, it will attempt to better flood control conditions.

Mr. Bennett, active in the soil survey of the Department of Agriculture, operates a 500-acre farm in North Carolina. He has made Government surveys in Alaska, Panama, South America and Cuba. From 1926 to 1932 he was engaged in improving methods of Cuban sugar production. In releasing Mr. Bennett from his duties with the Department of Agriculture, Secretary Wallace said:

"Mr. Bennett is the best qualified man available to take over the direction of the new division."

Officer Fired For Attempt At Extortion

Policeman at Riverdale Dismissed on Charges of Arrest Victim.

Town Policeman Walter Acton, of Riverdale, has been dismissed by the mayor and council on a charge of attempted extortion, it was learned last night.

Mrs. Harry K. Clare, a notary public and wife of Justice of Peace Clare, filed the charge after an investigation she made of the arrest of Frank Boswell, colored, 2531 Eleventh street, a Government employe.

Mrs. Clare based the charge on an affidavit sworn to by Boswell and attested by Mayor W. A. Carson and Councilman I. N. Goodwin. Boswell swore he was held up by Acton last Thursday night on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard at West Madison avenue while passing a traffic light; that Acton told him it would cost $11.70 to obtain his release; that Acton turned him over to Chastain Segar, of Edmonston, who took him down a nearby road and asked him for $11.70. Boswell said he had a $20 bill.

Segar, Boswell swore, told him to go to a store and get this changed, which he did. He said he then gave $11.70 to Segar. Later Segar returned the $11.70 to him, Boswell asserted, but accepted $5 as a token of gratitude.

No charges have been preferred against Segar, but he has been ordered to return the $5, which he has promised to do, according to Mayor Carson.

Sleep Sickness Cases Dwindle

New Cause Theory Probed; Death Toll Stands at 159.

St. Louis, Sept. 19 (A.P.).—Laboratory investigation of the possibility "sleeping sickness" may spread through nose and throat secretions, began today, hastened by indications the epidemic may dwindle more rapidly than expected.

Only two deaths were reported today, bringing the total to 159. The city reported 14 new cases and the county 6 in 24 hours.

The need of patients in the earliest stages of the disease made scientists speed their investigation of the nose and throat theory. Lack of new patients may soon handicap them.

The theory insects spread the disease also was receiving attention. Three scientists, who allowed themselves to be bitten by mosquitoes that had bitten patients, have shown no ill effects as yet.

New Form of Disease.

(Associated Press.)

Public health officials said yesterday a two-year observation of patients recovered from sleeping sickness might show the St. Louis outbreak was a new form of the disease.

One of the outstanding differences between the St. Louis sleeping sickness and previous appearances of the disease, they pointed out, was the lack of after-effects.

Gas Tank Stays In Prince Georges

Led by John E. Hoover, 2017 Kalorama road northwest, a delegation vigorously protested to the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday at Upper Marlboro against the proposed construction of a gas-holding tank at Chillum, Md.

It was contended the permit was in violation of the fourteenth amendment, as the gas tank would damage property and also the La Salle College and public schools.

Mr. Hoover, a property owner in the vicinity, charged the proposed plant was an opening wedge for the Washington Gas Light Co. to move its plant from Washington to that site.

After hearing the protest, the commissioners inspected the site, and later announced it would refuse the request to rescind the permit recently granted for the plant's construction by the Prince Georges Gas Corporation.

Auto Injures Child, 7; Woman Driver Held

Ruth B. Carroll, 7, of 6603 Summit avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., was injured yesterday when knocked down by an automobile driven by Mrs. Isabelle I. Eckels, 3715 Ingomar street northwest.

The girl was crossing Connecticut avenue at Rosemary street. Police say Mrs. Eckels disregarded a stop sign and also a policeman. She was charged with reckless driving and posted bond. The child was treated for head injuries at her home.

Surplus Time Of Young Folk Interests P.-T.

Group in Meeting Here Also Plans Steps to Aid Needy in Schools.

Surplus time of young persons who have left school and insufficient food and clothing for many in school are problems demanding attention, the National Board of Parent-Teacher Associations was told yesterday.

Miss Alida Bowler, juvenile delinquency expert in the Children's Bureau, declared Parent-Teacher associations must act to save leisure-burdened boys and girls from drifting into crime. Vocational, recreational and educational activities are necessary to fill the time created by NRA codes, she said.

Plans to supply needy children with food, clothing and financial aid so they may attend school were announced by Mrs. Hugh Bradford, national president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers Associations.

Mrs. A. H. Reeve, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the board, advocated promotion of world friendship through educating children to understand those of other lands.

Lawlessness can be curbed greatly by new methods of teaching obedience in young children, Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, of the University of Cincinnati, suggested.

Nickel Beer

Georgia Brew Dealers Put Back Brass Rails.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 19 (AP).—Ghost bars of 1907 have come out of oblivion, dusty brass rails shined and cobwebs cleaned from mirrors that reflect images of those who drink beer in "dry Georgia."

Despite a State law, numerous dealers appeared in Atlanta and other Georgia cities after Congress legalized 3.2 beer, and in a test case a jury refused to convict a dealer.

Prices that reached as high as 30 cents a bottle have dwindled to 5 cents a stein—with free lunch thrown in.

The only change is the elimination of swinging doors. The 1933 idea is an open place with tables for the ladies.

Heels Entrap Kiss Burglar Suspect Here

Heel prints of a frayed shoe, traced on a dusty tin roof, led to the arrest yesterday of Louis B. Bord, 22, Portsmouth, Va., as the man who threatened to assault Miss Carolyn Stuart, 19, daughter of Dr. Rhett Stuart, 1638 Connecticut avenue northwest, Monday.

Bord, arrested by Detective Sergeant Norman Hodkinson, was identified by Miss Stuart, as the man who entered her bedroom and left only after she promised to deliver a large sum of money to him in Dupont Circle the same afternoon. Detectives laid a trap for him but he failed to appear.

Yesterday the maid at the Stuart home, called police and said she thought she had seen the prowler again.

Hodkinson found the footprints.

Veterans Brave Rain for Jobs

3,000 Await Ford Work; 300 Hired Daily.

Detroit, Sept. 19 (AP).—Three thousand war veterans stood in lines in the rain today, bearing dinner pails, blankets and overcoats, as officials of the Wayne County Council (Detroit) of the American Legion continued interviewing applicants for 5,000 jobs offered to veterans by the Ford Motor Co.

As on the previous day, when 800 men were interviewed out of a group of 5,000, throngs of veterans waited all night in line before the American Legion Memorial Hall in downtown Detroit.

Rex Humphrey, authorized by the Ford Co. to hire 5,000 men, said about 800 had been interviewed today. About 300 men will be sent to the Ford plant daily.

Chaplin Protests Expenses of Son

Divorced Wife's $33,994 Bill Called Excessive.

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP).—Support and care of two young sons of Charlie Chaplin, film comedian, cost $33,994.62 in the past 22 months, his divorced wife, Lita Gray Chaplin, reported today.

Mrs. Chaplin reported $16,841.54 was required for support of Charles, jr., 8, and $17,153.08 for Sidney Earl, 7. One of the items was $686.25 for guard protection of the boys at home and traveling.

Chaplin's exceptions asserted Mrs. Chaplin, by court order, was allowed only $12,000 a year for each child.

A hearing will be held in Superior Court.

Autoist Is Accused Of Slugging Sleuth

Two Men Held in Quarrel Over Driver Permits.

Raymond Gough, 24, colored, 1202 Q street northwest, was held at headquarters last night on a charge of assaulting an officer, and Raoul J. Kirouac, 19, same address, was detained for investigation following a scuffle with Precinct Detective Harold Johnson at Tenth and O streets northwest, late yesterday.

Johnson stopped the pair, who were driving in an automobile bearing New York plates, and asked to see their driving permits. He said Gough attackd him.

Johnson's coat was torn.

Uruguay Approves Root Court Formula

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 19 (AP). Uruguay deposited today with the League of Nations her ratification of the Elihu Root protocol relating to United States entrance into the World Court of Justice.

The Root formula was approved by a commission of international jurists in 1928. To become operative it requires the ratification of the American Senate and more than 40 nations belonging to the court.

U. S. Priest Reported Safe in China Journey

The American vice consul at Foochow, China, yesterday reported the Rev. Paul Curran, an American priest, had arrived safely under escort at Pucheng, Northern Fukien Province.

The department was informed early last week three American priests, Fathers Curran, Werner and Grace, following an unsuccessful attempt to reach Foochow due to Communist uprisings, had departed for Kienningfu, about 90 miles northwest of Fukien, for Shanghai.

American Councilman Of Liverpool Expires

Liverpool, Sept. 19 (AP).—Alderman W. W. Kelly, a native of Philadelphia, who became one of the most picturesque personalities in Liverpool, died today at the age of 80.

The oldest member of the city council, Kelly came to London as a young man and later owned theaters in Liverpool and Birkenhead.

His greatest enterprise was writing and staging a Napoleonic drama, "The Royal Divorce," in which his wife, Edith Cole, played the part of Empress Josephine. He made a fortune from the play.

Radio Waves and Ripples

RUNNING parking lots in Baltimore is the business of Philip Crist.

In his spare time he likes to sing tenor ballads.

These, as well as light classical numbers, he will sing for WJSV, local Columbia outlet, and Wilkins Coffee, on Monday and Friday evenings, beginning October 2. WJSV and Wilkins agreed on this yesterday.

Though it means a Washington microphone debut for Crist, Baltimoreans knew him as WBAL staff artist two years ago.

Waves.

"Kal Nidre," that beautiful and ancient Jewish traditional prayer-hymn, is a Sidney Resnick presentation scheduled for WMAL microphoning Thursday, September 28, at 9 p. m. in observance of Yom Kipper (Day of Atonement).

WJSV Announcer Robert Trout was thinking of asking Columbia for one of those radio jobs with Byrd at the South Pole.

Trout's been married just about two weeks.

Bandman Phil Spitalny got his name on a Blue Coal contract for 12 Sunday NBC broadcasts to start October 1. Ethel Pastor wil be his vocalist.

As Spitalny will continue his present Golden Rod Beer connection, the new assignment should make him the only bandman with commercial contracts on both major networks. Paul Whiteman microphones for NBC as well as CBS, but only once commercially.

That's something to check up on some rainy day.

WOL's Northern Dramatic Co. has switched from Friday night at 7:30 to Thursday at 8, effective tomorrow. Yvonne Kushner returns at this time with the lead in a piece called "Six Months to Live." Northern Dramatic's been carying on at WOL for three years.

In the absence of information to the contrary, N. B. C. may be expected to put the former British prime minister on the air October 12 as promised. Mr. Baldwin starts a series of international broadcasts which will microphone also such Laborites as George Lansbury, James T. Thomas, Arthur Greenwood and Sir Stafford Cripps; Liberals, Sir Herbert Samuel, Board of Trade President Walter Runciman and Conservative Oliver Stanley.

Excerpts from a Columbia address by National Labor Board Chairman and Senator Robert Wagner, New York:

"We have large cause for gratification . . . Nevertheless, the wage problem is still acute . . . There is grave doubt whether employes on higher levels are receiving proportionately great advances . . . We must take young mothers out of shops . . . I do not breathe a word of criticism."

Ripples.

Lucille Pierce Ferguson is Washington's only woman director of a radio instrumental group . . . she microphones at WRC Sunday nights. . . . Ted Husing goes to Brooklyn's Ebbets Field for the Manhattan-St. Bonaventure football game Saturday. . . . Columbia is still looking for the man who can talk like Gen. Johnson . . . "March of Time" wants him. . . . Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson are planning a vaudeville tour.

Washington's Al Jolson intends to sing "Yes, We Have No Bananas," tomorrow night . . . Paul Whiteman playing operatic airs all the while. . . . Irving Cobb will cut short his microphoning next Friday . . . to let Parke Davis talk about football rules . . . and make predictions.

PHILIP CRIST brings a tenor voice from Baltimore parking lots to a Washington microphone for the first time October 2 in two of WJSV's Wilkins broadcasts. He was signed yesterday for variety programs Monday and Friday nights at 6:45.

Plane Factory Ends Threatened Strike

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP).—Settlement of differences between executives and employes of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co. Inc., was announced today.

An agreement which was signed provides for recognition of the union and restoration of a former wage scale. The action averts a strike of 1,150 employes.

246 Per Cent Gain in D. C. Relief Costs

Increase Declared Due to Fact More Money Available.

Washington's unemployment relief bills in July, 1933, were 246 per cent higher than for July, 1932, the Department of Labor announced yesterday.

At the same time it was said relief cost for July of this year was 0.4 per cent lower than in June, 1933. This gain is due to the fact that more money is available, local relief officials pointed out. The demand has not increased, but Federal funds have made it possible to satisfy a constant demand.

The report shows that 95 per cent of the relief money spent in Washington comes from public funds, and only 5 per cent is provided by private charity. The July, 1933, relief figures were $229,185, while in the same month of 1932 they were $66,134.

The report shows the number of homeless children in the District is decreasing. In June, 1932, there were 2,230 such children, while in June, 1933, the number had dropped to 2,219.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A SHARPSHOOTER

THREE TIMES HIGH MAN on the U. S. International Dewar .22-calibre rifle team, and former U. S. small bore champion, Virgil Richard is professional shooter for Remington Arms Co., Inc. He always has to be a brilliant marksman—regardless of sun, wind, or rain. There is no question about his knowing the secret of healthy nerves!

DURING THE DAY'S SHOOTING, and later around the evening fire, Camels add to the pleasure of your outing. As Virgil Richard says, "Camels are a much milder cigarette and they never interfere with my nervous control, no matter how much I smoke."

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

VIRGIL RICHARD, in discussing smoking and shooting, says: "People often ask me if a professional sharpshooter can smoke as much as he wants. I've been enjoying cigarettes for years, without difficulty in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores in tournament shooting events. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. I have experimented with all the popular brands, and I find Camels are better for steady smoking. They're a much milder cigarette, and they never interfere with my nervous control, no matter how much I smoke."

* * *

Switch to Camels. You'll like the remarkable mildness . . . the fine, rich flavor of Camel's costlier tobaccos. You'll have satisfying proof that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves.

Senate Starts Banking Probe Anew on Oct. 3

Fletcher Tells Committee It Will Report to Floor in January.

(Associated Press.)

Senate stock market investigators were mobilizing yesterday for resumption of their inquiry into J. P. Morgan & Co. and other bankers on October 3.

Chairman Fletcher called members of the banking committee to meet two weeks from yesterday for hearings he announced probably would extend through October and November with a view to reporting back to the Senate in January.

If previous plans are carried through, the committee first will finish up the inquiries it began last spring into the affairs of the House of Morgan and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Then it will go into the operations of Dillon, Read & Co. and the Chase National Bank, with its security affiliate, the Chase Securities Corporation.

Following that, the committee is expected to return to a scrutiny of stock market operations, to which it first directed attention a year and a half ago, with probably some inquiry into holding company and clearing house practices.

The hearings are scheduled to be the most intensive of the committee's long inquiry. Fletcher is determined to hold continuous sessions as long as Pecora has evidence to present.

Committee members have indicated the report to the Senate will contain recommendations for deep-going reforms in banking and stock exchange practices.

At committee headquarters and member's offices it was indicated that in addition to Fletcher, Senators Glass (Democrat), Virginia; Couzens (Republican), Michigan; Townsend (Republican), Delaware, and Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland, would be on hand for the hearings.

Tear Bomb Hurled At Card Players

Mystery deepened as police backed from the alley, choking from tear gas.

One colored man said a card game was in progress when there was a loud blast.

An exploded Government bomb was found. Participants in the game identified two men as having thrown it. They were held.

They said they were Edward Handley, 32, of 812 Twenty-fourth street northwest, and Harvey Lowe, 27, of 247 Delaware avenue southwest.

News Men Prepare For Fight on Code

Three Organizations Plan to Ask Amendments.

(Associated Press.)

Three organizations of newspaper writers and editors last night were reported ready to seek changes in the NRA code submitted by the American Newspaper Publishers Association when it comes up for hearing Friday.

Heywood Broun yesterday called upon Gen. Johnson and outlined the position of the New York Guild of Newspaper Men and Women. Also conferring with Broun was Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Broun and Anderson said they had reports the Newspaper Union of Cleveland and the Philadelphia-Camden organization of news men would be represented.

Among the demands incorporated in the New York brief were shorter hours and a specified notice before discharge.

Rialto's Gala Reopening; "Lady for Day" Thursday

When the Rialto Theater somewhat belatedly inaugurates its new season of 1933-34 on Friday, September 29, with the Washington premiere of Universal's unique production of "S. O. S. Iceberg," the event will be signalized by only one evening performance, with all seats reserved, and many of the familiar aspects of another typical "Hollywood first night."

This is the word brought back to the dramatic desks in Washington by Manager Rodney Collier of the Rialto upon his return from New York, where plans for the reopening of the Ninth street house were perfected under the personal supervision of Carl Laemmle, pere.

It was, as previously indicated in this space, the original intention to rededicate the Rialto to the pleasurable uses of Capital picturegoers with first local presentations of "The Invisible Man," the medium of Claude Rains' introduction to the cinema, but that picture is not even yet completed, owing, in large measure, to the unfortunate destruction by fire of one of the important sets, which had to be entirely reconstructed before necessary retakes could be made.

"S. O. S. Iceberg," however, is no less remarkable a picture than "The Invisible Man," although of a totally different nature. Filmed over a period of many months in the actual Arctic, this camera subject reveals a wholly new type of scenic background and utilizes, in addition, the astounding airplane stunting of Ernst Udet, famous German ace, and probably the most skillful, as well as most intrepid airman of his day.

The extraordinary character of the picture's locale, action and photography are expressively revealed in the meager supply of "still" photographs which Mr. Collier purloined from the New York home office of Universal, and is proudly exhibiting to the dramatic motion picture editors—with every likelihood that all will be politely stolen before he can put them to practical use!

It is the present indication that a distinguished audience of official Washington will be present at the Rialto on the evening of September 29, which, from this distance, is quite as it should be.

In case any curiosity has existed with regard to the titles of the song hits that have found their way from Walter Donaldson's particular niche in Tin Pan Alley into "Pepper Pot," the Vitaphone short subject on the current bill at the Metropolitan, pull up a chair. Among the Donaldson songs that comprise a tuneful background for the harmonious Novelliers, the spectacular dance team of David and Dorothy Fitzgibbons and the specialty dancing of Betty Keene, a former member of the local "Foxettes," will be discerned "Hiawatha's Lullaby," "My Best Girl," "My Blue Heaven," Gene Austin's great hit; "Daughter of Rosie O'Grady," made famous by the Pat Rooneys; "My Buddy," "Beside a Babbling Brook," "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby," "Where Did You Get Those Eyes?" "Romance," "In the Middle of the Night," "Carolina in the Morning," "Little White Lies" and "Mammy," somehow vaguely suggestive of Ole Marse Jolson! This almost matches one of Phil Spitalny's programs for fecundity.

Spitalny's Second Week.

Speaking of Phil Spitalny, his second week's program at the Earle, beginning Friday, will again be prolific in music of the better sort, combined with the hottest of hot tunes and rhythms.

Phil and his Golden Rod Orchestra next week will feature a special arrangement of Ravel's "Bolero," which is unusual in that it opens with the male octet and the superb soprano of Ethel Pastor, with the orchestra chiming in for an unexpected climax. Then, in quick succession and each in striking contrast with the others, will come Mr. Spitalny's distinctive arrangement of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2," "Bugle Call Rag" and a "Potpourri of Victor Herbert Melodies."

Ethel Pastor, the soprano discovered by Spitalny in a small gypsy cafe in New York City, will be featured in the Herbert medley with an interpolated vocal rendition of Fritzi Scheff's "Kiss Me Again," from "Mlle. Modiste."

The addition of two concert harpists, Anne Welch and Olga Attl, will bring the personnel of the orchestra up to 34, the largest aggregation ever to play a local-motion-picture-presentation house. The harps will be featured in another Victor Herbert interlude.

Mme. Alda's Scholarship.

And that is a reminder. Auditions for the scholarship at Mme. Frances Alda's school of voice culture in New York will be held in the north room of the Mayflower tomorrow morning promptly at 10:15 o'clock.

Owing to the fact that Mme. Alda is obliged to be at Loew's Fox Theater while she is making her debut as a star of picture house vaudeville not later than noon, auditions must begin promptly at the appointed hour.

Mme. Alda is of the firm conviction that in Washington is some feminine vocalist, with or without voice training, who might be developed into another Nellie Melba, the most famous singer of her day. In order to bring to light this latent voice, Mme. Alda, in conjunction with Loew's Fox, is offering this free scholarship in her own school of voice to some fortunate woman.

The winner of the auditions will receive special instruction from the former Metropolitan Opera diva at her Waldorf-Astoria Towers School of Vocal Training. All actual school expenses will be paid by Mme. Alda. The student, however, must provide her own transportation and living expenses while in New York.

Ole Marse Al Jolson, of earlier remark, is not going to have any stellar walkaway when the Warner Brothers film production of his stage success, "Wonder Bar," gets under way. Surrounding Marse Jolson as friendly "rivals" for first honors in the picture will be Kay Francis, Joan Blondell, Bette Davis, Alolphe Menjou, Warren William and Dick Powell. Ole Marse Al, having in his day been surrounded by such personalities as the late Lawrence D'Orsay, Fannie Brice, Gaby de Lys, the Fair-Banks Twins, Ada Lewis, Franklin, Batie, Melville Ellis, and numerous others in the first flight, probably is not getting gray overnight about it! As we recently remarked, upon the occasion of his early summer visit to the Capital, the old boy is still dynamite!

Early Opening.

For once, this department finds it difficult to quibble with Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's for dislocating the accustomed schedule of opening day and daily performances at his Fifteenth street tabernacle of the titillating and talkative tintypes.

The announcement that "Lady for a Day," the exceptional film that made a "lady for a day" out of Washington's Apple Annie, will begin its engagement at RKO-Keith's on Thursday instead of Friday, and that the doors will be open an hour earlier than usual at 10 a. m. on Thursday, all semes eminently fitting.

A Sure-Fire Hit.

"Lady for a Day," utilizing the generous talents of May Robson, Warren William, Guy Kibbee, Glenda Farrell, Ned Sparks, Nat Pendleton, Jean Parker, Walter Connolly, Barry Norton, Hobart Bosworth, Robert Emmett O'Connor and a long list of others, is so completely of the stuff box-office hits are made of that the sooner it gets going and the earlier in the day it is made available, the better for all concerned—especially the cash customer who wishes to be assured of a 100 per cent entertainment, of a rough, ready and sometimes rowdy Broadway kind, for his ticket money.

The judicious amusement seeker will be on hand at 10 sharp tomorrow, or else stand in line to get in all the rest of the day. And don't say we didn't tell you!

Apropos of nothing whatever, it begins to appear as if the Louisiana Kingfish would have to take on a few more washroom bouts before he will be ready for the one from Chicago. He and Mr. Sharkey should get together and do something about these "gangster attacks."

One thing both of them could do about it gracefully would be to retire!

Davis Charged As Profiteer From Charity

Jury Shown Charts Listing Division of Funds in Alleged Lotteries.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Senator James J. Davis was described today by the Government prosecutor as a fraternal "czar" who made money out of charity.

He is charged specifically with shipping lottery tickets interstate in 1931.

Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose Magazine, was the prosecution's first witness, and through him the Government sought to show Davis, director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, sanctioned articles in the magazine which publicized charity balls.

The defense portrayed him as a benevolent fraternalist who knew virtually nothing of what was going on in the charity enterprises of the order.

Defense Denies Profit.

The Government said he had directed and profited from alleged lotteries of the order. The defense contended there was no lottery; that Davis knew nothing about the Moose's charity balls, and never "consciously got a cent out of it."

Charles H. Tuttle, of defense counsel, described Davis' career from his bootblacking days. He said:

"The evidence will show Jim Davis gave more than he ever received."

The Government introduced charts to illustrate designation of charity money accumulated by the order in 1930 and 1931. One was designed to show that Davis and Theodore G. Miller—secretray of the Moose propagation department and a codefendant—received $150,000 from a total profit of $450,000 on charity enterprises of the society. The chart sought to show a like amount went to Mooseheart, the order's children's home and the remainder to B. C. McGuire, professional promoter, who pleaded guilty.

Other Receipts Listed.

Another chart listed profits of $300,000, of which $100,000 was reported as going to Davis and Miller, $100,000 to Mooseheart and $100,000 to McGuire.

Judge Hayes adjourned court at 3:35 p. m., when he noticed a juror had fallen asleep.

Luer Kidnaper Turns on Pals

"Dice Box Kid" Confesses While on Stand; Hopes to Win Clemency.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP). Relentlessly pressing toward an avowed objective of the electric chair for six persons charged with kidnaping August Luer, Alton, Ill., banker, the State today won permission to introduce alleged confessions.

With the jury excluded, Percy M. Fitzgerald, the "Dice Box Kid," told on the stand how he had confessed a part in the abduction. He said he was promised recommendation for clemency.

Luer, 77-year-old banker, was abducted from his home in Alton, July 10 and released five days later without payment of ransom.

Fitzgerald's statement implicated Randol Norvell, a professional bondsman; Irish O'Malley, and Gracie Adams, the latter both of East St. Louis, Ill. O'Malley and Miss Adams are fugitives.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hart, known to Washingtonians as "Apple Annie," as she stepped into the big sedan in which she rode about town yesterday in the role of "Lady for a Day." She was completely outfitted, given beauty treatments and entertained royally, but today she will be back at her corner at Fourteenth and G streets northwest.

Elderly Cinderella Ends Her Brief Career in Luxury.

Midnight strikes and the little gray-haired Cinderella is back at her newsstand, Fourteenth and G streets. "Apple Annie" has been a lady for a day.

The magic 24 hours past, suite at the Willard, dinner at the Shoreham, a shopping tour of department stores and jewelry shops and a visit to a night club, were dreams vanished.

But "Apple Annie," part of a publicity stunt for a movie called "Lady for a Day," is better off by $50, a new wardrobe, jewelry, and a brand-new pair of shoes. They are not like the gleaming golden slippers of the real Cinderella, they are plain, medium-heeled leather shoes, but Annie likes them.

"They're the first pair of real women's shoes I ever owned," she said. "I always wear men's shoes because they fit better."

For the last 16 of her 64 years "Apple Annie," in reality Mrs. Elizabeth Hart, 1112 New York avenue northwest, has sold papers on the corner of Fourteenth and G streets northwest.

She has seen fine ladies in limousines—sometimes they bought papers from her, but, she never thought she would be one, not even for a day.

Two Exonerated In Fatal Mishaps

Probe of Laurel Frees Accused Motorists.

Two motorists, held under bond for fatal accidents occurring recently on the Baltimore boulevard, were exonerated last night at Laurel, Md.

Peter Moczarski, 26, Newark, N. J., was absolved of blame in connection with the death of Timothy J. McCarthy, 50, of Philadelphia. McCarthy, police said, hitched a ride on the rear bumper of Moczarski's car, last September 11. The car, owned by Joseph Fay, Newark labor leader, crashed into a culvert near Muirkirk, Md. Fay was seriously injured.

Abraham, Director, Pumphrey, Md., driver of a truck that killed Louis Fried, 76, Baltimore, last Friday, was also released. The Fried accident also occurred at Muirkirk.

Marye Leaves Million To Wife and Daughter

An estate valued at more than $1,000,000 was left by George T. Marye, jr., last United States Ambassador to Imperial Russia, his will filed for probate in San Francisco, Calif., yesterday revealed.

1,500 Attend Consecration Of New Bishop

Rev. Shaughnessy Raised to High Post in Catholic Church.

With impressive ceremonies in the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the Most Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, Marist scholar and teacher, yesterday was consecrated fourth Roman Catholic Bishop of Seattle.

The ceremonies were held before the wooden altar used by John Carroll, first bishop of the United States. The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Ciognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, officiated.

More than 1,500 persons witnessed the consecration. The new prelate's parents, Joseph and Margaret Shaughnessy, of Milford, Mass., attended the ceremonies.

A luncheon was served to 300 guests, with the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, toastmaster.

Free Competition Versus Fair Competition.

Public interest has been centered so largely on the labor sections of the coal code that the provisions which relate to regulation of output and prices have failed to receive their fair share of attention. A few months ago, however, article VI of the coal code would have been regarded as a revolutionary reversal of the policies heretofore pursued in enforcing the antitrust laws of the United States.

For years public-spirited men interested in conservation of the country's natural resources have been urging modification of these restrictive laws which have prevented controlled exploitation of exhaustible national wealth in the form of coal, oil, timber and ore. Their efforts encountered adamant opposition from doctrinaire advocates of free competition as well as from interests able to profit at the expense of future generations.

Remedial action of an effective sort also has been hindered by the obscurities of the law itself. Many lawyers, for example, have interpreted antitrust legislation as forbidding all agreements in restraint of trade, including even reasonable plans to prevent competitive waste and to conserve natural resources. Although court decisions are conflicting, a number of recent ones certainly strongly support this uncompromising interpretation. Much of the criticism directed against the cut-throat practices of modern business, therefore should be attributed to the rigidity of the Federal antitrust laws and the wavering judicial interpretations of those laws, which dangle threats of fines and prison sentences over the heads of business men who combine to help themselves.

Such was the situation that existed a few months ago. The change that has been brought about in a brief space of time is really amazing. It was foreshadowed, however, before the passage of the national recovery act removed the legal barriers to agreements regarding output and prices, by the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Appalachian Coals case.

The Supreme Court works slowly and advances cautiously, but it is neither immune to the forces of popular opinion nor slavishly committed to regarding its own early decisions as precedents for present day interpretations of regulatory laws. The result is that last spring the Court decided that 137 operators in the Appalachian coal district might legally engage in cooperative selling of their output through a central sales agency, although the government contended that the plan was intended to raise prices and eliminate competition by price fixing.

Lawyers competent to express an opinion on the subject held at the time that the decision was epoch making, because it virtually opened the door to control of output and fixing of price by competing producers. The Supreme Court, of course, was very careful to discredit such iconoclastic suggestions by placing great emphasis upon the fact that the sales agency was established to provide more economical marketing facilities and make competition "fairer."

Under the coal code such legal pretenses are not required. Selling agencies covering the entire industry hereafter may be created and may sell coal at "fair market prices" fixed openly, subject to approval by a member of the code authority to be appointed by the President, and acting as an agent of the Administrator.

Last spring the government was diligently engaged in prosecuting industries suspected of acting together in restraint of interstate trade. Today, it is encouraging and becoming a party to agreements among coal producers for the sake of maintaining fair prices which are, by definition, prices necessary to carry out the purposes of the national recovery act.

If this is not proof that an industrial revolution is in progress, by what other name should the overthrow of the system of legally enforced competition be described?

No Place for Gangsters.

What appears to be a gangland slaying took place Monday night almost in the shadow of the Capitol. A young man was slain by the method that is commonly used by professional racketeers. Police believe that a feud between two rival gangs may have been the motive for this murder. The entire force appears to be working on that theory.

Many innocent persons have lost their lives in the gang warfare that is going on in the larger American cities. It is customary for criminals of this type to shoot down their enemies on the streets with little regard for bystanders or for innocent people in their homes. Almost invariably such outbreaks of violence reveal the operations of organized gangs. Too often they indicate also ineffective enforcement of the law.

Washington has been kept relatively free from organized racketeering. Yet crimes like that which took place behind the Government Printing Office occasionally indicate that gangsters may have a foothold here. It is of the utmost importance that the perpetrators of this crime be caught and punished as a warning to gangsters and racketeers that they will not be tolerated in the National Capital.

A New Farm Program.

A new program designed to relieve cotton farmers of the South has been laid before President Roosevelt and the Department of Agriculture by a group of farm leaders and members of Congress. It calls for suspension of the processing tax on cotton, reduction of the 1934 crop to 9,000,000 bales, immediate inflation of the currency to raise the prices of farm products, and a policy of governmental price-fixing if these measures should fail to produce the desired results. Apparently this group has lost faith in the present efforts of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to give the farmer relief.

Only a few months ago farm leaders were meeting in Washington to assist Secretary Wallace in shaping the agricultural adjustment act. Men who have spent their entire lives in practical farming were in the group. It included representatives of the cotton, wheat, hog, corn and dairying industries. These leaders discussed the farm problem at length and finally agreed upon the general plans that were enacted into law by Congress.

In a radio address last March Secretary Wallace described the origin of the agricultural adjustment measure as follows:

> The farm leaders kept their pledge to stay in session until they could agree upon a plan to affect this year's crops; we have drafted a bill to implement their plan; the President has sent it to the Capitol, and now the question of farm relief is in the broad lap of Congress.

The fact that a group of farm leaders claiming to represent 10 Southern States is now in Washington demanding suspension of the processing taxes and a new approach to the agricultural problem raises an old question: Who is the farmer's spokesman? Is it possible that the leaders who were so enthusiastic over the so-called domestic allotment plan a few months ago are now sponsoring a counter-movement? Has the South lost all hope of relief through the A. A. A. so soon? Or is Washington merely hearing belated complaints from leaders that were not represented in the council which approved the processing tax plan?

It is reported that some farmers are disappointed at the results of the processing taxes. Apparently they did not realize that they would help to pay these levies through the purchase of clothing, flour, &c.

Since the processing taxes have been levied the farmer has learned a great deal that he did not know before. He wanted higher prices for wheat, cotton, hogs and corn and not for the manufactured products which he must buy. Parity, meaning restoration of the balance between agriculture and industry prevailing before the war, has been his ideal. Some farmer leaders are beginning to fear that this objective can not be attained through processing taxes and destruction of crops. Hence, they turn to a new remedy that is widely acclaimed as the salvation of agriculture.

But if the farmer's dollar is inflated, the manufacturer's dollar will be inflated also. What, then, becomes of parity? If farmers were trained in recognising will o' the wisps when they first go fluttering by they might be spared many disappointments.

Borrowing for Prosperity.

The well-known English economist, J. M. Keynes, says that "America is taking a dangerous leap forward into the future with about as much idea as a stricken aviator of where she will land." Mr. Keynes does not disapprove such rashness; on the contrary, he is himself a distinguished advocate of the experimental method of dealing with depression. His dubiety regarding the outcome of the American effort is due to a conviction that we are trying to start recovery at the wrong end. "Until large scale loan expenditure is actually being incurred, employment will not recover," Mr. Keynes says, referring to the slow progress that has been made in his own country.

Most economists would agree that the heavy industries can not prosper and workers can not be fully employed until investment funds are available for the purchase of capital goods. Dissent begins when Mr. Keynes presents his plan for reviving investment activity. He urges governmental borrowing on an ambitious scale to finance public works, and he would proceed at top speed to build roads, houses, and public utility plants with the borrowed funds.

Mr. Keynes' specific suggestions are not new, but his emphasis and method of approach are novel. There is, indeed, a positive abandon about his advice to governments to spend their way back to prosperity, which is calculated to chill the soul of the average investor.

To Mr. Keynes, budgets unbalanced by constructive outlays on public works should be regarded as a reason for confidence—a sign of hope for the future. But British Chancellors of the Exchequer and American Secretaries of the Treasury evidently do not share his singular enthusiasm.

Mr. Keynes further asserts that release from the gold standard leaves a country free to go ahead without interference from abroad. Unquestionably a country that no longer cares to what extent its currency is depreciated in the exchange markets of the world may resort to inflation either of its credit or its currency with fewer misgivings than formerly. However it still has to consider the domestic reaction to a program of lavish expenditure financed by government borrowing.

Mr. Keynes apparently has no fears of consequences. He believes that the market for investment securities can be revived in the United States, for example, if the Federal Reserve Banks and the R. F. C. set a good example for private investors by buying long term government bonds in the one case and "first class" non-governmental bonds in the other case.

Belief that private investment buying will be encouraged by official purchases of certain classes of long-term bonds loses sight of one very important factor—the investor himself. The average investor is more apt to be frightened than allured by contemplation of a borrowing program that piles up public debt, results in unbalanced budgets, and causes inflationary price increases. He is far from confident that bonds bought under such uncertain conditions will remain first class for long. Furthermore, he is not persuaded that investment outlets capable of enriching the country, to use the language of Mr. Keynes, can be discovered overnight and exploited without serious loss to taxpayers. Whether this timorous investor is right or wrong, he is the man whose confidence must be gained before normal investment activities can be restored.

A critic of Mr. Keynes once said that his chief weakness lay in his imperfect comprehension of the motives that guide human actions. Perhaps that explains why he believes in the existence of a class of investors certain to be inspired to emulation at the sight of their government spending lavishly to restore prosperity.

The farmers demanding inflation might be satisfied with a duplication of France's experiment with assignats. The issue was to be "strictly limited" to 400,000,000 francs, and it ended up with 26,000,000,000

No Pork in Public Works.

By Harold L. Ickes, Public Works Administrator, in American Magazine.

Every citizen has the right to ask whether these $3,300,000,000 constitute a pork barrel. Are powerful local politicians to be allowed to build palatial postoffices in crossroads villages? Are Democrats to be preferred to Republicans? Are contracts to be shot through with graft and profiteering?

I can answer simply by saying that if the President had intended to use this money for partisan purposes he would have permitted Congress to apportion it in the public works bill according to the old system. And he would not have appointed any Republicans on the State advisory boards. Nor would he have approved the elaborate system of safeguards which we have thrown around our spending plan to minimize waste, graft and political influence.

These safeguards have already proved invaluable in withstanding the deluge of pleas for funds which have descended upon us from individuals and communities ever since I took office as administrator. Huge as the appropriation is, if we were to act without investigation upon all the suggestions and requests that have been made to us, we could allot it all in one month. The pressure from local communities is tremendous. Delegations of politicians, business men, contractors and leading citizens have laid siege to our offices in person, by mail, by telegraph and by telephone. Among the pleas for special favors which we have received one of the most curious has been the attempt of certain private businesses to snuggle under the wing of the public works benefits on the pretext that theirs is a municipal project. It usually takes this form:

A delegation comes in and says: "We represent the city of Soandso. Our city wants to build a tobacco (or cheese, or lumber, or candy) factory. It will give work to our unemployed and be a fine thing for the city."

We ask, "Does the city itself intend to operate this factory?"

Then there is a pause. "No," says the leader of the delegation. "The city intends to lease it out to some experts qualified in that business."

Of course, we have no authority to lend for such purposes.

In one large city the aldermen sat down one afternoon to decide what their city needed from the public works fund. Each solon put forward his pet project. When they added up the total they found that they must have $420,000,000 right away. This is a sample of the generous ideas which prevail among many local politicians.

A persistent correspondent urges us to commission 10,000 men, at $1,000 a year each, to eliminate snakes from this country. The cost of these modern St. Patricks would be a modest $10,000,000 a year.

Of all the ideas for spending money, the most original came from a prominent mathematician, who suggested that we set aside $100,000,000 to finance a round trip passenger-carrying rocket to the moon.

But it is in awarding funds to the various States, as well as in apportioning new public buildings among various localities, that we are finding the greatest pressure brought upon us.

The idea back of this act, new in our national policy, is that Congress appropriate a lump sum and turn it over to the President, who, through a Public Works Administration, may spend it according to a national need and a national plan.

This change is a revolutionary one. It is in line with what students of government have been urging for years. Whether we shall stick to the new policy in the future, or return to the pork barrel, depends upon how honestly, impartially and ably the present fund is administered.

But the new policy does not change human nature. The appetite for pork, pampered for a century, can not be legislated out of existence by an act of Congress.

In the Shadow of the Capitol.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: At the close of the World War the writer was residing in Jersey and doing business in New York. Crime was rampant in New York—robberies, holdups, burglaries and various other felonies. One afternoon about 4 o'clock two of the New York bandits took a run over into Jersey, held up a suburban trolley car and all the passengers for a considerable amount and made out for New York. They were caught by the Jersey police within two hours after the crime. The judge ordered a grand jury for 9 o'clock the next morning; an indictment was found and trial had at once and by 4 o'clock that afternoon the prisoners were on their way to the Trenton Penitentiary, one under sentence for 60 years and the other for 75 years.

Let us hope that some day we may drift back to the old English simplicity of criminal procedure, or to that of the French code, rather than remain in the intricacies of practices that now give all the advantages to the criminal.

JOHN J. CUSHING.

Work of Men and Women Unequal, Says Reader, and Equal Pay Would Work Mischief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mrs. Roosevelt and others who advocate the paying of equal wages to men and women show little realization of what this policy would involve.

Men and women are different because the Lord has seen fit to make them so. Therefore there is no line of work in which their efforts are identical. In lines where the two compete, such as school teaching, men are almost always more highly paid. If the law required that the women should receive as high a rate of pay, most women high school teachers would find themselves without a job because they would not be worth the raise. If the men teachers' salaries, on the other hand, were lowered to the level of the women's they would all quit, to the great detriment of the schools and of the women teachers, who would miss these interesting contacts.

While minimum wages, as required by the NRA, are a step upward, and wages above the minimum to the highest extent economically possible are the shortest and fairest road to solvency, equal pay for work which can not be equal is unjust and inexpedient.

Desperate Victim of Taxation Speaks for All in Terse Reply to Creditor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The following clipping from Iron Ore expresses the feeling of many of us, and I wish you would reprint it. J. HARNEY.

Only Escape the Grave.

This reply came back after a request for funds:

"It is impossible for me to send you a check. My present financial condition is due to the effects of Federal laws, State laws, county laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws and outlaws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Through the various laws I have been held down, held up, walked on, sat on, flattened and squeezed until I do not known where I am, what I am and why I am.

"These laws compel me to pay a merchant's tax, capital stock tax, income tax, real estate tax, water tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, syntax and carpet tax.

"I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, reexamined, until all I know is that I'm supplicated for money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to fail and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away, I am cussed and discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am nearly ruined, so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what is coming next."

By Robert Quillen.

SINCE you are the kind of person that reads this part of the paper, it is quite probable that you also read news stories concerning Government affairs.

But you are mistaken if you assume that everybody does.

When community workers began to distribute consumers' pledge cards for the NRA, they found many literate people who never had heard of them.

One man was reluctant to sign a card because he hated to go to France again. Many housewives were suspicious of a trap and hesitated to sign anything that might increase the cost of living.

Many newspaper readers—perhaps the majority of them—read the headlines and skip news stories that promise instruction without entertainment. Thus they remain happily ignorant of matters that seem important to serious students of our times.

It is always a mistake to assume that the other fellow knows anything.

When misunderstanding of verbal or written agreements makes enemies of former friends, the usual cause is one party's assumption that the other understood something not mentioned.

Innumerable misunderstandings between employer and employe, parent and child, or husband and wife are caused by taking it for granted that something need not be said because it is understood.

Everything needs saying. It is always dangerous to assume that the other party knows anything or understands anything.

It is hard to say a thing so clearly that none can misunderstand it. How, then, can you hope for understanding of the thing left unsaid?

Comment of the Press

Law Enforcement.
Houston Post.

It was Burke who said that "bad laws are the worst sort of tyranny." And that is why legislative bodies should be so very careful in the enactment of fresh statutes. Aaron Hill hit the nail on the head when he said that "law that shocks equity is reason's murderer."

The people's safety lies in the prompt enforcement of criminal laws. But these laws should deal only with actual crime, and the punishment should fit the deed.

To proclaim a crime where no actual crime exists is the weakness of any government, for thereby all law is more or less brought into contempt.

The ancient Tacitus declared that "when the state is most corrupt, then the laws are most multiplied." If we here in America—aye, here in Texas—want to see the criminal promptly and properly punished, we must rid ourselves of all the laws that make crimes out of harmless practices, and we must quit sending men to State's prison for what at best is only a misdemeanor. A multiplicity of laws is—what did Tacitus say?

Viewing the Party Deficits.
Kansas City Times.

Both the Democratic and Republican national committees regret to report that, "with the exception of small cash balances for operating expenses," the treasuries of the two parties continue with deficits. Neither professes to have seen a sign of recovery, which is all the more surprising for Democracy's committee. The Jacksonians still owe more than $500,000, with cash of only about $40,000 in hand, while their late opponents report outstanding obligations of more than $186,000, with cash assets probably too small to be mentioned. All in all, the Republicans no doubt would be glad to trade deficits, could they but be buoyed up in spirit as are the more fortunate brethren of the opposing fraternity.

1,922,000 More Pigs.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The response to one Federal project for decreasing farm surpluses has been so far beyond expectations that the quota is being increased even before the initial deadline is reached. Stockyards have been so swamped with surplus pigs that the number to be destroyed by September 29 has been increased from 4,000,000 to 5,922,000. The original quota was practically filled last week.

The pork-consuming public, of course, pays for this swine reduction through a processing tax on its bacon, ham and sausage. The farmers get a premium of $6 to $9.50 per 100 pounds.

A Lesson From Mississippi.
Los Angeles Times.

When Gov. Sennet Connor of Mississippi took office in January, 1932, the Bayou State was badly off financially. Its credit was poor and its treasury showed a deficit. The new governor found that State debts were coming due and, under the system then in vogue, there would be no money with which to pay them. He studied the situation and set earnestly to work to redeem the State's credit and put its finances in a sound condition. This he did in 18 months, with the aid of a sympathetic and intelligent Legislature, pledged to strict economy.

Despite all the pleas of those interested in making money out of the State, the ax was laid at the root of the former economic evil—extravagance—and means were taken to pay off pressing obligations and to avoid deficits in future.

With Clearer Sight.

Some day we may with clearer sight
See what is wrong and what is right
And, gaining wisdom, come to know
The line dividing joy and woe,
What's boastfulness and what is pride.

Some faults perhaps may virtues prove,
Some virtues be a narrow groove
Wherein we've trudged for ages long
Thinking the broader highways wrong.
And it may be that we shall find
More patience with our fellow kind.

But even now with what we've learned
It seems man should be more concerned
With being tender, thoughtful, fair,
Than gathering gold beyond his share
And scattering in his little sphere
A little more of help and cheer.

We seem to wander through a fog,
Scarce knowing high ground from the bog,
And blind to beauty and to bloom,
Believe our souls need greater room
When round about us everywhere

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

THE bobbing into public print at this time of Mr. William E. Humphrey, of the Federal Trade Commission, should be a lesson for the New Deal fair-haired boys. It should be a lesson in humility which is a characteristic one is not apt to ascribe to the New Dealers, not at first blush, anyway.

Bargeron.

Mr. Humphrey was the herald or a brain trust of a New Deal when some of the present fellows were figuratively in swaddling clothes.

He is one of the first fellows whom I recall hearing speak when I came to Washington. He was before the United States Chamber of Commerce telling it that a new day had arrived, that henceforth it need not fear the Federal Trade Commission, which Woodrow Wilson set up as one of his crowning achievements and of which Mr. Humphrey then was the dominating figure.

* * * *

IN effect, he told the chamber that the commission of Wilson's dream was dead, that they no longer should fear it as a regulatory body, that, instead, it was to help business to combine and expand. It was Mr. Coolidge's philosophy, his New Deal, the New Deal which sent this country on the wildest spree it ever has known.

I recall very well how the chamber members beamed upon him. He was standing in as much glamour as has attended our present professors. The business men didn't refer to him as the "brilliant Humphrey," as we refer to the present New Dealers, but that was simply because the business men do not use the term. "Brilliant" is a professional word. But, in the language of that day, he was equivalent to brilliant—make no mistake about that. All around the country he went making speeches about the New Deal and business folk everywhere greeted him as an apostle of wisdom and sense.

"Where has he been all of our lives?" they asked.

* * * *

AND did business leap and bound? Over in the Department of Justice Bill Donovan adopted a policy of helping business to get around the antitrust laws instead of prosecuting them for violations. The Federal Trade Commission has been pretty much a dead-letter ever since. Mr. Hoover did away with the Donovan policy, but the only noteworthy thing I can immediately recall the commission has done in recent years was its investigation of the power trust.

The irony of Mr. Humphrey's present predicament of having to fight to hold his job lies, I think, in the fact he and the present administration should not be so far apart. Certainly, they are like two peas in a pod on the question of relieving business from antitrust law restraints.

* * * *

DO you know, apropos the coal code, that just signed, that Mr. Hoover in at least three messages to Congress, recommended just about what now has been done? The difference is that Mr. Hoover did not demand a fixing of maximum hours and minimum wages along with elimination of restraint, but then his recommendations never got that far. He had in mind better conditions in coal fields.

But, of course, he never advocated relieving all business from antitrust laws. However, Mr. Humphrey undoubtedly favors it, and that is the only point I am trying to make.

He is much in advance, if that is the correct word, of Mr. Hoover on this. I can't, for the life of me, see why he and Mr. Roosevelt do not see eye-to-eye.

It seems a downright pity, in fact, that he should be asked to give up his job at a time when the philosophy which he so long advocated come to be generally accepted. They called him a reactionary—and still do call him that. Really, I think he has turned out to be in the vanguard of liberalism because liberalism is what the New Deal is supposed to be. Why, he was way out in front.

* * * *

OH, I suppose there are some who will hoot at the very suggestion; who will say to link Mr. Humphrey's philosophy with that of the New Deal is the height of absurdity.

He would never agree to the increased wages and shorter hours, they will say. That is the difference.

Maybe, but I don't see why. These increased production costs are passed on, you know, the manufacturer in the various codes being guaranteed his profit. Assuming he can sell his goods there is no need for him to worry even if the employe gets $100 a day.

Mr. Humphrey should be embraced, not kicked out.

THOUGHTFUL PATIENT.

One winter night, when the ground was covered with sleet and the rain was freezing as it fell, the old doctor received a very late call from a family living away on the other side of the city. It was after 1 o'clock when he left home, and his horse—this was in the old days—slid all the way to the patient's house, says the Toronto Globe.

He got there about 3 o'clock and found that a girl in the household had a severe cold. It was nothing dangerous.

"How long has she had it?" asked the doctor.

"Three days," answered the mother.

"Why didn't you call me in the daytime?" asked the doctor.

Then came the answer, which made this the favorite story of the medical society for many, many years.

"We are poor people, and we aren't able to pay very much, so we thought we would call you when you weren't busy."

U. S. Arms Cut Demand Given To Daladier

Paris, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—President Roosevelt's message to the European powers, demanding action on arms reductions, was carried to Premier Daladier tonight by Norman Davis, chief American delegate to the three-power disarmament parley.

Davis, acting as mediator between France and Great Britain, was closeted with Daladier at the war office for more than an hour. He expressed "satisfaction" with his first day's conversations.

Praise for President Roosevelt's "keen understanding" of European developments was expressed by Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour. He expressed gratification that Mr. Roosevelt was most anxious to effect a sound understanding on armaments with France.

It was evident tonight that the arms negotiations here will mark time until the British cabinet has had time to study the French position. These include Paris' demand that England agree to "sanctions," or penalties, in the event of agreement on test period for international arms control.

The French want England's support in sanctions against any nation found guilty of breaking the agreement.

Official circles hinted France was prepared to make eventual concessions in disarmament if the British favored her sanctions demands. This compromise, with England and France both yielding a little on these two points—sanctions on the one hand, and agreement to cut armaments on the other—is the goal which Davis seeks.

Naval "Race" Fear Is Flouted

H. L. Roosevelt Denies Peril in U. S. Plans for More Ships.

Warnings that the American building program might bring on another naval construction race were called "unjustified" last night by Henry L. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Speaking while reports still were current that Great Britain sought abandonment or curtailment of America's building program, Roosevelt contended an adequate navy was "economic life insurance." He touched on charges that American naval plans imperiled arms conferences.

"By 1936, when our new program is completed, we shall still be 101 vessels short of our authorized strength," he said. "Great Britain will be 64 ships short, and Japan will have in commission its full quota."

Calling attention to America's "huge stake at sea," Roosevelt said the navy must be maintained powerful enough to "keep us from having our sea lanes blocked."

U. S. Indicts Five On Tax Charges

Former Akron C. of C. Head Among Accused.

Cleveland, Sept. 19 (AP).—Five men were indicted for income tax evasions today by the Federal grand jury.

Morris Lederer, president of the Lederer Iron & Steel Co., was indicted for evasion of $2,400 income tax payment. Henry Rosewater, a farmer Internal Revenue agent, and W. S. Adams, an employe of the Lederer company, were charged with permitting Lederer to use their names to pad pay rolls.

William Boesche and Fred Zindel, officers of the Ornamental Iron Works Co., of Akron, were charged with income tax evasions of $9,000 and $4,800, respectively. Boesche formerly was president of the Akron Chamber of Commerce.

Despair Faces Critics Of NRA, Says Muir

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Critics of the national recovery program are in a losing fight, Malcolm Muir, deputy administrator under Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, said tonight.

"Ask these men why they think the NRA will fail," Muir said, in an address to the American Transit Association, "and they can not tell you. Inquire what remedy they would substitute, and they do not know. Their attitude is solely one of dumb despair."

Berlin Diva Weds.

Berlin, Sept. 19 (AP).—Mafalda Salvatini, famqus in Europe as the prima donna of the Berlin opera, today married Jurgis Saulys, the Lithuanian Minister to Berlin. She was a pupil of Jean de Reszke, and sang with Caruso.

White House Press Conferences

Introduction of a Member

By William Harlan Hale.

IN the late afternoon 200 newspapermen wait, some scattered and some in line, to enter the most exalted room in America. If there are any other newcomers beyond myself among them, they disguise their curiosity well. This is the White House and beyond that door is the President.

To regard seeing a President as a great event would brand me a rather callow stranger here. Washington sees Presidents so much, I suppose, that it catches cold from the frequent tipping of hats as they pass; they are only transients, after all—they come and go.

Perhaps Washington has learned to look upon them as those rather troubled human beings who live in the best house in town. But a stranger tends to look upon them not as human beings at all. For him a President was once a human being like all the rest, endowed with every richness of the species; but on a certain instant on March 4, he was miraculously transformed into a Presence, into Words and Destiny. A touch upon the Bible, and the warm individual froze into an institution, ready to be embalmed in final chapters of the histories.

Maybe I can bring him back to life. I should like to ask him how complete his stamp collection is in German colony issues; how he rigs up a kedge anchor; and whether he knows about that old Indian trail that runs along past Henley's old still, five miles east of Hyde Park.

But here they start going into the room. They advance closely, as if they were a delegation bringing demands. I had better let them do the talking.

They speed up, trying to get into the room ahead of each other. They crowd. It is like a rush for good seats as the feature picture goes on.

The room is oval and white and brightly lit; two rows of old colored prints range around it. The men stand, in crescent form, around some object which few can see because the crowd is so large. It must be a desk. There seems to be a pause. From which side will the President come in? In England they would all bow deeply. The President is more powerful; perhaps here they ought to kneel. . . . Well, when will he come?

Then suddenly from down in front somewhere, there comes a voice, rather high, but quiet, and dimly familiar. One must stretch as far as one can. What! Why, I am looking at the President. He has been here all the time. They have practically buried him. They tower around and above his head, and he has to tilt away back to see beyond the first ring of faces. It is not very convenient for him; he must like them.

Yes, that is the President, and he looks pretty much as in the photographs. He couldn't very well help it. But the smile is conspicuously lacking. Under the light of the desk lamp, the face is even more ruddy than I had expected; the eyes are even bluer; the hair more distinctly gray, with a steely sheen. I can see the head only by craning over the Associated Press shoulders in front of me; happily, it does not jerk about as it does during speeches, and I don't have to go pursuing it until it bobs up among some United Press shoulders nearby.

Right here is the greatest single source of news in the world, and yet the questions are few; each answer is pleasant and urbane, but not much is given. There is little emphasis. Outside the air is charged with dramatic reports from Cuba, and hourly rumors about the progress of the coal code. In here, the origin of drama, the air is calm and temperate: No coal, no Cuba. Outside it is raining, in here it is cheerful.

The mind begins to wander, to the pictures, to the very shiny American flag in the corner, to the wet greenery outside the bay window, to peeking out the faces of "trained seals" from the newspaper crowd. But here is the President of the United States! I was beginning to forget. Something was said, just then, about price indices, which I did not catch. Not many people get the chance to look down on Presidents this way.

Over there is a Currier and Ives print. What's he saying now? There are a couple of notebooks out. It has to do with the collective bargaining clause. He says it so quietly, it does not sound important at all. And tomorrow it will be on every first page in the country. No, that is not a Currier and Ives print over there.

The group shows signs of disintegrating. The men lounge in this most exalted room. There is a question about "District Commissioners" which draws a laugh, and the President at last looks just like the newspaper photographs. That is the signal for the end. People begin to move out. He lights a cigarette in an amber holder. Only a few talk to him for a few moments. They move out.

Outside there is drizzle and cheerlessness. It was comfortable in there; I should like to go back, pull an armchair up from under the line of prints, fill a pipe, and take up that matter of the old Indian trail at Hyde Park. He might not even mind.

World Accord Near on Grain

France and Germany Plan Larger Consumption, Smaller Acreage.

London, Sept. 19 (AP).—France and Germany were virtually removed today as wheat exporting factors for next year through statements issued by their representatives on the International Wheat Advisory Commission.

Measures by those governments to aid the wheat recovery program by increasing consumption and, in Germany's case, by decreasing acreage, were outlined. Representatives of the other importing nations told how their governments were modifying agricultural policies aiming to improve wheat prices.

Soviet Russia was represented as feeling her allotment of 44,000,000 bushels was not large enough. An alternative plan, without change in allotment but involving other concessions, may bring settlement.

Assurance of Argentine cooperation was made by that country's representative. The Australian representative declared the two big exporters of the Southern Hemisphere were working together.

Liner Safe in Port; Cheats Hurricane

Ship 4 Days Late Blown 150 Miles Off Course.

Charleston, S. C., Sept. 19 (U.P.).—The Clyde-Mallory Liner Henry T. Mallory, overdue since 7 a. m. Saturday, arrived here at 4 p. m. today from New York.

The vessel carried 53 passengers, who described as thrilling but frightening their experiences during a tropical hurricane that buffeted the North Carolina coast during the week-end.

The hurricane forced the ship 150 miles off her course. The four-day delay in the voyage from New York caused such a shortage of provisions that the only food available for passengers for the past two days was bouillon and sandwiches. Capt. J. E. Wood described the storm as the worst in his 38 years at sea.

Mother of Five Faces Trial in Mate's Death

Chesterfield, S. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—Selection of a jury to try Mrs. Charles Walker Arant, 38, mother of five children, on a charge of murdering her husband, a wealthy farmer, will begin here tomorrow.

Bone in Throat Fatal To Kansas City Jurist

Kansas City, Sept. 19 (AP).—Judge A. Stanford Lyon of the county criminal court died here today after an operation to remove a sliver of steak bone lodged in his throat.

Steak $11.15 Pound At Baby Beef Auction

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 19 (AP).—A new world record price for beef steak on the hoof was paid at the baby beef auction at the Eastern States Exposition today, when the grand champion owned by Theresa Grassi of Pine Plains, N. Y., brought $11.15 per pound.

The previous record was $8.30 paid at the East St. Louis Fair last year. The local vice president of a store chain was high bidder.

4 Men Killed In Nazi, Fascist Riot in Austria

Political Tension Tightens While Dollfuss Studies New Constitution.

Vienna, Sept. 19 (AP).—Decision whether Fascism or democracy shall dominate the new Austrian constitution hangs fire, it was revealed tonight at the federal chancellory.

The building was guarded by soldiers as correspondents gathered in to hear what Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss would say.

The chancellor did not appear, a spokesman saying he would withhold a statement "until he has reached a decision."

It was emphasized that while Vice Chancellor Franz Winkler was demanding a democracy and leaders of the Heimwehr (a pro-Italian Fascist organization) were demanding unadulterated Fascism, both sides would appeal to Dollfuss as an arbiter.

"When the chancellor has reached a decision, he will say so," added the spokesman.

Meanwhile, riots over the week-end added to the tension. In a clash of Nazis and the Heimwehr at Wolfsegg, near Linz, 3 men were killed and 12 wounded.

Removal of Nazi burgomasters in Carinthia caused riots in which several Nazis were bayoneted. A Heimwehr member was killed in Styria, stronghold of the Nazis.

Rail Gain Traced To Newspaper Ads

Head of Katy Says Drive Helped Revenue Jump.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—M. H. Cahill, chairman of the board and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, said today an aggressive newspaper advertising campaign figured prominently in traffic increases in August and September.

"New business attracted to the lines as a result of our advertising, plus the improvement in the business situation and the success of our employe solicitation movement, gives hope the Katy will again be able to earn its fixed charges," he said.

New Capone Trial Halted in Chicago

Justice Department Takes No Action in Case.

(Associated Press.)

Consideration of requests of Chicago authorities that Al Capone be returned to Chicago from the Atlanta penitentiary for trial on conspiracy indictments has been dropped by the Department of Justice.

The States Attorney of Cook County asked the Department to send Capone back after conspiracy indictments were returned in August. Another indictment later was returned and the Chicago authorities did not renew their request.

The department explained there is nothing now pending before the Department regarding the return of Capone, who is serving time for income tax frauds.

Eastman Extends Rail Investigation

Motor Transportation Also Included in Probe.

(Associated Press.)

Joseph B. Eastman, Federal transportation coordinator, yesterday extended investigations of transportation costs in two new directions and added another phase to a previously announced study.

He sent questionnaires to the Public Service Commission of each State seeking data on motor transportation. He dispatched inquiries to 1,100 shipping companies operating river, lake and ocean ships.

Eastman is making a study of the entire transportation system in an effort to determine how the carriers may be placed on a sound financial basis.

$60,000,000 Paris Lottery Launched

Paris, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—The French government went into the lottery business today with a certainty of profit without the investment of a single centime.

Tickets for the first instalment of 200,000,000 francs ($12,000,000) of the total lottery of 1,000,000,000 francs ($60,000,000) were distributed to banks, postoffices and tax collectors. On Armistice Day, at the Trocadero, sixteen new French millionaires will be created.

Tickets are valued at 100 francs ($6), and will be sold singly or in blocks of 10. Efforts will be made to keep the sale confined to France.

Airmail Pilot Cheats Death

Youth Lay 63 Hours in Dense Swamp After Michigan Crash.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 19 (AP).—A husky young airmail pilot who "kept the mail up" until he fell in a storm rather than risk delay, was recovering tonight from near-starvation and broken bones suffered in the crash.

He is Harold L. Neff, 26, of Cleveland, who lay 63 hours near his plane in a tamarack swamp from 3 a. m. Saturday until last night, while his colleagues, aided by authorities in three States, searched for him.

"I didn't dare go too far away," said Neff today, as he lay in a Jackson hospital, "because it was my job to stay with the ship and the mail. I yelled for help, but nobody heard me."

Crashing into the dense swamp during a blind flight through fog and rain, Neff suffered a broken leg and arm. He said he had battled the storm from Chicago to Toledo, en route to Cleveland, and then he lost his way, nosing over in the swamp as he tried to land, believing himself near Cleveland.

Taxi Driver Flogged By Mob in Florida

Miami, Fla., Sept. 19 (AP).—Taken from his automobile, a colored taxi driver who gave his name as O'Dell Means, was flogged by a group of unidentified white men, he reported to police today.

Nazis Guilty Of Reich Fire, Probers Find

Jury Report Charges Plot to Allow Outlawing of Communists.

London, Sept. 19 (U.P.).—A sensational report will be issued tomorrow by the international commission of jurists, sitting here, charging German Nazis with complicity in the burning of the Reichstag in Berlin the night of February 27.

The United Press learned tonight the commission's findings, after an exhaustive inquiry, will declare the evidence points to Nazi participation in the plot to burn the building, giving them excuse to outlaw the Communist party.

The commission included Arthur Garfield Hays, New York jurist. Its findings, which will be forwarded to Berlin immediately, on the eve of the Leipsig trial of five Communists on charges of burning the Reichstag, will include these major points:

1—That Ernst Torgle, former Communist party leader in the Reichstag, and three accused Bulgarian Communsts are innocent.

2—That Marinus Van der Lubbe, 24, a Dutch stone mason, has not been associated with the Communist movement since 1931, and publicly made pro-Facist statements just prior to the fire. He confessed he set it aflame.

3—That the evidence ponts to Nazi complicity.

A courier from Berlin tonight visited the commissioners and tore four sheets of white silk from linings of his clothing. On them was a message signed by Wilhelm Pieck, a Communist leader hitherto believed imprisoned.

The message said all members of the Communist executive not in jail or slain are continuing their secret activities in Germany.

Byrd's South Pole Plane Delivered at Boston

Boston, Sept. 19 (AP).—The twin-motored plane, in which Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd expects to fly over the South Pole, was received by him today at the East Boston airport. It was brought here from Long Island by Harold June, chief pilot of the forthcoming expedition.

The plane will be partially dismantled and placed on board the ship Pacific Fir, flagship of the expedition.

500 Longshoremen Storm Liner for Jobs

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—More than 500 longshoremen in search of jobs stormed a pier tonight when the Santa Lucia arrived from San Francisco.

Because of the number of policemen assigned to primary election duty, no officers were at the pier. It was impossible to get passengers ashore until an emergency squad arrived. Two hundred longshoremen were given work, and the rest were dispersed.

Three Fracture Skull Of Kidnaping Tipster

Denver, Sept. 19 (AP).—Beaten by three unidentified men who attacked him at 3 a. m. Saturday as he was returning home, William B. Ellsworth, who gave police information that helped solve the kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II, was taken to a hospital with a fractured skull today.

It was the third attack on Ellsworth, who, with his wife, supplied "tips" that led to the capture of Carl Pearce and Arthur Youngberg, convicted and sent to Leavenworth for long terms.

Reds Lower Nazi Flag, And Riot Brings Police

Hoover Arrives For Fair Visit

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Sun-tanned and jovial, former President and Mrs. Hoover arrived late today to visit friends and see the World's Fair.

Edward S. Clark Dies; Sewing Machine Heir

Cooperstown, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP).—Edward Severein Clark, 63, one of the four Clark brothers, who inherited the fortune derived from the Singer Sewing Machine Co., died today.

He was the eldest of the four brothers. The others are F. Ambrose, the horseman, and Stephen C., of New York, and Robert Sterling, of Middleburg, Va. The eldest brother, who was crippled from childhood, never married. He gave millions to charity and education.

Mrs. Jean D. Mitchell Files Divorce Suit

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Mrs. Jean D. Mitchell, widow of Charles M. Kittle, who was president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and the former wife of Fontaine Fox, cartoonist, filed suit for divorce today from Leon W. Mitchell, of Rock Island.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles A. Ross announce the marriage last Saturday of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Ross, to Mr. Thomas Keller, of 3805 Ingomar street. After their return from their honeymoon they will make their home in Washington.

The Chaplain of the House of Representatives and Mrs. James Shera Montgomery have returned from a vacation in Norwich, N. Y., Lake Mohawk and a motor trip through eastern Canada and have opened their apartment at 100 Maryland avenue.

Mrs. Albert Gore and her son, Mr. Philip L. Gore, have returned after several months in Canada and the White Mountains.

Mr. Richard A. Cooke, sr., of Honolulu, who is making an indefinite visit in Washington at the Mayflower, has been joined by his son and daughter, Richard A. Cooke, jr., and Miss Alice M. Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Keller, of West Hartford, Conn., with Miss Margaret Witmark, of Woodmere, Long Island, are spending a short time at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Eleanor Ryan and her brother, Mr. James Ryan, made a short visit in Washington yesterday with their grandmother, Mrs. Alex Morse, who lives at the Mayflower. They were en route to Hot Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Mann and their small daughter have returned to their home on Tracy place after spending the summer at Bay Head, N. J.

Mr. Donald McCreery, of Denver, entertained at dinner last evening on the Shoreham Terrace, for 10 guests.

Mrs. George McCall Courts, widow of Commander Courts, U. S. N., is visiting Mrs. Eliphalet F. Andrews, at Vauxcleuse, Seminary Hill, Va., while looking for a house.

Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss has gone to California to visit her mother-in-law, Mrs. William H. Bliss. She will return to her Georgetown home, the Oaks, the last of the month, when Mr. Bliss returns from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse will return today from Long Island, where they went to attend the Jockey Gold Cup races at Belmont Park last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Shouse will spend the next two weeks at Wolf Trap, their Virginia farm, before opening their Georgetown home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norment have returned from New York, where the latter went to meet Mr. Norment on his return from Europe last week.

Dashing New Holder Lures Bold Shopper

By Ruth Anne Davis.

Those for whom the bizarre, the exaggerated, hold passing charm, doubtless will be vastly intrigued with the serpentine cigarette holders now on display in a downtown department store.

So realistic they look, as though they might at any moment hiss, thrust forth a forked tongue and dart away, we'll wager the potential purchaser who hovers fascinated before them will have to muster up courage of a physical kind to add to her fashion daring, before she precipitates the financial transaction which will make one her own.

But, after all, the investment is not large, so the temptation to become the owner of the engaging holder is well worth succumbing to. The price is only 25 cents.

Perfume is a home-loving body. It often objects so strenuously to travel that it spills all over milady's bag and leaves not only an exaggerated fragrance but stains that too often prove indelible. Even so when it's carried shopping. As likely as not it will seep out of its small bottle all over the lining of milady's purse.

So something had to be done about it. Manufacturers appointed a kind of envoy, a powder, which has all the perfume qualities except that of running away. This comes in a small case, adapted nicely to pocketbooks, and may be used in the place of a liquid perfume. On sale in a Connecticut avenue shop.

Every time she opened the basement door her husband's gardening tools, his rake and his hoe, came tumbling forward in a heap. Every time he opened the door to the kitchen closet he was forced to retreat from an avalanche of brooms, mops and dusters.

Both of them argued about it. Both of them blamed the other, but neither of them did anything about it. And they could have remedied the situation had either of them donated a dime to the common cause.

You're wondering how? Because a G street store is selling little cadmium-plated steel spring holders which fit on to the wall and keep your mops, brooms, rakes or hoes firmly in place.

Traveling nowadays is almost a question of carrying your home surroundings with you. The radio, you can buy one appropriate in size and arrangement for any trip. And the same with typewriters, victrolas, umbrellas, irons — and now with lamps. A downtown store is showing some that fold up in clam-like fashion and fit easily into your overnight bag. They are so arranged that you can clamp them onto a chair, dresser, bed, table, or almost anything you like. Buy them in green, red, silver, gray or onyx for $1.25.

Interest in one's home should not extend merely to large and outstanding furnishings, but to details as well. For instance, such small items as match boxes are highly deserving of one's attention. It is through selection of little things that one's home finally develops the highest degree of charm.

A Connecticut avenue gift shop is showing some attractive matchboxes with shiny brass frames surmounted with heads of dogs, elephants, cats and horses. They're interesting looking, simple and in excellent taste.

The things which clutter up a dressing table are usually those which have no assigned lodging, such as pins, hairpins, bits of ribbon, buttons and what not. A downtown store is making it possible to care for all these items at one blow. It is offering little utility boxes which should be placed on top of the dressing table. They contain six small drawers designed to take care of all the odds and ends that usually rest on top of the table until some one relegates them to the waste baskets.

You may have no literary inclinations whatsoever, but it's two to one you'll be interested in the set of books on display in a downtown store. There are "A Case of Good Judgment," "The Greatest Thing in Life," "Spirit of the Age," "The New Deal," and "Am I Blue?"

Pull one of them out to see if you've read it, and—lo, and behold! —look what happens! A panel, made up of the camouflage volumes, opens up, and there, inside of what now discloses itself to be a small cabinet, is an oaken keg and several little glasses. It's a plain case of good judgment about a great thing in life, reflecting the spirit of the age, and new deal ideas, we might add—so you won't be blue.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of the Woman's Department of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 105, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

Bear's Sweet Tooth Causes His Downfall

Duluth, Minn. (AP).—Householders shot and killed a 400-pound black bear whose sweet tooth prompted him to raid fruit orchards. They caught the bear in the act.

Mushrooms Give Grand Flavor When Used Skillfully to Improve Many Ordinary Dishes

It's mushroom time again! Meaning that all sorts of dishes will now take a turn for the better. Omelets, soups, sauces and creamed meats. And even that dish that's pretty grand just by itself—a good, juicy steak. Bank it up with a generous siding of mushrooms—and there you'll have a rhapsody in food flavors, if ever there was one. George Gershwin ("Rhapsody in Blue") thinks so. And with or without the musical talent, many more folks will agree.

Luckily, muchrooms have each year grown less expensive and better in quality. So for months to come, while they are in season, we can revel in them without dangerous strain on the pocketbook. Luckily, too, mushrooms are so full of flavor (practically all flavor, in fact) it's possible to make them go a long way—when they're less plentiful or the cost is high. Just a few tablespoons of minced mushrooms (first cooked gently in butter) will flavor a whole pan of scrambled eggs or a dish of baked macaroni.

Tips on Choosing and Cooking.

To get the full value of mushrooms in these or any other dishes, it is important, first, to make sure they're fresh—creamy, plump and unspotted.

Important, in the second place, to cook them gently. If they are cooked long at high temperature they shrivel and toughen and lose flavor. When they are chopped, I should say three minutes is enough to cook them. Whole mushrooms will, of course, take longer—the exact time depending on their size.

A third important point is not to fuss too much over cleaning them. Wash them quickly in cold water, or wipe them with a damp cloth. Never waste their flavor by soaking them. If they're really fresh and young, they won't even need peeling. The cap is, of course, the choice part, but the stems are good eating, too, and even if a bit tough can be minced up for sauces and soups.

Mushroom Soup.

Here, for example, is a recipe for mushroom soup—that uses both caps and stems: Chop ½ pound mushrooms very fine and put them on the fire with 4 cups chicken stock and ½ teaspoon grated onion. Cover, and let simmer gently about 30 minutes, in order to extract the full flavor of the mushrooms. (If you have no chicken stock, use bouillon made from chicken-bouillon cubes. But be careful, in this case, about salting the soup, as these cubes are highly seasoned).

Then, in the top of a double boiler, melt 3 tablespoons butter, blend in 3 tablespoons flour and ½ cup milk, and stir smooth. Slowly turn the mushroom mixture into this, and stir till thickened. Season to taste, cover and let stand a few minutes to blend flavors. Just before serving add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and ¼ cup cream.

Chicken and Mushroom Patties.

Another mushroom dish that's made eating history is chicken and mushroom patties, made like this: First cut ½ pound mushrooms up into large pieces. Put them into the top of a double boiler with 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook gently 30 minutes. Then melt 1 tablespoon butter, blend in 1 tablespoon flour, and slowly stir in the mushroom mixture. Next add 2 cups cooked chicken cut into large pieces, and ½ cup cooking sherry. Let stand a few minutes to blend flavors, then turn into patty shells.

If you can't get cooking sherry, or don't like it, use ½ cup cream instead, and season this dish to suit your own taste with a bit of grated onion or a sprinkle of nutmeg, or both. This is enough for 4 patty shells.

Steak and Mushrooms.

For mushrooms to serve with steak, this is quite the best way I know, to proceed: If the mushrooms are small, just cut them in half lengthwise. If large, slice them lengthwise. Have the steak on broiling so you can steal ½ cup of the steak drippings from the broiling pan. If you can't get this much, make up the difference in butter. Put the mushrooms in a heavy pan with these drippings, cover and cook over moderate heat about 8 minutes—giving the pan a shake now and then so mushrooms won't stick. Season with ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Send for More Recipes.

For more ways to enjoy mushrooms, I think you'll find my new bulletin, "Mushrooms for Flavor," a help. What Today Means

"Virgo."

If September 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 to 8:30 a. m., from 5 to 6 p. m., and from 9:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:50 to 11 a. m., from 4 to 4:45 p. m. and from 7 to 8 p. m.

People generally will be inclined to stretch the truth on this day; it will be difficult to ascertain just what is fact and what is fiction. Do not place reliance on statements unless well supported by evidence irrefutable. If you have a problem of some sort that you wish to discuss with one of your children, today should find them in a receptive frame of mind and eager to follow your guidance.

The child born on this September 20 will be quick to seize any opportunity that comes his way. A generous nature will prompt this little one to share his possessions freely with those who have less than he. Will enjoy horseback riding and will be fond of animals. He will no doubt have many strange pets.

If September 20 is the date of your birth, you probably depend very greatly on those you have around you. You are a simple person in many ways, very trusting, and with a heart as big as a mountain. You are very frank about your own affairs, and perhaps too willing to talk them over with others in order to have their reactions. Many give you their confidences, and you are not always as careful as you might be about repeating what you hear. There is, however, nothing malicious in this tendency to talk, simply a lack of foresight, which leads you to ignore possible consequences. You will lose good friends in this way. You have a pretty good outlook on life and this enables you to really be of service to many who do not have the same equipment as you with which to meet problems.

Born on September 20, you will undoubtedly have to do a lot of consistent and hard plugging to get the results you desire. Although equipped with a better than average mind, you will possibly encounter more obstacles in your path than does the average person. You will have many pleasant surprises but few serious setbacks. You live for each day as it comes along, you put your best into everything that you do and you rejoice continually over the many good things that you have. A great love and admiration for either one or both of your parents will prove a driving force all through your life.

Successful people born on September 20:

Charles Carroll, statesman.
Charles M. Walcot, actor.
David R. Locke, humorist.
Lloyd Bryce, editor and author.

The Family Marketer

Cranberries Are Here and Price, Quality and Quantity Suggest Canning Now.

Let's take off our hats to the cranberries this season and praise them for asserting their independence. In contradiction to the other market products, they are making their debut at lower prices than they usually bring in midseason.

Now we can afford to buy them in quantities sufficient to put them up in jellies and sauces. Ordinarily it's a case of just finishing with the other fruits, cleaning those stains off the stove and sink and then falling into the thick of it again with cranberries.

Not this year, though. With them selling two pounds for 25 cents, we can afford to put them up here and now.

Cranberry Wine.

They say that in Siberia cranberries are used to make very excellent wine. If any of you know how it's done, please write in to the Family Marketer and inclose the recipe.

According to produce dealers, carrots have a comparatively small sale during the summer. However, with the advent of cool weather and the popularity of soups and stews, they come into their own once more.

At present they are being shipped in from Pennsylvania and New York. It is well to ascertain which State the supply on hand came from. The Pennsylvanians are said to be preferable.

According to a wholesale produce merchant, the latter usually are in better condition, larger, more tender and of a healthier color.

Try 'Em in Butter.

There are numerous ways to prepare carrots temptingly. Try cutting them in thin slices and frying them in butter. You'll be delighted with their savory taste.

Oranges, too, can stand the test of inquiry. Most of them on the market now come from California and are as sweet, juicy and golden as we can desire. However, occasionally appear a few stragglers from Florida, which are apt to prove as disappointing now as they will be interesting later on. In about three weeks the stragglers will give place to regular shipments and you'll find no better fruit anywhere.

String Beans Scarce.

Lima beans and string beans are provokingly scarce. The housewife who goes a-marketing and sees them as usual arranged in neat piles along the aisle doesn't dream of the effort it took to get them.

Lately they have met such unfavorable weather they not only are few and far between, but not in first-class condition.

Their wholesale price has doubled and in retail stores is higher. The lima beans in some cases are conspicuous for brown splotches on their shells. This, however, is no indication that the bean inside isn't all it should be.

Cauliflower in Fine Shape.

Although we can't count on the beans this week, we can fall back on cauliflower. They're here in A No. 1 condition, large and tender and reasonably priced at 19 cents each.

Seedless grapefruit, favorite citrus export from Florida, are selling for the same price as the seedy members of their clan. You can buy them for 10 cents.

One Must Eat And Keep Calm To Have Curves

Since one will be simply nobody in the world of fashion this season unless one offers the credential of curves, the business of acquiring them becomes really urgent.

Of what possible value are slinky, sumptuous form-fitting gowns if the figures they cover are angular and bony and graceless? What price backless evening gowns if the view they expose is one of a dozen or so skin-covered vertebrae?

On the other hand, when sinuous lines and daring exposures are high fashion, who would trifle with bunched material and who would be covered up?

Issue Can't Be Dodged.

There's no evading the issue. One may as well busy oneself, in the time ensuing between now and the launching of the winter social season, with adding a few extra pounds and praying they will distribute themselves in the most strategic areas.

Women of nervous temperament are first in the list of those apt to be too thin. They spend much energy in heightened muscular tension, while nervous disturbances quickly react on the alimentary tract, making it difficult to take or digest sufficient food.

Only intelligent persistence in taking regularly a supply of food in excess of immediate needs will result in a gain of weight. The removal, so far as possible, of causes of nervous excitement or irritation, and avoidance of unnecessary exertion, will help. Long hours of sleep are necessary to restore flesh to the nervous thin woman—not only because energy is conserved at the time, but because much sleep tends to decrease nervous tension during waking hours. Experiments have shown that undernutrition of itself tends to stimulate activity so that rest is quite as essential as food in question after curves.

Appetite Can Be Whetted.

Food must be taken regardless of appetite and often also regardless of minor digestive disturbances, for these do not necessarily signify that food is not to be finally utilized by the system. Increased nutrition generally results in better appetite and better digestion, so that what is, at first, great effort becomes pleasurable. At first it will be well to choose foods which can be taken without repugnance and which will digest easily.

Fluid foods are most easily taken when appetite fails and make practical additions to regular diet, as well as assimilible foods for the nervous person.

Milk, so valuable as a food, can be taken hot or cold, with added cream or milk sugar, or both, in cocoa and chocolate, in sherbets and ice creams, as malted milk, buttermilk, soolak or koumiss.

Fruit Juices Excellent.

Juices from sweet fruits, with their fuel value increased by the addition of milk sugar, are nutritious and palatable. Raw eggs are easily swallowed and give a good return on the effort made. They can be taken plain, or modified by being beaten up with milk, cream or fruit juice.

A tablespoonful of cod liver oil daily will not only add calories, but will increase vigor. A piece of sweet chocolate after dinner, or a dozen almonds, supply 100 easily acquired calories.

Very often the easiest way to increase the food intake is by one or two additional meals, as midmorning or midafternoon lunches, or a light lunch and a glass of milk or other nourishing beverage just before going to bed. This is especially true for women whose work is so exhausting that they come to their regular meals, "too tired to eat."

Since it is hard to fatten an overworked person, short rest periods should be taken in the daytime, in addition to long hours of sleep at night. If only for ten minutes, lie flat, and relaxed after lunch and again before dinner.

Sunshine, fresh air and exercise will promote the appetite and digestion so necessary in running up one's calory count.

Work, Study, More Work— This Girl Has 18-Hour Day

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP).—Working 18 hours each day may violate the letter of NRA, but that is the time allotted by 20-year-old Ruth Wagner, of Noblesville, Ind., farm girl and Butler University coed, to her daily routine of work, study and more work.

Miss Wagner's day begins at 4 o'clock with feeding, milking and general farm and garden work. Then she drives 40 miles to attend university classes in the morning. In the afternoon she works as a secretary at the university. Then she makes the 40-mile trip home to do farm chores again. After evening meal she drives to nearby Noblesville, where she sells tickets in the town theater. Her day ends at 10 o'clock.

Little time is left for study, but she has arranged to make every minute count. Never has she had a grade below "A" either in high school or college and she has won a scholarship for her fourth college year.

Raising fruit, vegetables and live stock and working as secretary and ticket seller have enabled her to pay her own way through three years at college. She plans to teach school.

New Fashion for Luxury Reflected in Fur Coats

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

Fur coats are getting pretty chesty about themselves. No longer is it enough just to be made of beautiful furs. They insist on joining the front ranks of fashion with those high-and-mighty details which make the silhouette big and broad through the chest, but wrapped slimly through the skirt section. Exactly as cloth coats are.

So you find scarfs spread like wings under the chin . . . shawls broadened out below the shoulders . . . revers pulled wide across the front . . . sleeves with fullness inserted between shoulders and elbows.

Luxurious Looking.

And along with this revival is the return of real Alaska seal, already much displayed in Paris in both black and logwood brown. Particularly handsome and luxurious now that fur coats are made on the same close-fitting manipulated lines as cloth coats.

Mink Always Correct.

Mink is another fur that takes on new beauty in these big-topped, slim-skirted coats. And its stripings can be worked to enhance both the width and the slimness. It's a fine investment in both fashion and durability . . . can go anywhere at any time of day or night correctly.

Real Eastern mink is queen of the striped furs, of course, but you can get an excellent effect with Jap mink or with muskrat dyed dark and the skins worked like mink.

Rich Hudson Seal.

More women will choose Hudson seal than Alaska, of course, when price must be considered. But for rich blackness and long wear there are few furs to beat it. And like mink, Hudson seal stays in fashion.

Another old-fashioned fur much in new fashion for these luxurious types of coats is Persian lamb. Gray is particularly smart with a collar of the same or of fox.

The light weight of caracul, plus its glossy sheen, makes this fur a continued favorite. Or if you prefer a flatter, curly fur, American broadtail gives you a sleek moired effect which is very flattering to many figures.

About Furs.

Fur experts are made (not born) after many years of fur experience. But there are many things about furs which the layman should and can know before investing in them.

We have a new leaflet which will help you to recognize some of these points. If you send us the filled-in coupon with inclosures, we'll be glad to mail you this leaflet.

Disappointment.

By Katherine W. Smith.

Green grapes grow beyond my reach—
Hanging, glistening in the sun.
Though I stand on tiptoe, I
Can never taste a single one.

Ripe grapes in a basket lie
Where you have laid them at my feet,
But when I stoop to taste them now,
I do not find their flavor sweet.

Wife Is Divorced, But Goes Home On Salary Basis!

Allerton, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP). After Ivan and May Jones had been divorced Ivan said:

"May, you're a darn good cook and housekeeper. I don't know what the house is going to look like without you."

"I'll be needing a job," she said.

And she got it. So she was back today. Not as wife, but as housekeeper and cook.

Clean Windows Achieved With Little Trouble

Simple Fluids Make Hard Task Easy—If Directions Are Followed.

Windows should be kept clean for two reasons: First, because children handle them and they are a source of germ infection; second, because an accumulation of dust and condensed vapor on window panes keeps out sunlight, which not only gives cheer, but is a natural germicide.

Windows will not need to be washed so often if care is taken to keep the house well ventilated during laundry work or cooking, as gases and steam will escape before condensing. Daily dusting of windows with a dry, soft cloth will keep them free of dust and moisture.

When windows must be washed there is a wide choice of effective fluids. Ammonia, alcohol or kerosene may be added to a pail of water. Two tablespoons of kerosene to a pail of water gives excellent luster to windows in winter. Soapsuds, even when well washed off and rinsed, is apt to leave the glass cloudy. One of the whiting powders makes an excellent "dry cleaning" for windows. It should be moistened with water or alcohol and applied in a thin paste, allowed to dry and polished off with chamois or soft paper.

Avoid the use of linty cloths and be sparing in the use of water, as drips make streaks hard to eradicate. Wash windows when the sun is not shining on them, as sunshine not only streaks wet glass, but strains the eyes of the worker.

Turpentine will remove paint spots on window glass and vinegar will remove whitewash.

Woman Wears Child's Clothes to "Crash" Dates

Monticello, Wis.—Mrs. H. E. Theiler is 25 and has been married five years, but on a dare she donned a child's dress and went to the Fair in Chicago. She got in on a 5-cent ticket for "children under 12," and visited concessions at children's rates. Not a question was asked.

Many Months to Feed Insures Employment

Olean, N. Y. (AP).—Every dollar paid the jobless men who have been given work in the city street department helps to feed from 7 to 11 children. No man with less than seven children is working in the department. Several have 10 or 11.

Postman Turns Painter, Wins Art Scholarship

Chesty? Why Not in This Jap Mink Coat

$395.00

Any one who gets this Jap mink coat at this price can afford to be chesty—with the price of furs where they are today. It has the little stand-up collar with full revers—when fastened it looks like an ascot but without the wear that tying causes. The sleeves are full and puffed at the wrists. Its heavy silk, braid trimmed lining is very smart. In size 18.

THE FUR SALON—THIRD FLOOR.

THE NEW Jelleff's
1216-1220 F STREET

An Announcement

We announce that our personnel, exclusive of executives, is now on a five-day week. That is, they actually work five days and are paid for a full six-day week. The store will be open, as usual, six days a week, from 9:15 A.M. to 6 P.M.

We ask you to make allowance if you do not find, when you come in to shop, the salesperson upon whose friendly services you have come to depend. She will be having her N. R. A. day off. But that makes possible the employment of others, and you have our assurance that these new salespeople also will serve you with the same courtesy and efficiency you expect to find at Jelleff's.

We believe you will co-operate heartily with us in carrying out this program which is an endeavor on our part to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of our agreement with the President of the United States.

Permit Sought For Two-Story Bus Station

Banking Institute Opens; 200 Expected in Class for 1933-34.

Application for a permit to build a two-story bus station building contemplated for erection at 54 Massachusetts avenue northwest was filed yesterday with the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann.

The application lists J. L. Dillard, 110 Third street northeast, as the owner and W. A. Kimmel, Evans building, as the builder. R. C. Archer, jr., is named the architect. Mr. Dillard declined yesterday to announce the transportation services contemplating use of the station.

The plan calls for erection in lots 45 to 49, inclusive, in square 626, of a brick and concrete structure having a height of 30 feet, a width of 60 feet and a depth of 90 feet. The estimated cost of the project is placed at $40,000.

Banking Institute Opens.

First of the fall term class sessions of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, have started and chapter officials predicted enrollments in the seven first semester classes would exceed 200. Walton L. Sanderson, Hamilton National Bank, chairman, educational committee, yesterday announced the subjects to be conducted and the following members of the faculty for the 1933-1934 school year:

Raymond B. Dickey, LL. B., LL. M., member of the District of Columbia bar and dean of the faculty, instructor in negotiable instruments; Eliot H. Thomson, LL. D., publicity manager, Washington Loan & Trust Co., bank organization and operation; F. Joseph Donohue, A. B., LL. B., member of the District of Columbia bar, economics and money and banking; Bolitha J. Laws, LL. B., LL. M., member of the District of Columbia bar, commercial law; James Daniel Cushman, C. P. A., of the firm of Buchanan & Councilor, analyzing financial statements; James C. Dulin, jr., LL. B., treasurer, American Security & Trust Co., corporation finance and investments; Harold W. Burnside, A. B., assistant cashier, Riggs National Bank, credit management; George Farnham, B. A., B. O., B. D., former lecturer, George Washington University, public speaking and debate; Frederick P. H. Siddons, A. B., LL. M., secretary, American Security & Trust Co., bank management, and Howe P. Cochran, LL. B., tax consultant, income tax law and procedure.

Mr. Sanderson announced that all the subjects prescribed by the National educational director in the prestandard and standard courses will be taught during the fall and spring terms. And, in addition, a special course in public speaking and income tax law. New text material, revised in conformity with recent changes in banking legislation, will be used this year, supplementing the regular institute textbooks.

Mr. Sanderson stated that because of the unusual volume of bank work, no classes will be held on the last night of each month. Courses in the local institute are open to officers and employes of banks and financial institutions.

Chapter Here Is Largest.

Washington Chapter is one of the largest and most active of the 230 chapters throughout the country. It has more than 500 standard course graduates, approximately 800 prestandard course graduates, and more than 1,400 individuals have completed subjects taught in the local banking school.

Because of plans for being the host to the 1934 national convention, the name of Washington Chapter will be constantly before the 50,000 member bankers of the country between now and next June.

Recent announcement that present stock of Capital Traction Co. will be exchanged into stock in the new merged street car company at $100 par value has created great interest in financial and investment circles.

There were recent advances in Capital Traction stock on Washington Stock Exchange in anticipation of the pending merger. A far better outlook for the consolidated companies is forecast in the financial district. The asked price on the stock at the first of the month was 0. Yesteday, the asked price for Capital Traction stock was 16.

The amazing progress of the NRA movement is increasing attendance at the local offices of New York Stock Exchange member firms. Interest centers in the possible effect of inflation on market action.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Dun's Insolvency Index for the first half of September stands at 77.3, compared with 86.7 for August. A year ago it was 128.8.

United Gas Corporation reports balance of $3,366,027 carried to earned surplus in the twelve months ended June 30, compared with $6,728,055 in the previous year.

Chicago & North Western Railway last week loaded a total of 22,632 cars of revenue freight, compared with 20,425 in the previous week and 22,651 in the same week last year. For the same period the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific had total loadings of 24,328 cars, against 21,351 in the previous week and 24,316 in the like week last year.

Wall street hears that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad management, on the basis of traffic indications for the remainder of the year, expects to operate at a profit in the final quarter.

Acquisition of the properties of the Old Hermitage Distillery at Frankfort, Ky., is announced by Allied Brewing & Distilling Co., Inc. The cooperage plant, the announcement said, will probably be the first unit operated. The company plans to employ between 100 and 150 men.

Organization Of New Jersey Mart Is Pushed

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Organization of the New Jersey Stock Exchange is progressing, and a meeting of the committee on organization has been called for tomorrow morning, Howard F. Froelick, chairman of the committee of representatives of 12 large New York Stock exchange firms announced today.

Froelick said several locations have been considered but nothing definite has been decided. He declined to state whether Jersey City or Newark was favored as a site for the new market, which is being considered because of New York City's plan to tax security transfers, in addition to the State and Federal taxes.

Froelick said the response to the circular which his committee sent out to all members of the exchange last night "has been immediate and enthusiastic. More than 275 acceptances have been received up to 1:30 o'clock this afternoon."

He continued, "a draft of a constitution and rules for the new exchange is new being prepared and will be in form for submission to the committee in the course of the next 48 hours.

While the New York Stock Exchange has not officially associated itself with the plan, Froelick's announcement was made to the press this afternoon from the office of the secretary of the committee on publicity of the New York exchange.

Reopening of Coal Mine Will Employ 500 Men

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.).—The mine formerly operated in the Scotts Run district by the Connellsville By-Products Coal Corporation, but closed since January 1, is being reopened by the Pittsburgh Gas Coal Co., and will give employment to 500 men, according to Samuel Pursglove, vice president of the new operating company.

New equipment is being installed to raise production capacity to 3,000 tons daily.

Bonds Decline Sharply Under Active Trading

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Inflationary clouds hovered over the bond market today and prices of prime investment as well as secondary issues declined sharply in active trading.

Sales totaled $15,918,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans sagged sixtenths of a point.

Growing demands of some members of Congress for immediate currency expansion as a means of advancing hesitant commodity levels apparently were taken seriously by many bondholders, and offerings, at one time, found few bids. The utilities and rails were under pressure throughout, although some of the lower-priced liens rallied with stocks in the final hour.

Carrier losers of 1 to more than 4 points included some bonds of Alleghany Corporation, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Chicago & Western Indiana, Cleveland Union Terminal, Delaware & Hudson, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, K. C. Southern, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Frisco, Southern Pacific, Southern, Union Pacific and Wabash.

Among utilities off 1 to 2 or more were loans of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Western Union. Industrial losers of as much included Loew's, National Steel, Otis Steel, Remington Rand, Standard Oil of New York and Warner Bros. St. Joseph Lead 5½s showed a gain of 1½ points.

United States Government securities were a trifle mixed. Foreign obligations were irregular. Some issues of countries still on the gold standard edged up to new highs, but losses of 1 to 3 or more were suffered by issues of Argentina, Germany, Japan, Austria, Denmark and Finland.

Output of Texas Oil Cut 233,215 Barrels

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 19 (AP).—A big drop in Texas production cut the country's daily average crude oil output by a total of 233,215 barrels last week, says the Oil and Gas Journal.

The Texas figure was 968,467 barrels, or 260,787 barrels less than during the week ended September 9. In east Texas alone the drop was 166,558 barrels to 470,000 barrels.

Oklahoma's output was up 50,780 barrels to 564,640 barrels daily, although California had a decrease of 23,000 barrels, the figure for last week being 490,000 barrels. Kansas output increased 2,425 barrels to 130,100 barrels and Rocky Mountain production was 1,580 barrels higher, to 82,240. Eastern fields were cut 4,000 barrels to 124,000.

Total United States production was 2,482,386 barrels, as compared to 2,715,601 the previous week.

Stocks Renew Advance In Spite of Heavy Sales

Popular Metals Aid General List in Rises and Market Closes With Three-Tenths Average Gain; Trading Totals 2,820,420 Shares.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Stocks stumbled into some rather heavy selling today, but a rally by the currently popular metals came to the rescue and the general list closed with a small average net gain.

Dollar exchange was steadier than of late, but still headed downward, and so our unit made fresh lows in terms of gold. The Treasury's gold quotation was $31.64, a new high.

Prevailing speculative leanings toward mining equities, as against those of other industries, was demonstrated in the morning, when most stocks bent sharply. A sudden burst of offerings toward the end of the first hour pushed the market down for many losses of 1 to 3 points or so, but the metals resisted and eventually pulled their neighbors out of the hole. Net changes, except for that group and a few specialties, were narrow.

American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, Dome, St. Joseph Lead, International Silver, Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro de Pasco improved 1 to 4. Homestake, after tumbling 20, cut its loss to 3. Texas Gulf Sulphur, very active, closed up 5, and Freeport Texas had a 3-point rise. The former reached a new high. National Biscuit, Case, Harvester, Union Carbide and Seaboard Oil gained a point or more net. Rails swung both ways, Union Pacific converting a 2-point loss into an advance of similar size. American Telephone, Allied Chemical, General Electric and General Motors finished unchanged. U. S. Steel reduced a loss of nearly 2 to a minor fraction, but the preferred was heavy. Utilities, as a group, looked rather unenthusiastic. Volume increased to 2,820,420 shares.

A rise of $33,000,000 in commercial loans of the reporting Federal Reserve member banks attracted considerable attention, especially since it followed a $23,000,000 advance for the previous week. It indicated a seasonal, if moderate, improvement in business borrowing at a time when expansion is most welcome. In some quarters it is being said that the Federal Reserve System's purchases of Government securities are likely to be stepped up, perhaps this week, presumably as a counter move on the inflation checkerboard.

Business reports included scattering returns on August income of railroads. Improvement over a year ago was the rule. Traffic has been slowing down this month and loadings statistics for last week are showing a smaller percentage gain over 1932 than has recently been the rule.

American Metal Market finds that the steel industry's general trend, says the review, remains undisclosed "because on the one hand there is still some specifying by buyers to take advantage of old contracts, while, on the other hand, the seasonal improvement usually expected has not yet begun."

Lamont's Steel Post May Remain Vacant

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Financial circles heard today that no successor was likely to be named for Robert P. Lamont as president of the American Iron & Steel Institute. Lamont, former Secretary of Commerce, resigned last week.

Reports in the financial district said a governing board would probably be chosen to direct activities of the institute under the NRA code through an executive secretary. Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who resigned the institute presidency some time ago, is expected to retain his present position as chairman of the body. Directors of the institute meet tomorrow.

Stocks—Heavy selling was overcome by the popularity of metals and the general list closed with an average gain of three-tenths. Sales increased to 2,820,420 shares.

Bonds—Inflationary clouds hung over the market and prices declined sharply under active trading. Losses averaged six-tenths of a point. Sales increased to $15,918,000.

Curb—Strength in metals resulted in a late rally and saved a sinking market. Early losses were recovered. Sales increased to 464,000.

Wheat—Late rallies drove wheat and other grains to higher ground. It was intimated strong financial interests were accumulating sizable holdings because of more confidence in stability of commodities.

Cotton—General buying, prompted by other markets and further talk of inflation, sent prices 32 to 39 points higher. December sold at 10.50; October, at 10.27.

Rubber—Crude rubber futures closed steady. September sold at 7.88; December, at 8.22 to 8.24.

Sugar—Raw sugar was quiet and unchanged, selling at 3.65. Refined was unchanged at 4.70.

Coffee—Spot coffee demand was quiet. Santos No. 4 sold at 9 to 9¼; Rio No. 7 at 7½.

Gold—Bar gold sold in the United States at $31.64 per ounce; in London at 131 shillings and 9 pence.

Dollar—The United States dollar lost on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.80 to the English pound; $6.05 cents to the French franc, and 39.65 cents to the German mark.

London—Owing to a desire to await developments in regard to the American recovery plan, business on the stock exchange was restricted today and trading was generally quiet. Despite the sustained firmness of bar gold, South American gold mining shares continued to show a dull tendency. International issues recorded slight losses and oil shares developed irregularity. German bonds drooped on anxiety concerning the political and financial situation in that country. The market closed dull.

Paris—Irregularity in the Wall street market accentuated cautiousness on the bourse despite the slump of the dollar. Electric, coal, chemical, Rio Tinto and Royal Dutch issues declined. French industrials were weaker, while rentes advanced and bank and Suez shares held steady. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse were irregular and trading was dull. Slight gains were registered in mining shares. The market closed firmer

Curb Recovers On Advance of Metal Issues

Late Rally Cancels Losses as Turnover Mounts to 464,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Strength in metal stocks injected new life into a sinking curb market today and brought about a late recovery that canceled or reduced losses of 1 to around 3 points.

Prices were irregular at the opening. Heaviness in utilities spread to other parts of the list, and liquidation was rather pronounced at the turn of the first hour. The list soon quieted and regained its balance as mining shares stepped to the fore.

Newmont Mining swung widely, supplanting a forenoon loss of 3 points, with a closing equivalent gain. Others in the metal group finishing about 2 or more higher included Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Lake Shore, and New Jersey Zinc.

In the power section, American Gas & Electric advanced 1¼, after canceling a similar drop. Electric Bond & Share ended with a net loss of slightly more than a point. Oils were narrowly changed, while alcohols canceled major declines to close about steady. A number of specialties were soggy.

Activity was again on the increase, transfers approximating 464,000 shares, compared with 449,000 yesterday.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Industrial Chemicals—Trade interests report that there has been no recession in prices in spite of a further contraction in demand. The present lull is regarded as natural in view of the exceptionally heavy buying during June and July.

Sheets and Pillow Cases—Jobbers and retailers, according to current reports, would take greater supplies from the mills if the latter were in a position to fill all orders for immediate delivery. Tightness of the market is attributed to the decline of working hours at the mills.

Copper—A somewhat better sentiment rules in the market despite a continued small volume of domestic buying. It is said that less metal is being offered below 9 cents, the official quotation, by second hands. Sellers expect some improvement with settlement of the code problems.

Flour—Some mill agents report a moderate pick-up in consumer buying, though the market as a whole still looks rather dull.

Dresses—Manufacturers report that retailers are reordering lightweight worsted dresses in all price ranges and that if cool weather continues sales of these types will be the largest in years.

U. S. Dollar Drops On Foreign Marts

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The American dollar showed some slight resistance in foreign exchange transactions today, but was still easy in terms of leading European currencies.

Measured by the French gold franc, the United States monetary unit was valued at slightly under 65 cent at one time, but later recovered moderately. The franc, at 6.01½ cents, was up .01½ of a cent after being quoted at 6.04 cents. The British pound sterling advanced 1½ cents to $4.78½ for cables. Dutch guilders gained .15 of a cent at 26 cents and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs were slightly higher. German marks, the Scandinavians and Canadian dollars were a bit firmer.

While inflationary sentiment continued to motivate American exchange, some short covering by European speculators was reported to have had a steadying effect on the dollar.

More Credit Urged to Push Trade Revival

Boston, Sept. 19.—In order to achieve sustained improvement in productive activity, says the United Business Service of Boston, credit must be expanded. Commercial loans and new financing, still at low levels, must rise. Present volume of credit is inadequate for the normal needs of industry.

Banks are ready and even eager to extend credit where the prospect of increased profits makes the ultimate liquidation of the obligation reasonably certain, says the United Business Service.

Just as soon as banks are convinced that a company is in a position to operate on a profitable basis, more liberal lines of credit will be extended.

But when this prospect of improved earnings is not present, bankers should not be criticized for withholding depositors' funds from dubious credit risks.

At the present time firms are advancing the prices of their products to take care of the increased costs of doing business under the codes.

If the market takes the output at the advanced price level, and it becomes evident that sales can be made in sustained volume with adequate profit, then banks will be willing to finance an increase in output.

So far, at least, the price increases have tended to encourage, rather than to depress, purchasing. A continuation of this favorable trend will lead to a healthy expansion of bank credit.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Union Pacific Railroad today reported August gross income of $10,137,992, compared with $9,829,355 for the same month last year. Net operating income was $1,960,285, against $1,689,612 a year ago.

Howe Sound Co., a copper producer, today lifted its annual dividend basis to $1 from 40 cents previously paid. Directors declared a quarterly disbursement of 25 cents, payable October 15 to stock of record September 30.

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Directors of the Southwestern Light & Power Co., have declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the $6 cumulative preferred stock payable October 2 to shareholders of record September 22. This was one-third of the normal rate, due to inadequacy of earnings.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad (Nickel Plate) today reported August surplus after charges of $39,574 against a deficit of $425,966 a year ago. Net operating income was $585,011 compared with $170,186 in August, 1932, while gross was $2,894,493 against $2,279,440.

Announcement of a combined dividend of Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association and Bank of America (California) totaling $775,000 was made yesterday by Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the general executive committee.

Of this amount the National Bank will pay $750,000, which is at the rate of 32½ cents a share, and the State bank $25,000 at the rate of 15⅝ cents a share. The combined dividend will be paid to Transamerica Corporation, which owns more than 99 per cent of the stock in the two banks.

Eastern Buying Drives Grain Values Higher

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Aggressive Eastern buying of wheat caused a lively upward movement of grain values late today, and earlier setbacks in prices went into complete eclipse.

It was intimated in some quarters that strong financial interests were accumulating holdings of wheat because of more confidence in the stability of commodities than in the dollar. Bulls emphasized persistent efforts looking toward currency inflation, and took special notice also of reported rapid signing of United States wheat acreage reduction contracts.

Wheat closed firm at virtually the day's top point, 1⅛ to 2¼ above yesterday's finish; corn, ½ to ⅞ up; oats, ⅛ to ⅞ advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Argentine Crop Damages.

Argentine crop damage reports, together with word of increasing injury to Canadian wheat as a result of continued rains over the prairie provinces, served at the last to accelerate price advances in the wheat market. Much notice, too, by grain traders was taken of a sharp rise of cotton. Earlier, a number of sinking spells had been met with by wheat values, and there was evidence of extensive spreading operations that involved selling of wheat here against purchases Northwest.

At one stage, wheat prices underwent a transient tumble of more than 2 cents a bushel, simultaneous with early downturns of securities in New York. At this juncture, the sole other news development adversely affecting grain was a London dispatch saying the world wheat commission had arranged for a conference, probably next Friday, with representatives of Russia. The purpose of the conference was stated to be to fix a wheat export quota for Russia to avert threatened dumping of Soviet wheat on the world's market.

Corn and oats rallied responsive to the late vigorous upturn of wheat. Most of the day, however, corn was influenced by selling pressure attributed to liberal arrivals of corn here.

Provisions lacked support.

United Air Lines Set Record in Mail Volume

August air mail poundage totaled 308,000, against 286,000 pounds in July. The company announced that air mail had increased gradually but steadily for four months.

Gasoline and Oil Sales Rise to Peak

More gasoline and motor fuel were sold by the American Oil Company in August than in any previous month of the organization's history, the company announced today.

The announcement also explained that this record sale was exclusive of any sales made in new territory added through the recent consolidation with Pan American and Transport interests.

August's sales of motor fuel was an increase of 49.1 per cent more than June's, it was stated. This increase was attributed to the 2-cent reduction a gallon in the fuel's premium.

Crude Rubber Consumption Cut in August

New York, Sept. 19.—Consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States for the month of August amounted to 44,939 long tons, which compares with 50,184 tons for July this year, and represents a decrease of 10.5 per cent under July but was 89.4 per cent over August a year ago, according to statistics released by the Rubber Manufacturers Association today. Consumption for August, 1932, was reported to be 23,721 long tons. Consumption for first eight months 1933 amounted to 279,847 long tons as compared with 244,621 long tons for same period 1932.

This organization reports imports of crude rubber for August to be 44,802 long tons, an increase of 1.2 per cent over July and 30.9 per cent above August 1932.

August reclaimed rubber consumption is estimated to be 9,446 long tons, production 11,708 long tons, stocks on hand August 31, 15,037 long tons.

Four Danubian Nations Agree To Wheat-Export Allotments

London, Sept. 19 (AP).—Agreement among the Danubian nations, Hungary, Roumania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria, as to their separate allotments for wheat exports under the world wheat agreement recently reached here was reported to have been attained at today's session of the international advisory committee.

At the same time it was said that a claim by Russia that her allotment of 44,000,000 bushels for export was too small, would be taken up at a later meeting between the representatives of the Soviet government and the four principal exporting nations, the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia.

Under the world agreement the Danubian countries were allotted 50,000,000 to 54,000,000 bushels of an estimated total world demand of 560,000,000, but they had not decided until today how this total would be divided among them for export.

A. Cairns, Canadian representative, who is secretary to the advisory board, will shortly make office arrangements for London headquarters of the group.

Trade Asks Action On Foreign Bonds

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The Federation of Foreign Trade associations today urged action toward the formation of the Corporation of Foreign Security Holders for which provision was made in the Federal securities act for the protection of American holders of foreign bonds.

The federation said that foreign bonds totaling about $7,000,000,000 were outstanding in the United States, of which more than $1,500,000,000 were in default. The federation comprises foreign trade and export groups throughout the country.

Texas Oil Adds New Directors After Fight

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Management of the Texas Corporation, $500,000,000 oil concern, under fire from an independent group of stockholders for exercising control while holding but a small interest in the company, today announced the addition of three new directors said to represent some of the largest holdings in the corporation.

At the same time, it was announced that Henry G. Lapham, of Boston, had resigned his directorship. J. H. Lapham, of San Antonio, Tex., however, remains as a director and chairman of the executive committee.

The opposing group of stockholders, headed by J. E. Crosbie, of Tulsa, and joined in its opposition by R. C. Holmes, a director who resigned as chairman of the company last May following internal friction, charged that the "Lapham family" group and associates had become dominant in the management, although holding less than 2 per cent of the stock. In letters sent to the some 90,000 stockholders yesterday, Holmes urged that 12 additional directors be added to the present 13, and a special meeting of stockholders be called October 24 to vote on the plan.

The three new directors added today were Lester J. Norris, of St. Charles, Ill., said to be a direct representative of the estate of John W. Gates, one of the founders; William H. Mitchell, of Chicago, son of the late John J. Mitchell, who was a director from 1910 until his death six years ago, and Walker G. Dunnington, a representative of Mrs. Hill and the estate of the late James M. Hill, who was a director from 1913 until his death last year.

Places on the board for the three new directors were made by the resignation of Lapham and by enlarging the membership from 13 to 15.

Second Gold Exchange Is Opened in Manila

Cotton Prices Climb Again In Buying Rush

December Closes at 10.50 as General Market Gains 32 to 39 Points.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Cotton resumed its advance today after an early decline. General buying was promoted by the late action of the grain and stock markets and further talk of inflation.

December contracts, which had sold off to 10.01 during the earlier trading, shot up to 10.63, making an advance of $3 a bale from the low of the day and a net advance of 47 points. That delivery closed at 10.50, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 32 to 39 points.

Reactionary sentiment following the recent extensive advance was more or less in evidence during the early trading. First prices were 6 to 10 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, realizing and Southern selling.

The selling movement failed to broaden on the decline and as offerings tapered off, the market turned steadier, with demand becoming more active as prices worked upward. The buying was active in the last half hour, sending October up to 10.40 and May to 1.08, or 45 to 49 points net higher and 57 to 62 points above the low level of the morning. Closing quotations were some 10 to 13 points off from the best under hedging and realizing.

Trade interests were among the buyers during the day and there were reports of an increased spot demand from both foreign and domestic sources.

Exports today, 16,792, making 969,464 so far this season. Port receipts, 66,667; U. S. port stocks, 3,183,363.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was more active today and prices were firmer on increased covering and speculative buying, promoted by continued talk of inflation and the sharp upturn in cotton and crude oil and the good rally in grains and stocks. Closing prices were 17 and 25 points net higher with sales of 62 contracts. Bleachable spot closed 5.10, September 5.15, December 5.45, January 5.55, March 5.63.

Sales Improve In Electrical Supply Lines

Heavy Brewery Equipment and Home Appliances Lead in Popularity.

New York, Sept. 19.—Production and sales of electrical supplies have improved definitely during the past four months, attributed to increased industrial buying, a more popular demand for household appliances, and the urgent requirements for heavy electrical brewery equipment.

By comparison with the eight months of 1932, the gain in the total of dollar sales has ranged from 5 to 20 per cent, with the rise in unit volume nearly of the same percentage. Stocks are averaging from 20 to 35 per cent larger than at this time last year.

The outlook now is considered more encouraging, and leading supply houses expect to round out the year's business with at least a small margin of profit, despite the fact that the continued tardiness of collections is retarding progress to no small degree.

Improvement in Future.

While the present outlook is more encouraging than it has been in years, future improvement in merchandise sales will depend upon a further broadening of employment, while sales of wiring and other construction materials will be contingent on a revival of building activities.

This industry, like many others, is basing high hopes on the benefits to accrue from operations under the code provided by the NRA, particularly in the way of greater stabilization, elimination of unfair competitive practices and wider employment.

Many firms already have taken on additional help, because of the adoption of the five-day week, according to a survey of the electrical supply trade, which has just been completed by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Manufactruers Well Occupied.

"Although the backlog of unfilled orders has been diminishing during the lats 30 days," the survey continues, "production schedules generally are higher than they were a year ago.

"Total orders for the second quarter not only exceeded that of the first one, but rose above the figures for the comparative three months of 1932.

"The usual summer let-down in operations was prevented by the strong improvement in the Nation's business. Orders for the largest types of electrical installations have been noticeably absent, but some improvement in this branch is expected when contracts will have been let for the large amounts of electrical equipment required for the war vessels to be constructed by the Navy Department.

Small Types Popular.

"Shipments of the smaller types of industrial equipment and supplies, on the other hand, have been enlarging steadily. During the last three years of comparative industrial idleness, many plants had borrowed parts from idle machines to keep those in operation in running order.

"Revilving business, therefore, found equipment unequal to requirements, and there has been a strong inflow of orders for parts of every description.

"During the summer, production of refrigerators not only increased from 50 to 200 per cent over the monthly average of the past five years, but the all-time record for the output during any single month was surpassed. Twenty-four hour schedules were general and shipments ranged from six to eight weeks behind orders.

Sales Level Raised.

"The general volume of electrical supply sales during the eight months of the current year ran ahead of the comparative level of 1932, despite the poor showing made in the first quarter.

"Refrigerators easily took the rank of precedence in the sales totals, with a strong second provided by washing machines, the movement in both virtually being one from the manufacturer to the consumer, as dealers' stocks are negligible. The demand for lighting fixtures and wiring has been rather sluggish, due largely to the lack of building activity and the advance of prices and the increased labor costs have caused some slowing down in installation work during the last 60 days.

"The larger purchases of industrial customers, who are ordering diversified materials to rehabilitate plants, have been particularly encouraging, as this class of business had been dormant for nearly three years.

Demand for Motors.

"The demand for small-sized motors has picked up to such an extent that manufacturers have been compelled to augment working forces in order to meet shipping dates. The reconditioning of plants has been one of the chief sources of business for this division during the last four months.

"The expansion of general industrial activity has been paralleled by that of electric output. For, with the week ended September 9, the production of electricity has been above the figures for the comparative period of 1932 for 19 consecutive weeks.

"Conservative estimates now place the 1933 power use at 4.2 per cent above last year's figures, as for the 35 weeks to September 2 the total output was 52,824,737,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 51,784,740,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period last year, an increase of 2.01 per cent.

"Collections have not improved to any extent, and close supervision is being maintained in the granting of credit. It still is difficult to obtain payments of any size from old delinquents, and only small reductions have been made in indebtedness carried over from last year. This has handicapped manufacturers in their endeavor to aid retailers in stocking much-needed merchandise."

Giants Gain Flag as Nats Still Need 2 Wins After 4-0 Loss to Browns

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

LITTLE old New York is still rubbing its eyes at the spectacle of the Giants now securely ensconced on the National League throne for 1933.

Manhattanites will be presented with a glimpse of the world series from an unexpected quarter as a result of the surprising conquest by the Giants of their National League rivals which yesterday ended successfully, albeit in a slightly minor key, when the Giants found a back-door entrance to the league championship by reason of Pittsburgh's defeat by the Phils simultaneously with their own defeat by the Cardinals.

But if, last spring, anyone had dared to predict in New York that the Giants, not the Yankees, would represent Gotham in the 1933 world series, he would have been adjudged non compos mentis and committed tout de suite, if not sooner.

Not Rated Highly.

Those Giants last spring were about as important in the pennant scheme in New York as the Third Avenue Bearcats. They went South with Bill Terry as manager with the general concession that they had their position clinched—sixth position, where they finished in the 19?? race.

The Yankees were the favorite sons in Gotham. Hadn't they won the 1932 American League pennant by 13 games, coasting? Hadn't they polished off the Cubs in four straight in the world series? If there was any pennant winning to be done for New York, the Yankees would do it.

Didn't they have Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig? And Gomez and Ruffing? They did, and Don Brennan, the best International League pitcher, was going to join them from Newark. In the fall, New York would go to see the Yankees play, whoever won the National League pennant.

And now New York will trek to the Polo Grounds, not Yankee Stadium, for its taste of the world series. Where the Yankees failed, the Giants surprisingly succeeded. That sixth-place club that Bill Terry took South took the lead on June 10 and never let it go until they salted away the pennant with eight games to spare.

Trade Not Promising.

Between seasons, in the winter trading, nothing occurred to enhance the dismal outlook of the Giants. Terry traded big Frank Hogan off to the Braves for a weak-hitting catcher, Gus Mancuso. He gave the talented Freddie Lindstrom to the Pirates for Outfielder George Davis. There was nothing in those deals to cause Giant supporters to go into spasms of elation.

Through one period, early in the season, the hitting of Lindstrom was sadly missed. Ott, Davis and Moore, Terry's outfielders, or gardeners as baseball vernacular has it, were hitting so poorly that Giant fans were calling the trio the sunken garden.

And then Terry's pitchers started to come through for him. Carl Hubbell, a veteran of 10 years in the majors, pitched his greatest ball, twirling shutout after shutout. Fred Fitzsimmons, another Giant vet, also enjoyed his best season. Hal Schumacher, the flop of 1932, was the sensation of 1933. Roy Parmalee, the original wild man, settled down, and pitched winning baseball.

Trade Helps O'Doul.

His hitters still weren't hitting for him, so Terry went into Brooklyn and extracted Lefty O'Doul, the National League's best slugger in 1932, in a trade for First Baseman Leslie. O'Doul barely was hitting his weight with Brooklyn. His transfer to the Giants was like a charm. Again he became the menace of all National League pitching.

The Giants perked up. From third place they launched a drive that landed them in the lead on June 10. Hubbell, Parmalee and Schumacher kept them up there. Successively they knocked off every threatening rival. The only thing that could keep them out of the world series was plague, pestilence, locusts or an act of Providence.

And the Yankees? Oh, yes. They had Ruth and Gehrig and Ruffing and Gomez and Brennan. But it didn't make any difference to the Nats.

Al Foreman Winner.

Levinsky-Baer Aim of Dempsey

Los Angeles, Sept. 19 (AP).—Jack Dempsey said today he had telegraphed King Levinsky, conqueror of Jack Sharkey, an offer to meet Max Baer November 21, at Wrigley Field here.

The former heavyweight champion did not disclose what terms he had offered.

"I believe Baer needs a fight or two before next summer," said Dempsey. "Levinsky is a dangerous hitter and a rough chap who will make Baer step all the route."

Only 12 Seek Capital Golf Honors

THE District golf championship, scheduled tomorrow and Friday at Indian Springs course, looms as a competitive failure what with only 12 starters thus far entered.

Always the Capital's most important tournament, and looked upon as the crownnig event of the golf season, the District championship is attracting the slimmest field in history, and officials of the District association were scratching their collective heads last night wondering just what caused this sudden apparition.

For years the District tournament has attracted from 50 to 100 entries.

Four Reasons Seen.

The first is the fact that many players do not relish the 72-hole grind, and would prefer an 18-hole qualifying round and two days of match play.

Secondly, the depression has hit the golfers and the $3 entrance fee is important money.

Invitation tournaments have been huge successes this season, with from 300 to 400 competing. No entrance fee is asked in such tournaments, thus accounting for the tremendous fields.

Ask the golfers for a $3 fee to enter an invitation event, and you have a hard time getting 75.

To further detract from the District championship, four of the best golfers in the District have announced that they will not compete.

Four Stars Missing.

Harry B. Pitt, of Manor, can't play because he's cruising about the World's Fair at Chicago. Miller B. Stevinsn, of Columbia, doesn't relish the 72-hole grind. Martin F. McCarthy, of Beaver Dam, who participated in the recent National Amateur at Kenwood along with Stevinson, has passed up the District for the Anacostia Amateur Open—a public links tournament. Young Maury Nee, of Columbia, finds it impossible to abandon his studies at Georgetown Prep. Pitt and Stevinson are former District champions.

Dr. W. C. Barr, secretary, greatly perturbed over the obvious lack of interest, announced that post entries would be accepted.

10:00, John R. Miller (Beaver Dam) and Dick Lunn (Chevy Chase); 10:06, Louis Fuchs (Indian Spring) and Roger Peacock (Indian Spring); 10:10, Reese Hair (Washington G. C. C.) and F. M. Williams (Washington G. C. C.); 10:15, Larry Otell (Indian Spring) and Capt. K. J. Fielder (Army and Navy); 10:20, Harold L. Smith (Indian Spring) and Maj. R. K. Sutherland (Army and Navy); Billy Dettweiler (Congressional) and Harvey Johnson (Columbia).

13th Pennant Clinched by New York

Gain Flag Despite Loss to Cards as Pirates Also Lose.

Underdog in Race Never Headed After Taking Lead on June 10.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19 (AP).—The New York Giants backed rather ingloriously into pennantland today, clinching first place in the National League for the season and at the same time taking a 12-to-3 beating from the Cardinals in the final game of their Western tour.

The Phillies did the actual clinching for the new champions by beating Pittsburgh in the second game of a double-header and wiping out the Pirates' last chance of overtaking the Giants. This news was posted on the scoreboard when the Giants were at bat in the second inning after the Cards had pounded Hal Schumacher for a 4-0 lead in the first. From then on the Giants took it easy.

Manager Bill Terry immediately called in a new battery, Glenn Spencer and Paul Richards, and at the finish John ("Blondy") Ryan, the shortstop, was the only regular on the field. There was no available subsitute for him.

Thirteenth Pennant for Giants.

It was the thirteenth pennant for the New Yorkers, putting them on even terms with the Cubs, who won for the thirteenth time last year.

If the Giants lose the rest of their games, ten in all, including today's game at St. Louis, they still will end the season one percentage point higher than the Pirates, who have seven games left.

The best possible record the Pirates can attain is 89 won and 65 lost for a .578 per centage. The Giants, who have won 88 games already, can't lose more than 64 as two games have been permanently wiped off their schedule. This would give them an average of .579

Never Below Third Place.

The Giants, who were given only an outside chance of finishing in the first division in their first year under the management of Bill Terry according to preseason calculations, never fell below third place after the race got under way. They went into the lead to stay on June 10, and kept on increasing their margin to the clinching point today.

In the past two weeks, making a final trip through the West, they disposed of their last two rivals, the Pirates and the Chicago Cubs, by direct attack, first holding Pittsburgh to a one-game margin in a decisive series and then taking four out of six from Chicago to end the Cub's hopes of winning the flag.

Yanks Pound Ball in Twin Victory

Uhle Allows Chisox Only 4 Hits as New York Wins by 10-1 and 10-3.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP).—The Yankees stretched out the American League pennant race for at least one day more as they overwhelmed the Chicago White Sox in both games of a double-header, 10 to 1 and 10 to 3.

The Yanks piled up 17 hits in each game, including Lou Gehrig's thirtieth homer and circuit blows by Joe Sewell and Dixie Walker in the opener. Gehrig continued his slugging in the afterpiece, driving in five runs with a triple and two singles.

George Uhle held the Sox to four hits in the first clash to ring up his sixth straight victory for the Yanks. Charley Devens was less effective in the second game, giving nine hits and eight walks, but he pitched well in the tight spots. Johnny Stoneham, Chicago recruit outfielder, led off the first game with a homer for the only run off Uhle.

Cubs' Defi for Series Is Accepted by Chisox

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—President William Veeck of the Chicago Cubs formally challenged the Chicago White Sox to a series for the city championship today and Louis Comiskey, Sox president, accepted.

Details of the series will be worked out in the offices of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis in the next few days. The Sox are the defending champions.

Sarron Meets Genaro at Laurel

THE public is practically assured of at least one-half of a good fight tonight when Pete Sarron tangles over the 10-round route with Mickey Genaro at the Twin City arena. Sarron has never disappointed in a local showing, but very little first-hand information is available about his opponent, who has never shown here.

If the record books mean anything—and sometimes they do—Genaro should be able to give Sarron a very interesting, although probably not a losing evening. The newcomer claims to be but 26 years of age and to have been in the ring for eight years. He has met practically all the better fighters, including Barney Ross, Tony Canzoneri, Bat Battalino, Johnny Datto and Edouardo Duarry. The last three he has beaten at one time or another. Duarry, whom Genaro knocked out, decisioned Tony Herrara at Erie, Pa., night before last.

Banged Up Von Reedon.

Genaro lost a split decision to Charley Von Reedon in Baltimore last week, but in doing so, banged up the latter's eye so badly he was unable to get in condition for the fight with Sarron tonight, forcing his withdrawal in favor of the man he conquered. For the first time in local rings, Sarron will be outweighed, which may prove a decisive factor against him. Genaro will weigh at least 132 to his opponent's 128.

Tony Lopez, who was scheduled to fight in the main bout of last week's washed out show, will meet Kid Groves of Baltimore in a 6-round semifinal.

6-Hit Shutout Pitched by Coffman

Reynolds, Mellilo Lead Attack on Whitehill With Long Blows.

THE humble forms of the St. Louis Browns yesterday projected themselves athwart the pennant path of the Washington Club and once more checked the Nats' surge toward clinching the American League flag, which has now been a matter of hours for 48 hours already.

This latest reverse was a bitter pill for the Nats to masticate for the gentleman who stood between them and one more of the required two victories was a former employe of the Washington firm, blond Dick Coffman, who wielded an artistic whitewash brush in applying a 4-0 shutout to the Nats.

The combination of Coffman at Griffith Stadium and the Yankees up in the Bronx served to lop a full game and a half from the Nats' once haughty nine-game lead, but Washington still is only two victories away from the flag with eight games to play. Each Yankee defeat is tantamount to a Washington victory and the Yanks have nine games to play.

It is thus possible for the Nats to clinch the pennant today, if they beat the Browns, and the Yankees lose.

Allows Nats Six Hits.

While Coffman, a Washington cast-off of the 1932 campaign, was forcing the Nats to submit to a galling six-hit shutout, the last-place Browns were abusing no less than Earl Whitehill, one of our very best pitchers, who suffered his eighth loss of the season.

Coffman was teasing the Nats all afternoon, permitting them to get on base, but when the time came for run-making, Coffman clamped down, as the saying goes, and left all of our valiants to perish on the paths.

There was a suggestion of a ninth-inning rally by the Nats that saw two men get on base with one out, but they needed four runs to tie the score and Sammy West choked off all signs of a rally when he scampered out to within reaching distance of the flagpole and hauled down Mr. Buddy Myer's heroic attempt for an extra-base hit.

Reynolds Chief Offender.

Fans Predicting Pitching Duel in First Game Of Series, Post Contest Editor's Mail Reveals

WITH due regard for the pitching talent of both Alvin Crowder and Carl Hubbell, respective aces of the Nats" and Giants' mound staffs, fans participating in The Post's fascinating baseball contest are predicting close scores in the opening game of the world series at New York, on which the contest awards will be based.

Low-hit games by both Crowder and Hubbell, with the winning team rarely being given more than 4 runs, marks the bulk of the pregame versions of the fans seeking the nine box seats to all Washington world series games that The Post will award the winners of the contest.

Rules Are Simple.

The simplicity of the contest, in which there are no essays to write and few rules to observe, continues to attract hundreds of fans daily as The Post's baseball contest editor is swamped with the pregame prophecies of the score by innings, run totals, hit totals and error totals, besides the probable batteries of each club.

Cutie Face Wins Over Character in Feature Race on Card at Havre de Grace

Head Decides Winner in Sprint

Filly, Paying $8.80, Up to Grab Verdict in Last Few Strides.

By Staff Correspondent.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 19. — Don Meade, the youngster who for two years was confined to riding bad-legged mounts and often won despite that handicap, demonstrated today why he is now in the employe of E. R. Bradley with a Kentucky Derby victory under his belt. It happened in the fourth race, a claiming affair for the better sprinters, which featured this second charity day.

Meade had the mount on Cutie Face and the filly was trailing the fleet-footed Character by some six lengths when the pair turned into the stretch and Character appeared to be pulling away. Dabson was giving the leader a smooth ride when Meade went to work with his whip. At the sixteenth pole, he had cut down some of the margin, but his desperate pounding of the filly seemed useless. But Don just ducked his head behind her mane and beat all the harder. At the edge of the mutuel board Cutie Face was a half length behind, but Meade gave her a final slash and up popped her head in front of Character. And the value of win tickets on the filly jumped from nothing to $8.80 in a bat of the eye.

Meade's Great Ride.

Some 7,000 watched Meade's great ride. True, some claimed that Dabson had "gone to sleep" on his

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

The upstate New York printer who took the opportunity to do a little advertising on his wife's tombstone, as illustrated in the above drawing, was not alone in this form of publicity. Strange as it seems, several instances are known where friends and relatives have interrupted their mourning long enough to direct the stonecutter to include an advertisement on the grave.

In Kent, England, a stonecutter found it convenient to advertise his own products by setting up a bargain special at his wife's grave. On it was carved:

Here lies Jane Smith,
Marble Cutter.
This monument was erected by her
Loving husband as a tribute to her memory and
Monuments of this same style are 50 pounds.

In Paris the widow of a lamp manufacturer went even further in pointing to the merits of her late husband's products. She had erected at his grave a stone which bore:

Here lies Fournier (Pierre Victor),
Inventor of "Everlasting Lamps,"
He was a good father, son and husband.
His inconsolable widow continues his business
At No. 10 Rue aux Trois;
Goods will be sent to all parts of the city.

with Bill Bennings.

Havre de Grace Race Track.

Dear Al:

Mrs. Bennings' lovely son has to confess he had only two winners yesterday and a parlay on the pair would hardly have paid for a steak dinner. However, he begs to report that the Bennings horses were batting in tough luck all afternoon. Wise Ways, an exclusive choice, got the worst of the start and finished a bang-up second, and he was better than 16 to 1. Topple, another Bennings hope, was ridden all over the track to lose by a couple of eyelashes. Another was piloted by young Jimmie Sullivan, who, in present form, will stop any man's horse. The weather forecast is for rain here today. I have let Mike influence me in these selections. BILL.

First Race—Stand Pat appears to be a standout in the opener. In fact, with his good races, it is hard to believe that this colt is still a maiden. However, his opposition has been, for the most part, of a select class. Can't Remember ran a good race opening day and should be second. Carvel Hall did well in an outing at Marlboro and may be better than rated.

Second Race—Fairbypair gets in a race that he seems to favor. A dangerous horse in any field, the son of Noah is reported to be sharp. An off track would make him a stronger bet. The speedy Sanction for the place and Rehoboth to show.

Third Race—Salisbury appears to have the edge on this crew. His last at Hawthorne would have been a winning effort, had he escaped blocking. This looks like the spot. Rustic Cuba, the half-miler, will be dangerous. Sharp as a tack and would run well in the mud. Annimessie for the show.

Fourth Race—I'll take Madame Snob here. Won easily at the smaller oval. Light Breeze is in good shape. Figure this one to lead Lazi Canter home.

Fifth Race—Microphone may and may not be ready to take a purse at this route. However, gets the Bennings call. Has been packing a lot of punch in sprints. Okapi and Tred Avon for the other money places.

Sixth Race—Mountain Elk hasn't collected a purse since last winter, but was racing himself into top form when he left Chicago. Appears ready for a best effort.

Seventh Race—Flying Cherokee came down from Saratoga in good shape and figures to take this on any kind of a track. All Rowes sprinted the other day.

Backs Disappointing to Coaches as Maryland and Georgetown Squads Scrimmage

D. C. Elevens Benefit by Workout

GEORGETOWN and Maryland staged another of their friendly scuffles on the Hilltoppers' field yesterday. The boys left their brass knuckles in the locker room and pocketed their animosity, but, despite this disarmament, the pace was brisk and tough.

Numerous errors by both teams cropped up and there were frequent halts while the rival boards of strategy lectured their charges. The worst offenders were backfield men. Georgetown's spinner plays often ended with the quarter back handing the pigskin very politely to a Maryland lineman. Maryland's backs reciprocated by batting the ball into the hands of oncoming G. U. linemen, or muffing it.

Drill O. K. at Times.

There were times, however, when the workout was entirely satisfactory to the coaches. At one stage of the proceedings, Maryland put its offense in operation on its own 20-yard line and finished in the shadow of its goal posts, which was most satisfactory to Georgetown's coaches. Lloyd Williamson and Bill Downer, tackles, and George Becker, guard, were bulwarks in the line that thrust back charging Maryland backs.

Not infrequently, however, did Dick Nelson, Jack Benner, and Earl Widmyer, Maryland's speed merchants, knife their way through the Hoya line for sizable gains. The three also skirted the ends for appreciable advances.

Both elevens tested their forward passing apparatus and found them wanting in many respects. Georgetown had a slight edge on its neighbors in overhead play, Mack Stanley, Wilmer Bradley and Joe Meglin tossing lengthy passes to one another.

G. W. in Passing Test.

George Washington's regulars received their first taste of defensive work yesterday afternoon on the Tidal Basin grounds. The second eleven resorted to passes as its principal offensive weapon, but with "Red" Rathjen, center, doing most of the work, the first stringers effectively halted their opponents.

Bill Parrish may be one of the ends the G. W. mentors are looking for. Parrish is snagging passes in flawless fashion. Johnny Baker's long-distance punting, and Jack Crane's pass receiving featured the drill. Crane, a second stringer, is showing up so well in practice he may be a valuable man to insert in games for a pass at crucial moments.

Assistant Coach Len Walsh missed yesterday's work-out and will be confined to his bed for several days. An injured groin, suffered at Camp Letts, rendered the spirited Irishman hors d' combat.

McVean Back at C. U.

Dutch Bergman's headache, brought about by his rapidly growing injured list, was somewhat relieved yesterday when Charley McVean, C. U.'s "forgotten man," as far as moleskins are concerned, stepped into the front rank of plain and fancy eligibles for a regular half-back assignment. Charley, the younger of the brothers, who has been on the Cardinal squad since 1931, was a star member of Gonzaga High School of this city several years ago.

McVean's lively stepping in yesterday's tough scrimmage was a treat for sore eyes, especially Dutch's eyes, that have been lamping bruised backs, "charley horses" and infected feet the last few days.

A lively scrimmage yesterday between varsity and freshmen teams resulted in the dislocation of Al Secino's shoulder. A sophomore, Secino was considered a good prospect. He may be out of action for the entire season.

3 Winners Ridden By Meade at Graw

It was the third victory of the day for Meade—a day which saw two favorites win. Surety galloped home in the fifth to pay a mere $2.80, and Aegis took the final at $3.20.

The green hoops on white of the Bradley Stable worn by Meade came sailing home in the first race. The flying legs that won the sprint were those of Bartering Kate, a daughter of old Boot to Boot. Finishing like a shot out of a cannon, but too far out of it for winning purposes, came Shell Hole to take the second money from the overlooked Deskin. Bartering Kate paid a $7.80 mutuel. The favorite, Red Badge, ran nowhere in particular.

Meade made it two straight in the second race. This time he drew the mount on Kings Minstrel from the Widener barn. Rounding the far turn, it appeared that the favored Par Value and Decorate would battle it out for the purse. Kings Minstrel was third and Wise Days fourth. However, Kings Minstrel found his real speed on the swing for the stretch and came around on the outside to go to the front followed by Wise Ways. The latter was making up ground with every leap, but the winning margin was two and a half lengths. Par Value managed to cling to third position. Meade followers cashed a $28.80 mutuel in the usual $2 transaction.

Biff Pays $83.80.

Mutuel prices reached a new high for the meeting when Biff, fresh from the half-mile tracks, paid $83.80 to win the third. Topple, the favorite, had a rough trip and was a fast-closing second ahead of Le Miserable. A. Williams, a Marlboro boy, kept Biff behind the swift pace set by Aske, Tody West and Les Miserable until the swing for home, where he took the lead. In the meanwhile, Topple had been shuffled back to seventh. Tipton brought his charge up with a futile rush in the final sixteenth.

Nats Again Bow To Browns, 4-0

Fourth inning—Cronin walked and Schulte beat out a bunt with none out, but Cronin was caught at the plate, attempting to score on a grounder to third.

Ninth inning—Boken singled and Travis was also safe on a fielder's choice. Enter Sammy West and his catch of Myer's fly.

run in the fourth inning, and a longer triple that started the Browns off on a two-run splurge in the eighth, which saw Whitehill make a very ungraceful exit in favor of Al Thomas. Oscar Melillo forced two runs home during the eighth with a very compelling two-base hit down the right-field line.

Corby Cup Play.

A field of 129 women, led by the defending champion, Miss Florence Scott, of Manor, will vie today at Columbia Country Club in the annual Corby Cup championship. The course was thrown open for practice rounds yesterday, and many of the women scored unusually well. The Corby event is of the 18-hole medal handicap variety.

Indian Spring.

Mrs. Perry B. Hoover, former club champion, who has played little golf since quitting the game three years ago, continued to display old-time form yesterday when she defeated Mrs. J. F. Gross, 4 and 3 in the semifinals of the Indian Spring Club tournament. Mrs. Hoover also won the medal with her 98 last week.

Werber's Hits Help Red Sox Down Tribe

Boston, Sept. 19 (AP).—The big bat of Bill Werber was largely responsible today for the Red Sox' 4 to 3 defeat of the Cleveland Indians, the last meeting between the two teams this season. The victory gave the Hose 6 victories against 16 defeats for the season against the Indians.

Werber made two doubles and a triple in four times at bat.

Foxx Clouts 46th Home In 5-2 Defeat of Tigers

Philadelphia, Sept. 19 (AP).—The Athletics nicked Detroit pitching for three home runs today and a 5-to-2 victory, taking the second straight game from the Tigers in the closing series between the two clubs.

Jimmy Foxx's forty-sixth circuit clout of the season, in the third inning, sent the Athletics out in front, after Bob Johnson's four-bagger in the second had tied the count at 1-all. Pinky Higgins hit a homer in the fourth.

Walt Mason, Himself

True Optimism.

My friend, James Jinx, was going straight from workshop to his humble home; up came a colored delegate, and soaked him roundly on the dome. The robber took his store of bones, some fourteen smackers, more or less, and laughed to hear his sighs and groans, and made a jest of his distress. James scrambled slowly to his feet, enduring agonies intense, and started up the darkened street to reach his lowly residence. And then a white man came along, with skulking yet resilient tread, and he was resolute and strong, and he soaked James upon the head. He took the victim's watch and ring, his fountain pen and pocket-knife, in fact he bore off everything except that wretched fellow's life. They took James in an ambulance to white-washed ward and snowy bed, and there the surgeons had a chance to overhaul his damaged head. I saw him as he left that place, his head wrapped up in many bands, a ghastly smile upon his face, that made me weep and wring my hands. My sympathy I then expressed but James dismissed it with a smile; although disfigured, still he guessed his luck was far from being vile. "A black man slugged me, as you say, a white man slugged me when we met, and still my luck holds good today—no yellow man has slugged me yet."

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Oil The Baby.

In the present state of the art babies 9 months old and older are pretty healthy. The death rate in the group is not much higher than the general death rate. Nor do they have a great amount of nonfatal illness. Mothers and nurses know how to take care of babies of this age. Babies between 6 and 9 months old are also on a pretty satisfactory basis. They do not have as low a death rate as does the general population of the present day, but it does compare favorably with that of forty years ago.

The great unsolved problem is that of the young babies—those who are less than 3 months old. We must learn to take better care of the very young babies if we are to have continued improvement.

There are some pretty well established facts that need to be more generally known and adopted. A baby's first few baths should not be tub baths, nor should soap and water be used. The proper cleansing agent is oil. Babies that are cleaned with oil keep several degrees warmer than those cleaned with soap and water, however warm the bath water and the air of the room may be.

Very young babies are extremely susceptible to cold. Their skin temperature is very prone to drop and if it does troube may follow. To wash a baby with soap and warm water, dry him, powder him, and dress him is quite apt to make his skin temperature fall. Besides, washing and dressing require much handling and the less a very young baby is handled the better are his chances.

Babies cleaned with oils lose less weight and that is very important. Some loss in weight during the first week is inevitable and it should be avoided in so far as is possible. Cleaning with oil is one way to do that.

Feeding from the beginning is an even more effective way. The newborn baby should be put to the breast within six hours after birth. Probably no food will be forthcoming, or what is supplied will be scant in amount and of poor quality. In that event the baby should be given either water or milk, or both.

A few teaspoons of boiled water, cooled and then heated to blood heat, should be given at about four to six hour intervals, especially in warm weather.

Most babies need and can take some milk. The best milk is that from the mother, although if that is not available well diluted and sugared cow's milk can be used, provided it is of good quality and pasteurized or boiled.

Rockbridge Fair Now in Full Swing

School Children Admitted Free Tomorrow.

Lexington, Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.).—The Rockbridge County Fair opened yesterday. It will close Saturday at midnight.

School children will be admitted to the grounds free Thursday, and all firemen, in uniform, Friday night, when they, with their 16-piece band, will lead a parade.

Ship Lines Win Point In Panama Canal Rates

(Associated Press.)

Steamship companies operating through the Panama Canal yesterday won an initial contest with transcontinental carriers when the Interstate Commerce Commission refused to suspend the first joint water-rail rate ever proposed between Pacific ports and Mississippi Valley points.

As a result, a freight rate of 76 cents per 100 pounds on canned goods became effective at midnight.

Pope Will Decorate 2 Austrian Officials

Vatican City, Sept. 19 (AP).—Pope Pius will decorate President Wilhelm Miklas of Austria with the Order of Christ, the highest papal order, and Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss with the Order of the Golden Spur.

The decorations will be given as the result of the honors accorded the church during the recent celebration in Vienna of the anniversary of the deliverance of the city from the Turks.

Revenue Post Scramble on in Harrisonburg.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 19 (Spl.). The eight-candidate race for election as city commissioner of the revenue, November 7, has been cut to seven by withdrawal of J. C. Stickely, chairman of the city council finance committee.

Where the Experts Lose Out.

I saw a hand played recently by one of New York City's leading experts on which he went down at a Slam contract simply because he was too good a player and too accurate at counting the opponents' hands. A weaker player, blindly following certain rules of Dummy play, would have undoubtedly fulfilled the contract and scored the premium points which are awarded for a Small Slam bid and made. But this expert, ironically enough, incurred a 450-point penalty, instead of making a big plus score, as a result of playing the hand correctly.

West, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

West	North	East	South
1♠	3♣	2◇	Pass (1)
2♠	Pass	3♠	4♡ (2)
4♠	Pass	Pass	5♡
Pass (3)	Pass	5♠	6♡ (4)
Pass (5)	Pass	Dbl. (6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South is certain that the bidding will not die at this point and hopes that if he enters the bidding later he will be doubled at a contract of four or five hearts, which he feels certain that he can make after his partner's Overcall.

2—South now decides to enter the bidding.

3—A Forcing Pass, telling partner whether to bid five spades or to double.

4—South feels fairly certain that East and West can make five spades and also hopes to have some play for six hearts, as on the bidding it is quite possible that North will show up with a singleton spade.

5—Again a Forcing Pass. West is suspicious of the hand and believes that North and South can conceivably make their contract.

6—East knows that he and his partner can not make six spades, but he has great hopes of being able to take one or two spade tricks defensively. Hence the Double rather than a bid of six spades.

West unfortunately chose as his Opening lead the diamond Ace. He had no way of telling that his partner held a seven-card diamond suit and from the bidding could not be blamed for suspecting that South was void of spades. Of course, it is easy to see that had be opened a spade he could have cashed 2 spade tricks immediately and then the hand could have been spread by the Declarer for down one. With a diamond Opening South immediately had great hopes of making the hand. After ruffing in the closed hand he paused to consider and, after analyzing the bidding, he decided that the West hand must hold five clubs and East a singleton.

He knew that East had only three spades and he further knew that despite the fact that East did not rebid diamonds, his persistent spade Raises must be based on good distribution, and this distribution must have included one club or one heart. South temporized for an instant and laid down the Ace of hearts, and when he found one in the West hand he now was fairly certain of his count and that East did hold a singleton club or at the most two cards of that suit.

Therefore, South quite naturally came to the conclusion that he could not lay down the Ace of clubs first and then finesse the second round of the suit, as this line of play would only give him one spade discard instead of the two he needed. With the clubs breaking 5 and 1, the only way to get 4 club tricks would be to immediately finesse the first round of the suit and then subsequently finesse against the Queen a second time.

It is easy to see what happened. South was correct in his count on the opponents' hands, but as a reward for his very fine analysis he found himself defeated three tricks when he could have made the hand. The dub would automatically play the Ace of clubs first rather than finesse the first round of the suit and would have made six-odd without any further difficulty; but the expert had the great misfortune of losing to East's singleton Queen and a club ruffed before he could claim the rest of the tricks. His line of play can not be criticized in any way—as a matter of fact, in my opinion it should be highly commended and the loss just charged up to the fortunes of war. After all, with five clubs in one hand and one club in another, the chances are 5 to 1 rather than alone in the other hand.

Tomorrow's Hand.

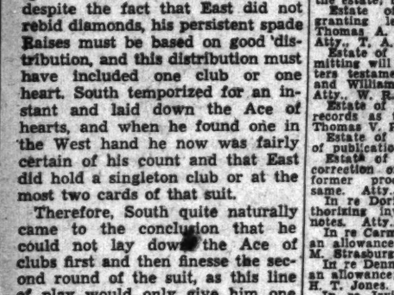
South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Waifs Increase Over Nation, Report Shows

11 Per Cent Gain in Foster Home Inmates Among Figures Listed.

(Associated Press.)

A 7-per-cent decrease in the number of children cared for in institutions and an 11-per-cent increase among those in foster homes were reported yesterday by the Children's Bureau on the basis of a survey in 13 cities for the year ended last June.

The number of children cared for in boarding houses, where some social agency pays a housewife to care for public charges, gained 12 per cent.

Work or wage homes, in which foster care is given in exchange for work done by children, or care is given and a wage also paid for children's work about the home, gained 36 per cent.

The volume of institutional care of children, which was said to have remained "relatively unchanged," started its downward trend in the spring of 1932.

Foster-home care, on a steady climb, was 30 per cent higher in June, 1933, than the monthly average of 1929.

The cities surveyed were Washington, Louisville, New Orleans, Grand Rapids, St. Paul, Buffalo, Syracuse, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Lancaster, Pa.; Sharon, Pa., and Providence.

"Cap" Stubbs —And That Reminds Him By Edwina

WELL, IT WAS PRETTY LONESOME IN TH' CITY WORKIN' IN A GROCERY STORE, AN' LIVIN' IN A DINGY OLD BOARDIN' HOUSE! — BUT EVERY DAY A LETTER COME FROM CLARABELLE MAE TELLIN' ME TO HURRY UP AN' MAKE MY FORTUNE!
THAT MADE IT EASIER! AN' IF I COULD ONLY HAVE HAD A SLICE OF ONE OF MA'S BLUEBERRY PIES I COULD OF STOOD IT — UMMMM! — SAY, MARY, HOW ABOUT A PIE FOR SUPPER —
WELL, THINGS WENT ON, AN' I'D SAVED TWO DOLLARS MORE — BUT CLARABELLE MAE HAD BEGUN TO MISS A DAY NOW AN' THEN WITH HER LETTERS AN' THEN I DIDN'T HEAR FROM HER FOR TWO WEEKS —

Bullet-Marked Car May Solve Jones' Murder

Two Held, One Eyewitness to Shooting Grilled by Police.

Two automobiles, one bullet-marked, may help identify the killer of Charles W. Jones, 32, Fourteenth and Clifton streets northwest, police believed last night. The cars are held by police.

From one of these cars may have come the shot that whistled into the blind alley at the rear of the Government Printing Office and fatally wounded Jones, an alleged bootlegger, in revenge for his part in what police believe was an old hijacking case.

Two Quizzed in Vain.

William Quirk, 20, of an Eleventh street address, and Meyer Belasco, 25, 803 Third street northwest, were booked for investigation. Quirk was an eyewitness to the shooting, but told police he could not aid them. After fruitless grilling, he was locked up in Fifth Precinct.

Out in the Eleventh Precinct Belasco said he could furnish no clues.

Police held 10 other persons—four of them women. These were not booked, but it was felt they might throw some light on circumstances preceding the shooting.

In his little lunch room at North Capitol and K streets, Charles W. Jones, sr., father of the murdered man, and a former boxer, said he urged his son no later than last Sunday night to seek legitimate employment.

Brother Released.

George Jones, 28, brother of the slain man, at first believed to have been present at the shooting, was released after questioning. He denied having been in the alley when his brother was killed.

Police last night abandoned the theory that a second man had escaped death with only a wound in the hand. Jones, they said, apparently was the only victim.

Jones, survived by his widow, Edna, and two children, died about an hour after the shooting. A partial autopsy was performed by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald and Deputy Coroner Christopher Murphy. They said Jones apparently tried to duck.

Catholic U. to Open With 1,200 Students

Enrollment in the various colleges and schools of the university is about the same as last year, it was announced. There is an increase, however, in freshmen from Washington and vicinity.

48 Fair Employes Lose Plea for Pay

Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday dismissed a petition filed by 48 employes of the National City Fair, which sought a judicial ruling compelling receivers for the fair to pay one week's salary.

The receivers protested the ruling, saying that to pay the 48 would so deplete the resources that other creditors would receive little.

Previous to the filing of the petition, other minor employes of the fair, which was sponsored by the police and fire post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, had obtained a ruling that they were to be given one week's pay. Many had not been paid for three or four weeks, it was shown.

Slayer Facing Death 8 Days Without Food

The appetite of Charles Harris, alleged slayer under death sentence in connection with the killing of Milton W. Henry, Washington gambler, remained unemployed last night as he passed his eighth foodless day in District Jail.

Girl, 4, Lost, Finds It a Lark

Four-year-old Frances Williams, 520 Thirteenth street southeast, went places and saw things yesterday. She was found wandering aimlessly at Eleventh and M streets southeast by R. B. Jacques, 21 U street northwest. Then her adventures began. She was taken to the Fourth Police Precinct and later to the Receiving Home. She was having a wonderful time when her grandmother, Mrs. E. M. Haring, came for her.

Halt of Gold Stock Sales Asked in Suit

Pending final accounting which he demands from the New Mexico Gold Producers' association, headed by former vice president Charles Curtis, Charles Taylor, of the Kennedy-Warren apartments, a former salesman for the company, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to halt sale of additional stock in the company.

Taylor informed the court that 50,000 shares belong to him because of his efforts as a stock salesman and a promoter, and he asked the court to direct that the stock be given him.

The suit charged that 450,000 shares have been sold for approximately $500,000, mostly to Washingtonians.

E. C. Graham Predicts Economic Revival Here

Declaring prospects for fall business have nothing but favorable elements, Edwin C. Graham, president of the new Hamilton National Bank, predicted at a meeting of the Advertising Club yesterday that "the National Capital is on the verge of an economic revival."

He said many factors contribute to the decrease in buying power in Washington, but said a bad psychological effect rather than from real facts caused the slump here.

Commission's Decision On Car Merger Nears

Approval of the street railway merger by the Public Utilities Commission is expected tomorrow. Members of the commission are studying the transcript of the testimony at Monday's public hearing on the plan.

Stockholders of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. will meet Tuesday to vote on the proposal. Consummation of the consolidation depends on a favorable vote of the stockholders.

Difficult!

Repairs on Monument Require Planning.

Work of repairing the Washington Monument will be let to a private contractor, but the project can not begin for at least two months, Park Service engineers said yesterday.

Scaffolding around the shaft will require extensive designing, and elaborate specifications also must be prepared. The technical staff of the engineering office of the park system will be increased by at least six persons at once.

The Monument work and other District repair jobs will be financed with public works funds. Specifications for other jobs are being drawn and the work probably will start about October 1.

G.W.U. to Open Its 120th Year

Dr. Wilbur Will Speak at Two Assemblies of Freshmen.

George Washington University will open its 120th academic year today with classes meeting on regular schedule in all departments.

The freshmen assemblies will be held in Corcoran Hall, at noon and at 6 p. m. Dr. William Allen Wilbur, provost of the university, will preside and introduce Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president; Dean Henry Gratton Doyle, of the junior college; Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personal guidance; Prof. James E. Pixlee, director of physical education for men, and Prof. Ruth Atwell, director of physical education for women.

Opening ceremonies at the law school will be held at 10:10 a. m. for full-time students and at 5:10 p. m. for part-time students. Dean William Cabell Van Vleck will preside.

Medical students will assemble at 11 o'clock in Hall A of the medical school building. Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital and professor of psychiatry, will speak on "Enlarging Responsibilities of Physicians."

Druggists Lay Liquor Gouge To Distilleries

The recent upward surge in retail prices for medicinal liquor is blamed on distillers by druggists, who claim wholesale prices have more than doubled since July 15.

Huge profits are anticipated after repeal by distillers, druggists say, because they will be able to increase their present supply by a process of rectification, or "cutting."

Rectification will be permitted after repeal, according to the druggists, and distillers will be able to increase their stores sevenfold.

Shortage Denied.

The vertical increase in retail prices is not due to any shortage, it is explained, but rather to a desire by distillers to whittle down prerepeal consumption by making the price prohibitive.

On July 15, Tom Hardy Whisky was quoted at $24 a case. It now costs $55. Old Forrester cost $32.50 a case. Now it costs $72.50.

"One the other hand," one prominent druggist said, "the wholesale prices of imported wines have decreased. Wines we formerly sold at $4.50 and $3.50 a quart are now retailing at $4, and $3."

Profits Reduced.

"Two months ago we were able to sell a good grade of whisky at $2 a pint. The precipitate rise in wholesale prices compels us to retail it at $3.50 a pint. Our margin of profit has been cut greatly."

Liberalization of prescription laws has materially increased consumption of medicinal liquor, according to the Bureau of Prohibition, but on July 1, records show, there were 14,000,000 gallons of medicinal whiskies in bonded warehouses.

Rev. Wood to Receive New Rank in October

Investiture of the Rev. Charles Dubois Wood, benefactor of the Catholic University, to the rank of domestic prelate probably will be in the crypt of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception early in October, Bishop-elect James Hugh Ryan, rector, announced yesterday.

A priest of the diocese of Charleston, Father Wood has been actively interested in Catholic University.

Order of Moses In Annual Session

Delegates from five States were welcomed by R. H. Chatman, past grand master; W. H. C. Brown, conservator of the Industrial Savings Bank; Jesse Lewis, professor of economics at Howard University; the Rev. J. H. Randolph, pastor of Mount Moriah Baptist Church; W. H. Fitzhugh and W. W. Murray, grand master and deputy of colored Odd Fellows.

Responses were made by Mrs. Mollie Flagg, Springfield, Mass.; A. T. Johnson, State grand master of Virginia, and Mrs. Lucy Burrell. Business sessions will continue through Thursday afternoon.

Ouster of Clerks Draws New Fire

Women's Party Declares Protest Is Unanswered.

Miss Anita Pollitzer, vice chairman of the National Woman's Party, insisted last night the Adjutant General's Office had failed to answer her organization's contention "that women are being discriminated against" in the dropping of 47 married workers.

She contended it was the intent of Congress that furloughs rather than dismissals should first be placed into effect, and that such furloughs should be applied to higher-salaried employes first.

Meantime, it was learned about 28 other employes of the War Department, many of them married workers, have been released.

Masons Extend Time For Close of Festival

Closing the festival conducted by Stansbury Lodge, No. 24, Free and Accepted Order of Masons, at Georgia and Colorado avenues northwest, has been extended to September 23, it was announced yesterday.

The fete has been in progress two weeks. Additional features, including band concerts, have been arranged by the entertainment committee.

Revelation

D. C. Lawyer Finds Blue Eagle in Bible.

Nathan B. Williams, Washington lawyer, was looking through the Bible yesterday and found the origin of the Blue Eagle:

"I found it in Revelations, C[hap]ter 13, Verses 16-17," Mr. Wi[lliams] said.

The quotations are:

"And he caused all, both [small] and great, rich and poor, fr[ee] bond, to receive a mark in [their] right hand, or in their forehe[ads]

"And that no man might [buy] or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name."

Ruling Allows Shows Open to 3 A. M. Sunday.

The District Commissioners yesterday approved an amendment to regulations requiring amusement places to close at 11 p. m. Saturdays. The new closing hour is 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

The Commissioners acted on recommendation of Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, who said officials of the Federation of Churches did not object.

The regulations still require that theaters be closed until 2 p. m. Sundays.

2 Construction Contracts Let For D. C. Work

P Street Bridge and Good Hope Paving Projects Approved.

The District Commissioners yesterday awarded two contracts for projects financed by the Public Works Administration. They authorized a third.

Construction of the P street bridge over Rock Creek went to the Pecora, Gaskill Engineering and Contracting Corporation and A. T. Carozza, of Baltimore, whose low bid was $199,347.

The paving and curbing of Good Hope road from Naylor road to Nichols avenue was awarded the High Engineering & Construction Co., of Washington, which bid $101,799.50.

The Commissioners authorized paving of Reservoir road, between Foxhall and Conduit roads. Bids will be asked later for this project.

Hardwood Parley Holds Exhibition

Convention Visitors See 'NRA' Dahlia Sticks.

Exhibits ranging from the efforts of an Australian "world's champion woodchopper" to red, white and blue "NRA" dahlia sticks yesterday entertained 500 delegates and visitors at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Seaboard Hardwood Association, Inc., in the Washington Auditorium.

Those attending the convention saw the latest in patent-leather dog harness, a lawnmower which trims as it cuts and a washable interior paint-proof against juvenile art. The exhibit, open to visitors without charge, will continue until Friday night.

Petworth Citizens Ask Pay Cut Be Restored

The Petworth Citizens Association at a meeting last night adopted a resolution to petition the District budget committee to restore the 15 per cent pay cut by the first of next year. The resolution was presented by H. O. Craver, a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Col. Charles I. Stengle, former U. S. Representative from New York, and major of the civic and service organizations branch of the NRA, praised the Petworth section for its response to the recovery program.

Students Plan Plays At George Washington

Three one-act plays each month of the school year are planned by the Drama Appreciation Group of George Washington University, a new organization for students interested in the theater. The first plays will be given next month.

Mrs. Lenore Romney is director and Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, dean of the Women's College, and Mrs. Theodore Tiller, sponsor of the organization.

Eastern Leads School Roster Rise to 81,984

Eastern High School continued to lead in enrollment yesterday, as the local public school population was swollen by 4,063 pupils, bringing it to a total of 81,084.

Enrollment at Eastern rose to 2,798 pupils. Central's registration was 2,496; McKinley's, 2,271; Roosevelt's, 1,680, and Western's 1,640.

26,958 Are Colored.

Of the 81,084 enrollment, 54,126 are white and 26,958 colored. Robert S. Anderson, school statistician, whose estimate of the opening day was within 21 of the correct figure, was 1,084 pupils too low in his advance estimate of yesterday's enrollment.

Pressing school problems will be tackled at a meeting of the Board of Education this afternoon. A report is expected at this time from a special committee dealing with the problem of reemploying married women teachers who gave up their jobs so their husbands could keep their Federal positions.

This committee is composed of Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, Dr. J. Hayden Johnson and Henry I. Quinn, champion of the cause of the married teacher.

Nonresident Cases Up.

The board will investigate 25 cases of young men and women, classed as nonresidents, who wish to enter the teachers' college as residents with free tuition. These prospective students live in Washington and some work here, but their parents are either deceased or live out side of the District. Under the school law, parents or guardians of resident pupils must either live in Washington or be employed here.

Rules were waived in several cases of this character at the board meeting last week, and it is expected that further exceptions will be made today.

Lucky, What?

2 Pupils, Not Vaccinated, Ignored by School.

Barbara and David Entz are experiencing the paradox of going to school, but not being recognized as pupils.

They are children of H. H. Entz, who refuses to have them vaccinated, but insists they attend school. School officials are prohibited by act of Congress from enrolling pupils not properly vaccinated.

The Entz children attended Gage School again yesterday on persuasion of their father, but no notice was taken of them. Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, will confer with the corporation counsel today on the situation.

Permit Needed To Let Rooms

Police Court Judge John P. McMahon yesterday criticized District officials for their lax administration of the law which requires the licensing of all rooming houses in which three or more rooms are used for apartment purposes.

In dismissing a case against Mrs. Nellie Sullivan, 72 years old, Judge McMahon suggested that the corporation counsel's office notify all rooming house proprietors that they are actually conducting apartments, so that they may obtain licenses.

Mrs. Sullivan was charged with operating unlicensed apartment houses at 412 H street northwest and 625 Fourth street northwest. She pleaded ignorance of the law.

"Thousands of people are running rooming houses unaware that they are, under the law, operating apartment houses," Judge McMahon said. "There seems to be a lack of cooperation between District officials in administering the law."

Area Leaders Named For Chest Campaign

Preparatory to the coming Community Chest campaign, the following area chairmen and secretaries were announced yesterday for the Metropolitan Unit:

Area 1, J. Bernard Wyckoff, United States Chamber of Commerce, chairman; Miss Edna Schneider, secretary. Area 2, Frank A. Birgfeld, chief clerk of the Treasury Department, chairman; Page Etchison, secretary. Area 3, Allen LeFord, wholesale provision dealer, chairman; Staff Capt. W. Herbert Bartlett of the Salvation Army, secretary. Area 4, George Keneipp, general manager of Call Carl, Inc., chairman, and A. Boyd Hinds, director of the Northeast Boys Club, secretary.
